SLAIN MAN'S NEIGHBOR HELD

Suspect's Mind Vague; Arrested After Holdup

A farmer-neighbor of Robert Stilley, 24-year-old Upper St. Clair Township farmer, whose body was found on the lawn of his home early yesterday, will be turned over to county detectives today for questioning in the murder.

Steve Bedner, 45, of R. F. D. No. 2, Bridgeville, was arrested by Mt. Lebanon police early this morning after he is alleged to have attempted to rob a couple in a parked car near Green Lantern Barb-e-que, Washington road.

DRUNK, SAYS CHIEF

Bedner, held incommunicado at Mt. Lebanon Police Station, according to Chief W. J. Kane, admitted he had been drunk since last Tuesday and can't account for his actions since that time, Chief Kane said.

Answering a telephone call from Ross Blodgett, proprietor of the Green Lantern, that a man had accosted a man and a woman at 2:45 a. m., police arrested Bedner 15 minutes later. He will be given a hearing tonight before Justice of the Peace Martin Weitzel, of Dormont.

County detectives continued their investigation into the death of Stilley, who was shot behind the right ear and robbed of $30, part of which was realized from the sale of farm produce at the farmers' market on the Monongahela wharf. He was shot down when he returned to his farm in his truck, between 1 and 2 a. m.

FINDING OF BODY

His body, stretched on the lawn near the house, was discovered by Mrs. Ella M. Stilley, his stepmother, when she looked out of her bedroom window.

Detectives are convinced he was murdered by some one familiar with the surroundings. They pointed out that three watchdogs near the farmhouse made no disturbance when the murder was committed, strengthening their deduction that the killer was recognized by the animals as a frequent visitor to the farm.

ENROLL VOTER IN WORKHOUSE

An effort to register a prisoner at the workhouse along with several hundred other phantom voters has been halted by county investigators.

Edward Otterson, of 1225 Palo Alto street, North Side, was sentenced to the workhouse for from two to four years on May 12, and is there now serving time, according to authorities.

On August 10, when special assessors were sitting in various parts of the city, a man representing himself as Edward Otterson, was assessed from the Palo Alto street address. Investigators under Leo A. Riordan discovered it, and the registration office has been notified to take the name off the books.

Several hundred other names from various parts of the city were also ordered stricken out.

SHIP FLASHES SOS AS GALE HITS CUBA

Second Tropical Storm Perils Porto Rico; Havana Alarmed

MIAMI, Fla., Sept. 1.—(AP.)—Attended by gales over a considerable area and winds of hurricane force near the center, a tropical storm today swept along the northern shore of Cuba, putting a British freighter in distress, while a second disturbance was reported near Porto Rico.

In a 10 a. m. advisory warning received by the Weather Bureau from Washington, the new disturbance was located as being central about 170 miles northeast of Porto Rico, moving west or northwestward. The advisory said it was of "at least moderate intensity."

Meantime, caught in the path of the first storm near Cayo Bahia Delcadiz, about 100 miles east of Havana, the freighter Josephine Gray broadcast an SOS saying it required "immediate assistance."

SWEPT BY SEAS

The message, intercepted by Tropical Radio here, said the ship's operator was unable to communicate with the bridge because of sea and wind.

Answering the Josephine Gray, the Steamship Athel-Foam promised assistance as soon as weather conditions permit her to proceed.

Accompanied by shifting gales over a considerable area and by winds of hurricane force near the center, the storm will pass near Havana early this afternoon, the Weather Bureau advises.

Cienfuegos, Cuba, reported a wind of 45 miles an hour, which indicated. Meteorologist G. S. Kennedy at Key West said, the storm would pass south of Key West.

Only slight winds were felt at Miami, the velocity reaching 22 miles an hour at 9:30 a. m.

The Josephine Gray left Jacksonville, Fla., for Havana August 16, and was under command of Capt. M. Proctor. The South Atlantic Steamship Company, the Josephine Gray's agents here, said she carried a crew of about 28 men. It was thought the ship

FLAMING TRUCK CRASHES BRIDGE

A truck loaded with 16 tons of steel billets sped down Marshall avenue today, its cabin in flames, and crashed into the Island Avenue Bridge. Traffic on the bridge was blocked for nearly two hours.

Walter Johnson, 34, of Erie, the driver, and John Herman, a helper, were uninjured. The truck is owned by the Moron Transfer Company, of Erie, and came from Dunkirk, N. Y.

Johnson said the truck got away when the brakes failed.

Several thousand persons were attracted to the accident by the noise of the crash and the fire.

Police arrested Johnson on a reckless driving charge. They said the bridge had been damaged about $200.

NRA Calls on Nation To 'Buy Now and Buy American' in Drive

'Spend a Dollar And Make a Job,' Leaders Here Say

Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—Plans for a nation-wide "Buy Now" campaign were being pressed today by the National Recovery Administration as the next step in the march to better times.

The 1,500,000 volunteer NRA workers now in the field for the strenuous week's drive enlisting the country under the Blue Eagle will be asked to remain for the September buying campaign, Hugh S. Johnson, industrial administrator, decided.

This is directly in line with the "Buy in September and Buy American" campaign being waged by the Hearst newspapers, which has received strong indorsement from Gen. Johnson.

WILL CARRY MESSAGE

These workers will carry to the nation the following message from the recovery chieftain:

"I have already told people to start buying and it was darn good advice.

"Buying in anticipation of a broad price advance is the most prudent and advisable thing to do.

NRA NERVOUS OVER COAL

By JOHN P. COWAN

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—Little progress was reported today by bituminous coal operators in their efforts to draft wage contracts and tonnage rates.

The threatened stalmate in the task to complete the coal code is reflected by nervous tension in NRA headquarters.

Gen Hugh S. Johnson, Recovery Administrator, learning of the delay, is exerting the full strength of his dictatorial powers to speed up the slothful conferees.

J. D. A. Morrow, president of the Pittsburgh Coal Company, said today that the operators' groups with their subordinate officials and technical advisors were "just about where they were yesterday."

'CAPTIVE MINES'

He added that the H. C. Frick company and representatives of other so-called "captive mines" were not participating in the conference on the miners' contracts, confirming the statement of Deputy Administrator E. K. (Copyright, 1933, by International News Service.)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—Henry Ford will offer to share his profits with his workers as a major feature of the code which he will make public shortly, it was learned authoritatively today.

The code also will contain wage increases ranging from 15 to 20 per cent, involving his approximately 40,000 workers.

Hugh S. Johnson, National Recovery Administrator, has failed so far to dissuade Ford from his desire to promulgate his own code, and has refused to permit him to submit a separate code.

Ford is ignoring further communications from the NRA and at the conclusion of his meeting with his advisers today is expected to continue to stand pat, according to private advices reaching Washington.

When the President's deadline expires next week, Ford is understood to be prepared to take his case to the country in a unique campaign that will match the administration's efforts, launched at the same time, to bring about public censure of his course.

Ford is said to be prepared to go even further in his efforts. His appeal to the public will be only the start. While his company will not take issue in open legal battle, it is understood Ford is watching this phase of the matter closely.

It is very likely, according to informed sources here, that the first real test of the legality of the NRA program will arise from Fords' present defiant position, though the Ford company will not challenge Johnson's authority directly in court.

The administration is reported to have prepared its legal battery for such an attack, from whatever quarter it arises. In the meantime, no matter which way the dispute ends, Ford expects not to suffer too much.

Chicago Gang Roundup Nets Capone's Brother

By GEORGE C. GALLATI

International News Service.

CHICAGO, Sept. 1.—Panic spread through gangland today as police and federal authorities launched a wholesale roundup of more than 134 public enemies, gunmen, hoodlums and thieves named in the new vagrancy law warrants.

Issuance of 59 additional warrants for public enemies by Judge Thomas Green sent police squads and federal agents into the known hideaways of the underworld on swift raids.

Their first prisoner was Edward (Spike) O'Donnell, South Side gang chieftain who has survived more than 10 years of warfare among the liquor mobs.

Three other notorious hoodlums were seized immediately afterward on the "reputation" warrants. They were O'Donnell's bodyguard, Sanford (Gimp) Rosebaum; Mathew Capone, youngest brother of the imprisoned Alphonse Capone, and Michael (Bubs) Quinlan, South Side beer runner. Quinlan was intoxicated when arrested.

The prisoners will face trial on vagrancy charges, on which they were held for $10,000 bonds. Conviction carries a term of six months in jail.

"Big shots" and the smaller fry alike were being turned over to Department of Justice authorities for questioning concerning recent kidnapings and major crimes.

Listed among the major hoodlums named in the warrants were George (Bugs) Moran, former enemy of Capone; William (Klondike) O'Donnell, Joe Saltis, South Side beer czar, and a coterie of Capone lieutenants including Lawrence Mangano, Frank Diamond, Charles Eischetti, Joe Fusco and the two Druggans, George and Willie.

The war on crime moved swiftly on another front as two murderers and five other criminals were convicted last night before the emergency staff of 11 Criminal Court judges.

Universal Service.

BERLIN, Sept. 1.—The German press has taken cognizance of Mr. William Randolph Hearst's open letter on necessity for American preparedness in the Pacific with headlines such as "Hearst Phophesies War With Japan," and "Hearst Warns of War."

This open letter has evoked extraordinary attention especially in official circles in Soviet Russia, where Far Eastern problems are preoccupying the governmental mind more than at any time since Japan began her occupation of Manchuria.

According to reports reaching Berlin through confidential channels, Russia is steadily shifting troops from her Western and Southwestern borders to her Far Eastern frontier, particularly large numbers of airplanes.

Storm Sweeps on Havana, 4,000 Natives Flee Village

HAVANA, Sept. 1.—(AP.)—A cyclonic disturbance, accompanied by 60 and 70-mile winds, moved along the northern Cuban coast today, driving inhabitants inland and wrecking communication lines.

Throughout Havana merchants boarded up their doors and reinforced their windows in the expectation that the city would be hit by the storm.

The Belen Observatory reported the storm was centered at 8:30 a. m. over Cardenas, 70 miles east of Havana. The observatory predicted the center of the disturbance probably would pass slightly north of the city.

Officials at the observatory expected high water all along the Malecon, the broad thoroughfare on the waterfront, and it was probable that that section of Havana would be flooded.

Storm warnings were raised over Havana Harbor at daybreak. The United Fruit ship Peten, scheduled to sail, remained here.

About 4,000 residents of Isabela, a fishing town, were taken inland aboard a special train of 17 cars which made three trips.

Jucaro, on the south coast, asked that a train be sent there to evacuate inhabitants when water reached a foot in the streets.

HURRICANE FEARED

As the morning wore on the observatories, which described the storm as a hurricane, said it apparently was increasing in intensity as it approached Havana. They announced that the danger was great, and all precautions were urged.

Sheets of rain were driven on the city by winds from the north.

Reports from Matanzas Province were that the barometer was dropping fast, with the winds reaching at estimated 60 miles an hour.

The liner Mauretania sent word that it was off Cape San Antonio awaiting news of the storm. The ship expects to enter the harbor tomorrow.

A tidal wave of unknown height was reported at Isabela and Caibarien, about 200 miles east of Havana on the north coast.

The Communications Department reported that another tidal wave had struck Varadera. The inhabitants had previously taken refuge in Cardenas.

250 MURDERS LAID TO NAZIS

International News Service.

LONDON, Sept. 1.—Laying blame for the Reichstag fire upon Chancellor Adolf Hitler's two foremost lieutenants and detailing 250 specific "murders" alleged to have been committed by the Nazi regime in Germany, a committee headed by Prof. Albert Einstein today published its review of the "crimes" of the Hitler government.

It is in the form of a book entitled "The Brown Book of the Hitler Terror." Prof. Einstein's committee is called "The World Committee for the Victims of German Fascism."

The book alleges Dr. Paul Joseph Goebbels, Minister of Propaganda in Berlin, planned the burning of the Reichstag Building last February in a plot to make it appear the work of Communists, and Hermann Wilhelm Goering, Premier of Prussia and Speaker of the Reichstag, carried it out.

Many photographs, some of dead and dying persons, are printed in connection with alleged beating, torture and killing of Nazi foes.

HITLER ADMITS HE RULES BY HYPNOTISM

Nazi Chief Upholds Brutality at Great Congress of Party

By WALTER DIETZEL
International News Service.

NUREMBERG, Germany, Sept. 1—"We have hypnotized the masses into the fanatical belief they are the savior of the fatherland," Adolf Hitler declared in a proclamation read to the opening formal session of the great Nazi party congress today.

In the proclamation, addressed to his party leaders gathered from all over the country, Chancellor Hitler declared that "the opposition's terror is not overcome by an appeal to the intelligence, but by the instinct of hearts."

UPHOLDS BRUTALITY

Despite his frand admission he had "hypnotized the masses," Hitler declared the Nazi program must necessarily be sound in principle, saying:

"Woe to us if the opposition were to arise with better principles and logic.

"Brutally applied power can do much, but in the long run we are safe only if we are unassailable in logic and idea."

Amid thunderous cheers, the greetings of Premier Mussolini of Italy were given to the Congress by Prof. Marpicati, member of the Italian Fascist Grand Council who, with Minister Bottai, also of the council, were among the foreign guests.

Standing before the great audience attired in the black shirt of Italian fascism, Prof. Marpicati declared:

"Il Duce hopes the Congress will be another step toward spreading Fascist ideas throughout the world."

DEFENDS RACE POLICY

Dr. Alfred Rosenberg, director of Nazi foreign press propaganda, delivered a speech in which he attempted to vindicate the Nazi anti-Semitic policy. He said:

"If the world does not recognize our aims, it is because it does not know the causes of our problems.

"There is no persecution of the Jews. We merely restored the status quo because the Jews had an overwhelming influence in all branches of public life."

The congress was opened in the giant festival hall here, jammed to the doors with 15,000 delegates, with a speech by Rudolf Hess, assistant party leader.

Hess welcomed the foreign guests, stressing Germany's desire for peace and asserting the Nazi storm troopers were merely "political soldiers."

Ex-Kaiser May Return To Germany, Says Prince

By CHARLES L. FLICK

NUREMBERG, Sept. 1.—The former ruler of Germany, Kaiser Wilhelm II, may end his exile in Holland and return to Germany some day, one of his sons disclosed.

Prince August Wilhelm, fourth son of the ex-sovereign, made this statement yesterday in the course of an interview in which he gave some confirmation to reliable reports that President von Hindenburg is planinng to "bequeath" Germany to a Hohenzollern prince regent, thus preparing the way for restoration of the monarchy.

Prince August Wilhelm, an ardent Nazi, is the only Hohenzollern to appear so far at the Nazi party congress here. Asked if the former kaiser is likely to return to Germany, Prince August Wilhelm replied:

"His return would be inopportune at the present time, but perhaps he will return later when things are more settled in Germany."

GORDON READY TO ANNOUNCE BAD BANKS

72 Restricted Houses Get Warning as First Reopens

HARRISBURG, Sept. 1.—(AP.)—Dr. William D. Gordon, Secretary of Banking, today gave Pennsylvania's 72 restricted state banks 30 more days to show that they are making real efforts to reorganize for full operation.

In his ultimatum, the banking secretary said that between now and September 30 he will announce the names of those institutions "which clearly have demonstrated their inability to successfully reorganize for the conduct of a regular banking business." He added:

"Obviously, such institutions must be taken into possession by the Department of Banking for liquidation."

The state banking system moved nearer normalcy today with the resumption of unrestricted operations by the Lykens Valley Bank of Elizabethville, first of 73 restricted banks in the state to be given the right to do so.

In the meantime, the period during which other restricted banks may complete plans for reorganization has been extended from September 8 to December 1 by proclamation of Gov. Pinchot.

Secretary Gordon said:

"It should be emphasized that the Governor's proclamation does not grant any institution authority to continue to operate on a restricted basis for any period beyond that determined by the Secretary of banking.

"It must be candidly reiterated that I, as Secretary of Banking, have neither the power nor the right to reopen the banks which cannot help themselves. Moreover, to continue to permit this latter group to indefinitely operate under this special aid would be unjust to the depositors.

"With this extension each restricted institution will have ample time to demonstrate its ability to reorganize, and for those not meeting the standards prescribed, possession and liquidation will be the only alternative."

JAPS DENY WAR WORK IN ISLES

TOKIO, Sept. 1.—(AP.)—The Navy Office today handed vernacular newspapers a mimeographed statement denying accusations that Japanese harbor works in the mandated Pacific Islands were providing bases which would be useful to the Navy in war time.

These accusations were said to have come from American sources and were tied in with the recent announcement of Admiral William Harrison Standley, chief of naval operations, that the United States Atlantic fleet would remain in the Pacific indefinitely.

The Navy Office statement said:

"Japanese improvements in the Pacific Islands are only what is necessary for commercial exploitation and are entirely lacking in military purpose.

"Those islands are Japanese territory and Japan has full right to push their peaceful exploitation, regardless of the interference of any other power."

AIR RACES OPEN IN CHICAGO

CHICAGO, Sept. 1.—(AP.)—Speed records hung in the balance today as the International Air Races got under way at the Curtis-Wright-Reynolds Air Field with a varied program that will have for one of its features the start of the James Gordon Bennett Balloon Race.

Final qualifying tests were scheduled for this morning before the expected arrival of 18 Army planes from Selfridge Field, Mich., marking the official opening of the races. Two 50-mile races and stunting exhibitions and parachute jumping were on the program for the balance of the day.

During yesterday's qualifying trials, Art Chester, Joliet, Ill., pilot, narrowly escaped injury when he failed to lower the retractable landing gear while making a hasty descent after his fuel line broke and the ship caught fire. However, damages were slight.

BLAMES OTHERS IN DEATH OF FAMILY OF 4

Universal Service.

AKRON, O., Sept. 1.—A feminine Sherlock Holmes, working tirelessly to gather evidence which will free her husband of the charge of the "poison picnic" murder of a family of four in Arkansas last month, Mrs. Geraldine Shank yesterday voiced her belief that her husband, now in jail in Little Rock, Ark., is shielding others responsible for the crime.

In an exclusive interview with Universal Service, the wife of Mark Shank, accused murderer of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Colley and two of their children, hinted at a deep-laid plot of which her husband was the innocent victim. She said:

"There is more to this story than has ever been told. There are people who know things, who have no backbone, who would see a man suffer—an innocent man who thinks enough of these others not to implicate them."

'ONE-MAN POLICE FORCE'

The grief-stricken young wife, who drove night and day from her Akron home to the Little Rock Jail to comfort her husband at the time of his arrest, believes implicitly in his innocence, and is determined to prove it, if she has to act as a one-man detective force. She went on:

"Mark always has been kind and has never given me cause to doubt him. On the night he left here, he was cheerful. If anything like this had been on his mind, I would have known it.

"Mark is too intelligent to plan a thing like he is accused of, and he wouldn't even kill an old dog that we have here at home.

"I did not know that he was being blackmailed by Colley, whom Mark had befriended in every way, allowing him free rent in one of our houses, helping him to feed and clothe his family and letting him buy gasoline in his name."

KNOWS HE'S INNOCENT

Under a physician's care, Mrs. Shank is determinedly working on her husband's defense. She charged that the alleged confession of Shank, in which he is said to have admitted putting poison in canned meat eaten by the Colley family while all of them were motoring through Arkansas, was obtained by third-degree methods.

Unshaken in her loyalty, she said:

"I have one consolation. He told me he is innocent, and I am confident he is telling the truth, for we love one another too much to mistrust each other."

TRAPPED DEER MUST USE SPAN

WATKINS GLEN, N. Y., Sept. 1.—(AP.)—Rescuers threw up their hands today and served an ultimatum on a buck deer trapped on a narrow ledge above a gorge.

In effect, they said:

"Use the bridge or perish."

The 25-foot improvised bridge, flung across the chasm in the hope the deer would cross it, remained the sole means of getting the animal down alive, officials explained.

They are sure it will leap to death in a torrential stream 200 feet below if rescuers approach it. Its mate made the death jump when dogs chased them both over a cliff to the ledge seven days ago.

The bride was camouflaged with hemlock boughs and moss to look as natural as possible, but so far the buck has refused to set foot on it. When an Indian chief was lowered on a rope to lassoo it, the animal became so frightened that officials called off the attempt.

The drama of wild life which is being enacted in Watkins Glen State Park is drawing the largest crowds in the history of the glen.

International News Service.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Sept. 1.—Two highwaymen early today held up Dr. Stanley Mulholland and his wife, Mrs. Florence Mulholland, of Springfield, O., near here, robbed them of their automobile and money and left them standing on the roadside, with the physician stripped of all his clothing.

The bandits sped toward Louisville, one driving the Mulholland car and the other their own. The holdup was staged on a steep hill, 20 miles south of here.

The Mulhollands were en route from Nashville, Tenn., when suddenly the bandit car crowded them off the road. Quickly covering the couple, the robbers compelled the physician to remove his clothing, threw it into one of the cars, took their money and drove off.

SLEEP MALADY TOLL JUMPS

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 1.—(AP.)—During the last week the mysterious outbreak of encephalitis, or "sleeping sickness," has taken more lives and affected nearly as many persons as it did in the first three and a half weeks that it gripped this district.

Twenty-seven deaths and 185 cases were attributed to the disease during the last seven days, as compared with a total of 53 fatalities and 399 cases since the malady took its first victim on July 30.

Six deaths were reported in the last 24 hours, as compared with two the previous day, while 37 additional cases have been diagnosed as "sleeping sickness."

Although believed out of danger, Robert Cunliffe, 9-year-old victim of sleeping sickness, which has claimed the lives of two children here, will be kept at South Side Hospital a few days for observation.

The second victim of the disease here was Margaret Johnston, 12, of 1220 Wade avenue, Aliquippa. Her death occurred yesterday in Mercy Hospital. William Clough, 15, of Chicago, died in South Side Hospital on Monday.

FINE WEALTHY HEIR FOR BLOW

International News Service.

BOSTON, Sept. 1.—Edward S. Hutchinson, 23, Harvard student and millionaire grandson of a partner of J. P. Morgan, was found guilty in Municipal Court yesterday on a charge of assault and battery upon Mrs. Beatrice Bacon, and was fined $50.

Hutchinson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sidney E. Hutchinson, of Philadelphia and Beverly Farms, appealed, and was released in bail of $100.

The charges against young Hutchinson grew out of a merry evening on August 6, when he and Edmund T. Sylvester, 22, of Hamilton, a student at Massachusetts Institute of Technology, had a few cocktails at a speakeasy, and then wandered into the wrong apartment while searching for Miss Violet Miller, whom they had visited a short while before.

Hutchinson was alleged to have struck Mrs. Bacon with his fist when she informed him he was in the wrong place.

DUMBAULD, NEW U. S. ATTORNEY, TAKES OATH

Aides Named as Five Under Graham Quit Federal Posts

In a court room crowded with friends and banked with flowers, H. S. Dumbauld, of Uniontown, today became United States attorney for Western Pennsylvania, and J. Hilary Keenan, of Greensburg, United States marshal for the same district.

R. M. Gibson, presiding judge of the Federal District Court, administered the oath of office to the two men. Dumbauld's commission was handed to Judge Gibson by William N. McNair, Democratic candidate for Mayor; Keenan's by Richard D. Laird, Greensburg attorney.

D. Lloyd Claycomb, of Altoona, and J. R. Spiegel, of Greensburg, were named as Dumbauld's first and second assistants.

ASSISTANTS RESIGN

It was announced that Dumbauld had accepted the resignations of assistant United States Attorneys Raymond Evans, Zeno Fritz, Lloyd Bryan, James H. Dilley and Robert B. McKinley. They take effect September 11.

Dumbauld succeeds Louis E. Graham, of Beaver. Graham, who served three years 10 months, will return to Beaver to resume his private law practice.

Assistant William J. Aiken was retained until October 1, and First Assistant James I. Marsh until the completion of the election fraud cases he is engaged on.

Keenan announced that, pursuant to orders from Washington he had dropped one deputy marshal, Thomas J. McFarland, in the interest of economy.

Dumbauld's departure from Uniontown for Pittsburgh was marked yesterday by a series of festivities in his honor in his home city. At noon he was honor guest at a luncheon at which the Rev. Dr. William Blake presented him with a brief case, while last night Fayette County Democratic leaders paid him honor at a banquet.

Among the speakers were Attorney Charles F. Uhl, of Somerset; Judge Davis W. Henderson, of the Fayette County Court; former Congressman Wooda N. Carr and Congressman J. Buell Snyder.

TUB DEATH CAS SCIENTISTS IN CONFLICT

Defense Testimony Hit By Surprise Witness' Murder Evidence

SAN JOSE, Cal., Sept. 1.—(AP.)—The battle of scientists over physical evidence in the trial here of David A. Lamson on charges of murdering his wife, Allene, continues today with the prospect of its becoming more intense.

It started when the prosecution produced as a surprise witness Dr. A. W. Meyer, head of the anatomy department of Stanford University, whose testimony tended to support the state's contention the attractive young matron was bludgeoned to death with a 10-inch length of iron pipe in the Lamson cottage on the Stanford campus last May 30.

In contrast with testimony by autopsy surgeons earlier in the trial, Dr. Meyer said the wounds in Mrs. Lamson's skull could have been "easily produced" by the pipe.

EARLIER TESTIMONY

Dr. Milton Saier and Dr. Blake Wilbur, the latter a son of Dr. Ray Lyman Wilbur, president of Stanford, previously had testified the pipe could have produced the wounds but that "considerable force" would have been necessary.

Answering a question evidently aimed at defense intimations Mrs. Lamson's death might have been accidental, Dr. Mayer said she would have had to fall down four times to produce the wounds he found. He added he also had discovered hemorrhages which were missed by the autopsy surgeons and which had been caused by "tugging on the hair."

Dr. Frederick Proescher, county pathologist, confirmed Dr. Meyer's statement as to the cause of the hemorrhages and added "they were made before Mrs. Lamson's death."

CHARRED BLOOD

Dr. Proescher testified he found evidence of charred blood on the length of pipe, which was taken from a bonfire Lamson had been tending the morning of the tragedy. Also there was evidence of blood on the pieces of cloth which were found in the fire, he said. He added he was positive the blows could have been inflicted by the pipe and said "one blow would have caused her death."

DESERT CLAIMS 16 LIVES

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 1.—(AP.)—Sixteen persons have perished this year in the southwestern desert country from heat and thirst.

Five victims were found yesterday south of Mexicali, Lower California. After an investigation authorities at Phoenix decided Gus C. A. Donohoe died of thirst and discarded a pervious theory that the 48-year-old Southgate, Cal., resident had been slain.

A woman, two children and two men died near Mexicali. Their motorcar apparently stalled on the lonely San Felipe road.

The victims were Elisa Huerta, about 35; Ruperto, her son, 5; Amelia, infant daughter of M Rosa Ahumada; Francisco Lu about 40, and Eliseo Ram about 35.

Mrs. Ahumada and a 9-year son of Mrs. Huerta were f near death in the automobil two Mexican fishermen who them to a municipal hospit Mexicali.

Raise Funds for Medal For Huey's Socker

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—(AP.)—Plans for raising funds to strike off a gold medal for the man who bruised Senator Huey Long's eye, announced in jest, received such a response that they were taken up in earnest today.

Owen P. White, author, southern gentleman and grizzled plainsman, who suggested the move, said he had received so many contributions that he would go through with it.

After conferring with an artist, White said the medal would show a Kingfish, wearing a black eye and boxing gloves, and reclining in a washstand.

The original of the medal will be held in reserve for the man who struck the Louisiana Senator, if he ever emerges from anonymity. If his identity is not established, the medal will be offered to the Sands Point Club on Long Island, where the incident occurred, for its trophy room.

Cheaper copies, made of bronze, will be sold to the public and the proceeds turned over to the committee of New Orleans women headed by Mrs. Hilda Phelps Hammond which is organizing a nation-wide campaign for Long's ouster from the Senate.

Senator Long, at New Orleans, characterized Mrs. Hammond's committee as an organization of "ousted politicians hiding behind the skirts of women.'

Lindy Treated Like King By Danish Sovereign

Universal Service.

COPENHAGEN, Sept. 1.—Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh were twice the guests of royalty yesterday, and were accorded treatment almost similar to the honors given reigning sovereigns. Their hosts were King Christian, of Denmark, and Crown Prince Gustav Adolf, of Sweden.

Only last night when the Lindberghs had returned from their visit with the Swedish Crown Prince did Denmark learn of the sudden and dramatic character of the Lindbergh audience with Denmark's ruler.

Early yesterday morning, King Christian and his family arrived at the Royal Palace, ending their vacation. The King suddenly decided he wanted to see the flying Colonel and his wife, and sent a messenger to their hotel.

The Lindberghs were preparing to visit the Swedish crown prince but since the messenger bor what amounted to a royal com mand, they had first to visit the royal palace at Amalienb Org where they were received with al most royal honors, and chatted informally with the King and Queen for a half hour.

Then, after a last look upon Denmark at Elsinore, fortified seaport which Shakespeare made the scene of "Hamlet," the Lindbergh ferried to Halsingborg, where th crown prince's automobile to them to the summer palace at fiero, where they lunched with prince.

LFARE LACKS SUFFICIENT FUNDS

The Welfare Fund can no longer operate on the deflated budget of the last two years in the face of increasing need, according to a summary issued to a group of the committee members making plans for the 1933 campaign.

Both the Children's Service Bureau and the Children's Aid Society were forced to cease the acceptance of new cases ast month because the Welfare Fund lacked money for them, the report states.

In the face of an increase in cost of minimum food for a family of five from $4.67 to $5.77, no increase in the per capita 90 per cent allowance for food has been made. The Public Health Nursing Association reported an alarming increase in malnutrition and resultant ailments among children. It foresaw a tragic aftermath in later years from this condition.

The Family Society, it is reported, has been forced to overdraw its budget allotment from the Welfare Fund by $25,000 during the first part of this year. State relief, it is emphasized, does not yet include rent, clothing or medical care.

Welfare and social workers see only one remedy—greatly increased contributions by the public.

Short Cut to U. S. Loan Found by Busy Official

BOSTON, Sept. 1.—(AP.)—Joseph W. Bartlett, Newton City solicitor, was quite satisfied with himself today.

As solicitor, he drew up and signed Newton's application for a $630,000 federal loan. As chairman of the State Emergency Finance Board, which must approve municipal applications for federal aid, he promptly turned the application over to himself.

And then, with a minimum of red tape, he hastened to declare the papers in proper order and, just to complete the round of cheery self-service, filed them with the same Joseph W. Bartlett for a hearing.

NRA PLEDGES REJECTED BY 100 WOMEN

The NRA Blue Eagle has encountered its first open opposition by 100 housewives who refused to sign consumers' pledges in the house-to-house canvass of 40,000 homes in the East End district. The drive was completed today by 400 volunteer women workers, according to A. Patrick Flood, secretary of the East Liberty Chamber of Commerce.

This reaction came as a surprise to officials of the local recovery campaign committee, which will launch the main consumers' pledge drive next week. They had just expressed confidence that the Blue Eagle campaign in Pittsburgh's downtown business section would be completed with a near-perfect response from the 1,400 non-code signers among employers.

FINAL REPORTS TODAY

Final reports on the NRA "sales" drive by 500 businessmen will be made at 4 p. m. today in the Chamber of Commerce auditorium.

Arguments presented by housewives who refused to bring their households under the wings of the Blue Eagle were principally that it would cost too much or that their husbands would lose their jobs, according to Secretary Flood. He said the Chamber of Commerce was preparing to send letters to them asking for a better understanding of the recovery program.

THIRTEEN TEAMS WORK

Thirteen teams of "salesmen" will complete their two-day canvass of downtown employers today under the leadership of K. H. Beck, W. P. Remele, E. J. Fairfield, J. I. Alexander, W. S. Redpath, E. E. Keeler, R. B. Horner, F. J. Holub, J. R. A. Mulligan, K. A. Taylor, A. A. Osterman, Stretrett L. Clark and G. M. Applegate.

Four hundred and six additional employers yesterday signed NRA pledges, bringing the total signers to 18,279.

Executives of Pittsburgh radio stations yesterday agreed to accept an approved code of fair competition for the industry, under which they will not reduce their hours of operation, not employ anyone under 16, except as talent for not more than three hours a day, and, with exceptions, not to require more than 40 hours' work a week from employes.

Executives attending yesterday's code meeting were Frank R. Smith, WWSW; H. J. Brennan and Robert M. Thompson, WJAS and KQV; J. L. Kaufman, WCAE, and William S. Hedges, KDKA.

UNION IN STEEL PLANT SOUGHT

The Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers, affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, held a mass meeting in Natrona last night to unionize labor.

G. G. Hough, union organizer, said the objective is to elevate members to a higher standard of living and to obtain by conciliation or by other just means a fair remuneration to its members for their labor.

He said the association is endeavoring to enlist in its ranks 75 per cent of the laboring men of the Allegheny Steel Company.

Hough told more than 600 men who packed the town hall:

"As the government at this time has made it possible for all workers to organize, it is our duty as workers to get back of the government, and do our part by organizing all men working for the Allegheny Steel Company."

He said reports had been brought to him of unfair wages said to be paid by the company.

The Rev. Father C. F. Orlemanski, of Natrona, said:

"You must fight and organize to win your rights. Union and organization is the remedy of industry."

Other speakers were the Rev. J. E. Lutz and the Rev. F. O. Christopher.

PITTSBURGH'S PLAN STUDIED

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—Policies suggested by the leading merchants of Pittsburgh today are receiving consideration from the NRA in view of probable final action on the retail code next week.

Edgar J. Kaufmann, who presented the Pittsburgh plan at the hearings, upon leaving here said that he expected to return on September 6 for further discussion of the code. He said:

"Pittsburgh merchants, particularly as represented by the department store group, have evolved a policy of 'live and let live' in their ideas for a code and I am not so sure that it will be acceptable to the NRA. We believe that the retail code should be written for the community storekeeper and so-called small merchants.

"After all, there are only 4,000 department stores in the country compared with a total of 1,500,000 retailers. We believe that the larger merchants should adjust their machinery to suit conditions which the NRA may impose to enable the smaller merchant to carry on. We are urging our plan because of our belief that it will benefit the greatest number of merchants and the community as a whole."

NRA We Do Our Part

A NERVOUS OVER COAL CODE

claimed as a crowning success on labor's holiday, and the belief is expressed that no effort will be spared toward giving its public announcement every possible dramatic setting.

For the next three days President Roosevelt will be cruising within easy hailing distance off the Atlantic Coast in Vincent Astor's yacht "Nourmahal" and it would not surprise those familar with NRA tactics to see the coal code carried out in a seaplane for the President's final approval and have his announcement come by wireless as a Labor Day message.

Meanwhile, the NRA sent word to the anthracite coal industry today to hurry along its competition code.

Deputy Administrator Kenneth M. Simpson had his coal adviser, James H. Pearce, do the notifying.

Simpson said he understood the anthracite code was nearly ready and probably would be presented the first of next week.

Johnson Shaken By Cates' Resignation

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—(AP.)—Resignation of Dudley Cates as assistant industrial administrator and the continued hesitancy of Henry Ford toward aligning himself with the NRA movement were predominant topics today as a pre-holiday lull settled over the Recovery Administration.

The leader of the hitherto hard-working forces, Hugh S. Johnson, was reported by associates to be much shaken by the Cates departure. His erstwhile lieutenant, meanwhile, straightened out routine matters preparatory to actually leaving because of marked differences between him and Johnson on labor policies under the NRA.

SCORES ARRANGEMENT

The Chicago insurance executive, in a memorandum to Johnson, declared that the entire labor organization scheme is poorly adapted to the aims of the Recovery Administration.

He proposed to scrap general unions such as are bound in the American Federation of Labor and install vertical unions for each industry. The company union, limited to an individual factory, is doomed by the law, Cates said.

Cates also opposed the President's entire re-employment agreement plan, adopted as a short-cut to bring all business under the Blue Eagle.

There still was no communication as to what Henry Ford would do or say, if anything, before the effective date of the auto code next Tuesday.

CODE DEADLINE

Today, the deadline for submission of permanent codes, administrators counted around 600 such agreements in hand and definite expectation of several more soon.

A regulation issued a month ago provided that for all industrial groups which had not come forward with codes by September 1, the NRA would set code hearing dates regardless. However, with all basic industrial units either under codes or about to have agreements completed and with the bulk of codes awaiting hearing, the call to non-responding industries was not expected to begin immediately.

Johnson stayed away from his office until late in the day, combining rest with preparations of the speech he is to deliver Labor Day in Chicago.

Meanwhile the National Labor Board, with a number of labor disturbances to adjust, was the busiest unit. Under its chairman, Senator Wagner, of New York, it considered policy questions and investigated further the hosiery strike situation at Philadelphia and elsewhere.

LABOR RENEWS AUTO CODE WAR

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—(AP.)—A new attack was made yesterday by NRA's labor advisory board upon the automobile code's clause calling for hiring and firing on a merit basis after it had been found that 29 additional industries were seeking to adopt the same language.

William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor and acting chairman of the board, in a statement declared:

"This clause will rise to plague the NRA in the working of any code where its insertion is permitted.

"Efficiency and merit are fine words, and the board's opposition is misrepresented into implying that we would protect the inefficient. This is the revival of an ancient slander on organized labor. Also it signals something more important for the NRA.

"We foresee this clause excerpted from the code and posted up in factories by recalcitrant employers, as it is countersigned by the administrator and the President, and pointed to as the justification for hiring and firing, promoting and demoting, as the employer pleases.

"Among the industries now so keen for this clause are the very ones that in the past have decimated their labor forces to root out union men, all in the name of individual merit."

Woll Supports Appeal to Buy In September

Leaders of the nation have rallied to the call of the Hearst newspapers for a September buying campaign to support the national recovery program. Wide approval was expressed of the first page editorial published last Sunday in Hearst newspapers throughout the country.

Labor union executives were especially responsive to the call. They emphasized the necessity of adequate consumption to support the re-employment of millions of workers under proper conditions of shorter hours and high wages.

Matthew Woll, vice president of the American Federation of Labor and one of its representatives on the New York City NRA, led the way. His views follow:

By MATTHEW WOLL
Vice President, American Federation of Labor.

I have read with keen interest the editorial published last Sunday in the New York American and other Hearst newspapers.

It is a splendid statement of American patriotism. It is timely. It appeals alike to altruism and to self-interest.

The recovery program needs the support of every man, woman and child among America's 130,000,000 people. Every one is a consumer, hence to that extent is a purchaser. Not everyone is an employer. Not everyone is an employe. A consumers' enlistment in the NRA is all-inclusive.

The Hearst papers have struck not only the right note, but a whole chord of inspiring notes. They have asked that the public buy in September. They have asked that we all buy to the best of our ability. They have asked that we buy under the Blue Eagle.

But the great, strong note struck is one that some others have forgotten. It thrilled me to read in capital type:

"Buy the goods and products of America's workers."

That was a touch characteristic of Mr. Hearst and the Hearst newspapers. And it is in keeping with the whole long record of patriotism of the Hearst press.

In this day when every nation is seeking to develop a self-sufficient economic nationalism, it deserves the emphasis the Hearst newspapers have put upon it.

I heartily indorse the sentiments expressed in this great editorial, enthusiastically support the program that it sets forth, and will use my influence among the workers to insure so far as I can that all will follow in the paths the editorial has thus pointed out.

The National Recovery program, as the Hearst papers so well point out, was necessarily conceived in haste and might possibly have been improved. But I agree with him, also, that it offers "field and scope for the immediate functioning of the recuperative powers which our people possess in such abundance."

A response to the call for September buying may well be the measure in which it has enlisted the support of the whole people. Certainly by buying now, and in quantity, we can furnish a substantial basis for wider employment and better living conditions. So, I echo, with enthusiasm, the call—

"Let the nation go a-shopping."

EMPLOYMENT GAINS 10 PCT.

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—(AP.)—An increase of 10.2 per cent in employment in July over June was reported by the National Industrial Conference Board in its monthly survey of wages, employment and hours of work.

This is the largest monthly percentage gain in employment in the 13 years covered by the board's studies in this field. The July advance was shown to be the fourth successive monthly improvement. Employment gained in July in all except one of the 25 leading industries covered by the survey. The board stated:

"Even more impressive is the increase of 14.1 per cent in man-hours worked in July as compared with June. It is possible for employment to advance without any increase in volume of work performed and with a decrease in average earnings, as was demonstrated during the period of widespread work-sharing a year ago.

"Now, however, the fact that man-hours increased by an even larger percentage than employment indicates that not only were over 10 per cent more persons employed in July than in June, in the plants covered by the survey, but all of those employed were working substantially longer hours."

NRA LAUNCHING HUGE BUYING CAMPAIGN

if prices keep going up, Johnson said:

"Eventually that may be the case. Meanwhile, we are trying to get a real upward cycle started and when we do, I think it will continue from its own impetus."

'Spend a Dollar, Make A Job,' Leaders Urge

A call to buy—"to spend a dollar and make a job"—was sounded by labor leaders, Pittsburgh officials of the Recovery Board, representatives of industry and business today.

"Buy in September" was advocated as the "foundation upon which recovery is based."

The movement was indorsed here by James C. Chaplin, president of the Colonial Trust Company; Wilson K. Ray, executive secretary, Pittsburgh district Recovery Board, National Recovery Administration; P. J. McGrath, secretary of the Central Labor Union; Malcolm Goldsmith, merchant member of the district board; B. H. Rodeniser, dairy company head, and Frank C. Harper, secretary-manager of the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce.

The drive to buy in September met the approval of leaders everywhere. It will be pursued in connection with the consumers' canvass, when, beginning next Tuesday, several thousand women, members of the NRA auxiliary, will visit every home and business, Mr. Harper said, to get pledges to patronize those who fly the Blue Eagle.

Mr McGrath commented:

Everybody should approve heartily of such a movement at this time. Buy surely, but preferably where the NRA eagle is displayed."

Mr. Ray said:

"Increased purchasing power! Those three words describe the immediate objective of the National Recovery Administration. Every employer who has signed the President's re-employment agreement and is operating under its terms is doing his part to provide his old and new employes with more money to spend.

"Employes who are receiving the benefit of the increasing payrolls have as an important a part to play in the recovery drive as have the employers.

"That part is to 'spend now' and turn loose the purchasing power which is being created.

"Not to spend foolish or extravagantly, but wisely; not only to care for the immediate necessities of life, but where possible to satisfy many of the desires which have necessarily been pushed aside during the past few years of either no incomes at all or at best sadly depleted ones.

"Any newspaper or other agency which endeavors to increase buying is doing its community and the nation a most valuable service."

Mr. Chaplin, who is also a member of the district recovery board, said:

"Any movement that will cause a distribution of money is good, whether it be in September or later.

"We must come out of the depression that has existed. The President is doing everything in his power to bring this about. Therefore, start in September and keep it up."

Secretary Harper commented:

"Spending now, buying now is essential to the success of national recovery. Furthermore, it is good business to buy in a period of rising prices.

"Now the buyer and seller have a common interest in the stimulation of business. Liberal buying is the foundation on which the recovery act rests."

Malcolm Goldsmith, member of the district recovery board, and a Braddock and McKeesport merchant, said:

"The success of President Roosevelt's and Gen. Johnson's plans to end the depression depends on substantial rises in wages and commodity prices. The past two months have shown steady advances and the application of the code to various businesses will bring further increases in operating costs.

"Persons buying now can be assured positively of very substantial savings as compared with the prices that will prevail a month or two hence."

B. H. Rodeniser, dairy company vice president and retail sales manager, said:

"Everybody should do his part, especially for the next 30 days, in order to get more money in circulation. It is a duty to spend in order to help business.

"I believe that everybody should BUY NOW when prices are down, for it will help both those who sell and those who buy."

Johnson Backs Nation-Wide Buying Campaign

By GEN HUGH S. JOHNSON,
National Recovery Administrator
Written Expressly for Universal Service

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—Reports received at a conference of the men in charge of the President's re-employment program in 10 principal cities of the United States exceed our expectations.

They indicate a practically unanimous compliance and leave no doubt that, by the end of this week in those cities, at least 95,708 employers will be under the Blue Eagle.

Reports from the same source on increased employment and increased business are equally encouraging. The expectation was general that immediately after Labor Day this country will witness a marked forward surge in business.

It is the purpose of NRA about September 15 to engage in a nation-wide educational campaign to encourage immediate and universal buying, not as a gesture and not on the basis of patriotic appeal—but because buying, in anticipation of a broad price advance, is the most prudent and advisable thing to do.

I commend the Hearst newspapers for their patriotic campaign urging the people to "Buy in September."

There is no question now of universal enthusiastic reception of the Blue Eagle and all that it stands for. We are on our way out of what the President called "four years of economic hell."

Cost of Framing Coal Code Put At $250,000

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—(AP.)—One bituminous coal man asked another yesterday what he thought the industry's expense account for negotiating its code or fair competition would amount to.

They made a few rough calculations and guessed a quarter of a million dollars.

That, they said, included executives' salaries, plane and train fares, hotel bills, long distance 'phone charges, taxi fares, meals, tips and the like.

The first coal code conference was held here early in June, even before the Industrial Recovery Act was passed. There have been few days since then that have not seen one or more meetings.

ORDER 37 MORE NAVY VESSELS

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—(AP.)—Secretary Swanson today signed contracts for 37 vessels to be constructed out of the $238,000,000 allotted the Navy from public works funds and congressional appropriations.

He also named the vessels, 21 to be constructed in private shipbuilding yards and 16 in Navy yards. He named two other vessels under construction.

"I hope this is the beginning of a treaty Navy—a Navy built to the limits of the London naval treaty and second to none," he commented.

"The President has acted generously with the Navy and thinks that we should not only have a good Navy, but that work should be given through naval construction."

Names of cities were assigned to vessels of the cruiser and gunboat classes, names of famous battles and of vessels of earlier days to aircraft carriers, names of distinguished naval officers and heroic enlisted men to destroyers and names of inhabitants of the deep to fleet submarines.

Miners Meet in Cave, Vote for Picketing

GALLUP, N. M., Sept. 1.—(AP.)—Forbidden by martial law from assembling more than five persons in one gathering, striking coal miners were reported to have met secretly last night in a cave just over the Arizona line and voted to continue "peaceful picketing."

It was disclosed that 21-year-old Martha Roberts, wife of one of the strike leaders, exhorted the several hundred strikers to maintain their pickets.

The strikers seek wage and hours adjustments and recognition of union committees.

NRA, or Cupid, Starts Altar Rush Here

A big increase in marriage licenses in August as compared with the same month last year is reported by the Allegheny County Marriage License Bureau.

Officials were uncertain whether it was the NRA, more activity at the steel mills or just efficient work by Dan Cupid, but the month saw 817 licenses granted. In August of 1932, there were 608.

In the first eight months of this year, 4,664 couples received licenses. In the same period last year there were 4,124.

AUTOIST HURT, WIFE, MEN HELD

STEUBENVILLE, O., Sept. 1.—(AP.)—Two Pittsburgh men and Mrs. Belle Stoner, 22, of New York City, were held for investigation by police here today after a serious injury was suffered by her husband, Harry, 27.

Mrs. Stoner, and the other men, Baxter Harrell, 23, of Stockton avenue, and John Daley, 28, of Robinson street, told authorities their automobile swerved off the William Penn highway, east of here yesterday, while they were en route from Columbus to Pittsburgh, and that they went on for several miles before they discovered Stoner was missing.

OIL INDUSTRY WAITS PRICE FIXING

By PAUL C. YATES
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—The federal government today stood on the threshold of its greatest price-fixing experiment, involving the $15,000,000,000 oil industry.

With the oil code scheduled to become effective tomorrow, Secretary of the Interior Ickes, petroleum "czar," met with his planning and co-ordinating committee to give the price-fixing provisions a final overhauling.

RETAIL PRICES

Ickes revealed that the committee, numbering 15, has taken under consideration the fixing of retail gasoline prices. He indicated however, that anticipated changes would deal mainly with prices of crude oil and tank car gasoline, and with the allocation of production quotas. He declared:

"I think there will be no fundamental changes in the price control provisions."

E. B. Reeser, president of the Barnsdall Oil Company, of Oklahoma, and a member of the committee, expressed a contrary view. He asserted:

"When we finish the price-fixing provisions, we will have made fundamental changes."

Spokesmen for the independents were confident that "dollar crude oil, long a goal in the great producing areas, was in sight. They had hopes the price of tank-car gasoline would be pegged at a level permitting a basic crude price slightly in excess of $1.

BILES CHAIRMAN

Axtel J. Biles, president of the American Petroleum Institute, served as temporary chairman as the committee sought to agree on final suggestions for changes in the code.

K. R. Kingsbury, president of the Standard Oil Company of California, was absent at yesterday's initial meeting, but planned to be present today.

The independent group counted strongly upon his influence to help swing the tide in favor of even more rigid governmental price control than the code now provides.

In a dramatic challenge to the leadership of Walter Teagle, president of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, Kingsbury has thrown in his lot with the independents.

Ickes emphasized at a press conference that Hugh S. Johnson, National Recovery Administrator, is out of consideration in so far as administration of the oil code is concerned.

BACKS TEAGLE

Johnson, siding with Teagle and other powerful members of the "conservative group," fought to the last against oil price-fixing.

Reports reached Ickes that the big refiners were running to the limit of their capacity at a season when their operations normally would taper off. He pointed out:

"The same thing happened in the textile industry."

Some of the committee members predicted that production control and quotas would prove more troublesome in the long run than the price-control issue. The control of oil imports also loomed as a subject demanding attention.

$100,000,000 NRA AID NEEDED

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—Government financing through the Reconstruction Finance Corporation of firms that have run into danger through signing recovery codes of higher wage costs, will cost almost $100,000,000, it was authoritatively estimated today.

This, it is believed, has caused Chairman Jesse H. Jones, of the R. F. C., to await the return of President Roosevelt before announcing further details of the program in this field recently ordered by the President.

Meanwhile firms in need of such government help have become clamorous. Representations have come from some that they cannot meet their September payrolls without extra financing.

Jones' study of the problem revealed it will require six weeks or more to set up the machinery for this extra service and the information has caused still further quakes among industries that signed the codes in a hurry, then realized it was going to cost them more than first indicated.

LIOTT CITES RLINES' NEEDS OF U. S. AID

By ELLIOTT ROOSEVELT
Aviation Editor, Hearst Newspapers.

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 1.—The men in the government service are sincerely trying to advance aviation as an industry and as a national defense to the best of their ability. It is my personal belief that these men have been badly handicapped in their efforts to deal intelligently with the problem due to an uninformed public.

The average man knows that huge air transport lines have flung a network over the face of the land. He does not realize, however, the important part that they today occupy in his daily life.

No one denies that the railroad has done more in the development of our country during the past half century than almost any other single factor. The country was quick to realize the importance of this industry during its infancy. The government subsidized the railroads during their years of experimentation and early growth, until they were thoroughly on their feet, and the government in turn was realizing the fruits of its investment through the increasing of business in general, a hundred fold.

AIR LINES SUBSIDIZED

Today, by means of air mail contracts the air lines of the country are also being subsidized to a certain extent.

Approximately $15,000,000 per year is being expended at the present writing for air mail. But 8,000,000 pounds of mail were carried in 1932, against 800,000 pounds in 1926. With the small help received from the government the scheduled operators increased the number of miles flown from 4,000,000 in 1926 to over 50,000,000 miles in 1932. They carried 5,700 passengers in 1926 and 536,000 in 1932.

Amazingly few promoters have entered this field. Every one of the larger lines and every line holding a government contract may truthfully be said to have men in charge of their futures who are pioneering men, possessed of keen foresight, real courage and true determination to succeed.

SLUMP IN MAIL

Air transportation showed an increase that was phenomenal in its proportions during the last few years. Suddenly, the government said to the operators, "You must take your share of the burden of readjustment of economic values"—the postoffice felt that it must increase the mail rates.

This caused a slump in the poundage of air mail carried. Twenty-two per cent less mail was carried in the first quarter of this year than was carried a year ago. The operators consented cheerfully to the increased rate and also to a straight 25 per cent cut in the revenue per pound that they received from the government. Out of a yearly expenditure of $20,000,000 the government saved five more millions by this action for their economy program.

The airlines went after more passenger and express business. For this type of business they showed an increase of 27 per cent for the first quarter of this year over the corresponding period a year ago.

SPEED INCREASED

Up until 1927 a transport ship cruised at a speed of approximately 80 to 100 miles per hour. Up to last year they cruised at about 115 miles per hour. Today a cruising speed of from 145 miles per hour to 190 miles per hour is accepted as a matter of course.

Those ships were developed and improved entirely at the expense of enterprising airlines which were willing to lay out large sums of money for the improvement of equipment.

The airlines co-operated with the Department of Commerce to establish such devices as two-way radio and directional compasses, etc., as standard equipment.

They thought of the comfort of the passenger to such an extent that there is a plane completed today in which there is less noise for the passenger than is experienced when traveling by train.

FUNDS NEEDED

The commercial airlines are anxious to continue to build up a class of skilled pilots, who will not only help in the development of commercial aviation but will be always in reserve as part of our national defense. They cannot advance these men commensurate with their skill and responsibility so long as the government persists in atempting to cut the $15,000,000 further.

It is my belief that, if they have performed such miracles with the government aid that they have received to date, their efforts should not go unrewarded now.

Therefore, let us not recommend that they be forced to bear more than their fair share of governmental economy. After all, what is $15,000,000 expended yearly for the advancement of an industry which is playing an increasingly larger part in aiding other industries, as against $500,000 a day for reforestation camps? They are certainly worthy but so are the airlines.

(Mr. Roosevelt, in this and subsequent articles, which will appear under his name, is writing as a private individual and is not in any way to be regarded as having any connection with officialdom in Washington.—Editor's note.)

SECURITY ISSUE RIGHT ASKED

Seeking sufficient working capital to take advantage of anticipated new business, receivers of the Pressed Steel Car Company have petitioned Federal Court for authority to issue $1,000,000 in certificates of indebtedness.

Judge R. M. Gibson granted a rule on creditors and others interested, returnable September 12, to show cause why the petition should not be granted. The receivers, George D. Wick, F. N. Hoffstot and Walter A. Bonitz, said in the petition:

"We have made a careful study of the business of the Pressed Steel Car Company and of the needs of the railroads of the country, and believe that with the revival of business through the National Industrial Recovery Act, and otherwise, the railroads will buy large numbers of cars and business of the Pressed Steel Car Company will be profitable."

The certificates, the petition sets forth, will be secured by liens or charges upon assets of the company, and bear yearly interest of 5 per cent.

Mayor John S. Herron and a delegation of city and county officials and business men, will form a reception committee to meet Wiley Post, 'round-the-world flier, when he arrives at the county airport next Thursday.

Plans for his reception include a luncheon in the Chamber of Commerce and an inspection of local airports.

Pedestrian Struck, Woman in Auto Hurt

CRESSON, Pa., Sept. 1.—Mrs. Helen Parsons, 42, of Altoona, was injured when an automobile driven by her son, Thomas, 19, a Duquesne University student, struck a pedestrian, James Farren, 56, on the William Penn highway. The impact broke a window and Mrs. Parsons was cut. Farren was injured slightly.

GARLAND MEETS 'ATTACK' BY ENGLISH

Interpreting a political speech as an attack on him by inuendo, Councilman Robert Garland today issued a formal statement directed at his colleague, W. Y. English. In it he defended himself as an official of the old Pittsburgh Life and Trust Company and the business ethics of a commercial concern with which he is affiliated. His statement:

"The old charges which Councilman English makes every time I am a candidate for office and elected, he now repeats when I am not a candidate for office, because I support Councilman McArdle for Mayor.

"I regret that I am compelled to recognize either the charges or the man who makes them, but I know his fondness for repetition. Wherever Councilman English is known it is quite unnecessary to state that he has the reputation of being "the poison shooter of Council" and also that he delights in deceiving the public.

"Once and for all I deny the accuracy and the inuendoes of each and every one of his charges. I believe that my record in council and the continuous support which I have had from the voters is a complete and final answer to the substance and reality of these charges.

"My vote in Council at all times has been controlled solely by the merits of the question and for the best interests of the City of Pittsburgh. The whole matter of the Pittsburgh Life and Trust Company was cleared up and disposed of 20 years ago, and no policyholder therein ever lost a dollar. Neither myself nor my company have made contracts with the City of Pittsburgh for the furnishing of supplies, and I have violated no law in this regard. I am convinced that Councilman English knows this is true. I know he can easily verify my statement by an examination of the contract records of the City of Pittsburgh."

TRIO EXECUTED AT SING SING

Universal Service.

OSSINING, N. Y., Sept. 1.—Another triple execution was listed today on the records of Sing Sing.

John McKinney, 42; John Tinsley, 25, and Henry Edmonds, 50, all Negroes, went to the electric chair in quick succession last night.

McKinney, convicted of murdering Mattie West, a Negress, in Suffolk County, was executed at 11:02 p. m. Two minutes later Tinsley was led to the death chair and Edmonds was put in the chair at 11:17. Tinsley and Edmonds were found guilty of murdering Nathan Reigood in an attempted holdup in the Bronx.

None of the trio had any last remarks.

KILL PIGS TO AID STOCK RAISERS

To aid stock raisers of the tri-state district, 4,500 pigs and 500 sows were being slaughtered today at the Pittsburgh Union Stockyards, under the terms of the National Agricultural Adjustment Act.

Lester Jennings, superintendent of packing, estimated the stockyards would receive 5,000 pork animals a week from now until October 1.

The pigs, bought by the government at $6 to $6.50 a hundredweight, are mostly below marketable weight, Jennings said. Slaughtered animals of less than 80 pounds will be converted into fertilizer. Those from 80 to 100 pounds will be dressed and the meat distributed through relief agencies.

Jennings announced that no more pigs should be shipped into Pittsburgh without a permit obtained from the Secretary of Agriculture. This ruling, he said, will hold until the surplus of porkers has been considerably reduced.

Four Pittsburghers Held as Pickpockets

GREENSBURG, Pa., Sept. 1.—(INS.)—Four Pittsburgh men were held today for hearings following their arrest as pickpocket suspects by state police.

Those are William Spade, 27, of 1141 Brookline street; Sam Gatano, 24, 1216 Clarke street; Joseph Cotz, 32, Congress street, and W. T. Brown, Arch street.

The men were said to have been operating at the Ligonier Valley Reunion at Idlewild Park Wednesday.

Man Foils U. S. Raid, Held on $1,000 Bond

Walter Larkins, 30, was arrested yesterday for alleged interference with government prohibition agents while they were said to have been pursuing an automobile transporting liquor on Soho street. Larkins was said to have driven his machine between the agents' automobile and the machine they were following, allowing the latter car to get away.

He was held under $1,000 bond pending hearing September 19.

NATIONAL DRYS IN NEW DRIVE

CHICAGO, Sept. 1.—(AP.)—Led by its general superintendent, Dr. F. Scott McBride, the Anti-Saloon League today was launched upon a 6-point program that leaders at a regional meeting here said they hoped would result in retention of the Eighteenth Amendment.

Its six points, briefly, are:

1—An increasing campaign to retain the Eighteenth Amendment.

2—A program to hold or retain state and local prohibition laws.

3—Agitation for the election of dry executives and enforcement officers.

4—A continuous and comprehensive campaign to get the highest possible proportion of the voters to vote in all primaries and elections.

5—A campaign of education to teach every one "the fundamental fact that beverage alcohol is a narcotic habit forming drug, always dangerous and often deadly."

6—A uniform nation-wide young people's movement for total abstinence and prohibition.

Dr. McBride said the fight would be waged with sound moving pictures, literature, newspapers, educational dramas, debates, lectures and pledge signing.

Farmers Win Delay In Milk Code Fight

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 1.—(AP.)—Given a respite by postponement of the hearing on the protested Philadelphia milk code, farmers' organizations went ahead with plans today to insure revision of the agreement.

Set for today, the hearing was postponed late yesterday by officials of the Agriculture Adjustment Administration to September 11.

OBITUARY

Myers Funeral.

Funeral services for Albert J. Myers, assistant to the vice president of the Koppers Construction Company, will be held at his home, 58 Banbury road, Ben Avon Heights, at 9 a. m. tomorrow, followed by high mass of requiem in Sacred Heart Church, Emsworth, at 9:30 a. m. Mr. Myers died in a New York hospital, Tuesday.

He was born in Cleveland, June 20, 1888, and was graduated as a mechanical engineer from Ohio State University in 1910. Later he studied electrical and civil engineering in the same institution.

He spent most of his business career in the coal and coke handling industry and was active in the development of many methods now in use.

During his early career he worked in technical capacities for a number of Ohio companies.

He came to the Koppers Construction Company in 1915. Since that time he served this company as engineer, assistant chief engineer, chief engineer, and assistant to the vice president.

He leaves his widow, and an aunt, Mrs. John Bechtolt, of Cleveland.

Gigliotti Funeral.

Funeral services for William W. Gigliotti, 28, of 491 Norton street, Mt. Washington, will be held in St. Peter's Church, Fernando street, at 10 a. m. Monday. He died Wednesday.

Mr. Gigliotti was born in Pittsburgh, and for 10 years had been employed as a pressman by the Sun-Telegraph. He was a member of St. Peter's Church and the Web Pressmen's Union, Local No. 9.

Besides his widow he leaves a brother, Frank Gigliotti, and two sisters, Mrs. Tiny Galardi and Miss Elizabeth Gigliotti, all of Pittsburgh.

KNIFE SLAYER HELD INSANE

GREENSBURG, Pa., Sept. 1.—(AP.)—Insanity was advanced as defense for Robert Frye, 22-year-old youth on trial charged with the penknife murder of Mrs. Mae Clements, his former landlady.

Dr. C. C. Whoaley, Pittsburgh psychiatrist, testified yesterday that in his opinion Frye has the intelligence of a 9-year-old child and is of epileptic constitution. He said he was told the boy had been struck on the head at the age of six years.

Mrs. Clements was stabbed to death June 21 in her home, after ordering Frye to leave, her sister has testified.

The Voice from the White House

President Roosevelt, in his radio talks, has urged the people to keep their heads and maintain their confidence in America's sound banking institutions.

The Dollar Savings Bank, founded in 1855, is one of the oldest mutual savings banks in the country and the only one in Pittsburgh. It has grown up with the nation.

18 Presidents have been inaugurated since this famous old bank was founded, and during its 78 years of service the nation has passed through several crises, but we have never failed to keep faith with our depositors and pay regular dividends.

NAIR DUMMY OR MACHINE, HENRY SAYS

Bi-partisan policies of both Republican and Democratic machines must be defeated, John M. Henry, candidate for the Democratic mayoralty nomination, told voters in the Stevenson Building last night.

Declaring candidates did not count in machine tactics, Henry said:

"The people know Mayor Herron is personally a very nice chap. But they understand he is not actually mayor of this city.

"And no one seriously thinks my opponent, William N. McNair, could ever be permitted to be mayor. If you elect him, you install in Pittsburgh the Guffey-Lawrence machine."

McNair was only a "shadow dancing marionette" for the Democratic organization, which in 1929 co-operated with a system of padded assessments and registration, and in 1931 fought shoulder to shoulder with Coyne to control the office of county commissioner, Henry said.

Linking the Republican and Democratic machines in the defeat of Mrs. Anne Felix by Michael Muldowney for Congress, Henry said:

"For petty political drippings from the Republican table, the Democratic machine has gone along and stood for every rotten item in city rule.

"We have only a cheap repetition under the label Democratic of machine tactics used under the label Republican—even to funds for assessment purposes as appeared recently on the Hill.

"I am not concerned about any declaration read by my opponent assailing Coyne or Mellon. I know that behind the scenes stand David L. Lawrence and Joseph L. Guffey pulling the strings. They permitted my opponent to run. They control the campaign."

Henry cited the meeting at which Chairman Samuel Reno asked city payrollers for contributions toward tax receipts as a vicious example of machine rule. It proves, he said, that the machine is the thing, the candidate a shadow.

WOMAN FACES HOLDUP CHARGE

Ruth Kapp, 40, of 1 Virginia avenue, Mifflin Township, was held for court under $4,000 bond before Alderman Thomas A. Flanigan on two charges of larceny of an automobile and robbery.

She is accused of being one of a party of three men and two women who robbed Samuel Gettleman, 26, of 414 Atwood street, last Monday night, took the car he was driving, belonging to Paul Nieberg, of the same address, and wrecked the car in Penn Township.

Work Plan Not Herron's, Avers Council Entrant

Mayor John S. Herron's proposal to put thousands of men to work on local waterfronts is "purely campaign bunk," Hugh McKnight, Progressive Republican candidate for Council, told members of the Women's Division of the party yesterday. He said:

"The entire program is part and parcel of President Roosevelt's NRA plan. Mayor Herron can in no way take credit for the movement. It's a trick effort to confuse the voters."

McKnight spoke at a tea in the Roosevelt Hotel, where women chairmen and vice chairmen of city wards had gathered to hear Progressive Republican candidates. He blamed the Herron administration for driving industries from Pittsburgh by oppressive taxation.

WOODSIDE TALKS

Discussing alleged buying of tax receipts for voters, County Controller Robert G. Woodside, general chairman for the Progressive Republicans, urged:

"Do not accept the 50-cent bribe."

He pointed out that many voters may still have valid tax receipts.

MACKRELL RAPS COYNE

Joseph N. Mackrell, Progressive Republican candidate for mayor, told the women that he was the "only candidate opposed by Coyne."

Attacking Coyne as having defeated the old-age pensions bill, Mackrell said:

"It's passage would mean the closing of our poor houses and the taking care of our aged citizens in their own homes at much less cost than now."

Politics Dominates Council, Hough Charges

Charging that politics rather than business efforts dominated Council, Representative Edward M. Hough announced his councilmanic candidacy on the Progressive Republican platform, in Perry High School last night.

Hough said Council had been playing politics with its bonding power, amounting to $24,000,000. He said:

"Instead of reserving this borrowing capacity for emergencies and referring all possible items to the people, they have recklessly used up 97 per cent of their power to issue bonds.

"This leaves them with only about $750,000 to meet any of the numerous and pressing emergencies that under present economic conditions have arisen, and will continue to arise."

Effective Planning Stressed by Magee

Intelligence and restraint on the part of Council are needed to give Pittsburgh constructive city planning, former Mayor William A. Magee, candidate for Democratic and Republican nomination for Council, declared in a radio interview last night.

Discussing the history of city planning here, Magee said that in a constructive way its effectiveness had been slight.

Legally required routine has taken up most of the appropriations of the City Planning Commission, and the Citizens' Committee on City Plan had not been strong enough in coping with political aspects, he said, continuing:

"The metropolitan area should be planned long ahead, not so intensively as the city proper, but to such a degree as may forestall some of the frightful mistakes we have been guilty of in the past. Some of the territory annexed in recent years will be a burden on the city for half a century."

Tabor Scores Attempt To Halt Supplies Quiz

Mayor John S. Herron and Councilmen Harry A. Little, W. Y. English and Clifford B. Connelley forfeited any right to public office when they tried to prevent the investigation of the Department of Supplies, Edward O. Tabor, Independent Republican candidate for Council, said in an address last night.

The business of those councilmen was to protect public money, but, Tabor said:

"Like Nero in Rome, they sang a ditty while the Department of Supplies was being looted by the organization gang.

"We should teach our officers by our votes that the wages of official sin is political death."

Tabor said he favored a searching audit of every city department to find out what has gone on and learn how to spend money in the future. He also advocated a fair and equal tax on real estate, and removal of the police from politics.

Charges Herron Record No Credit to Training

Joseph M. Stack, Progressive Republican candidate for Council, attacked Mayor John S. Herron's slogan, "You trained him, keep him there," in an address last night. He said:

"Mayor Herron's record, particularly in the last eight years, reflects little credit on the training he boasts of. He was president of Council in 1931, when Council established a new high mark in municipal extravagance with appropriations exceeding $28,000,000.

"After making appropriations of $25,064,088 in 1932, Herron, as acting chairman of the finance committee, was compelled to reduce expenditures to $22,655,940.69. He accomplished this by ignoring a deficit of $1,345,650.45, representing sums due Pittsburgh business concerns; by causing a general reduction in the employes' pay, and forcing them to work one month without pay. Such methods are a fine commentary on 20 years' training in Council."

TRAINED STAFF FOR JUVENILE COURT URGED

The staff of the new Juvenile Court should be recruited from men and women trained to deal with children, Mrs. Lois McBride, candidate for the court, declared at a meeting in Carrick High School last night.

Mrs. McBride advocated that workers be chosen under civil service requirements to be drawn with the advice of a citizens' committee, which she proposed to appoint to help determine court policies.

ASSERTS MAN NEEDED

The importance of the new Juvenile Court requires that a man, rather than a woman, be elected to that bench, Attorney William G. Negley said in an address in Rumanian Hall, West Homestead, last night.

A candidate for Juvenile Court, Negley has been indorsed by the Progressive Association of the South Side.

CANDIDATES INDORSED

The Independent Republican organization of Homestead has indorsed Judges Frank A. Piekarski and Benjamin Lencher, candidates for County Court, and Judges Ralph H. Smith and M. A. Musmanno and Attorney Alexander P. Lindsay, for Common Pleas Court.

Judge Piekarski and Attorney Lindsay have been indorsed by the Independent Republican organization of Penn Township. Lindsay has also been indorsed by the Third District, Fifth Ward Organization.

MUSMANNO SUPPORTED

Judge M. A. Musmanno, candidate for Common Pleas Court, has received the indorsements of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Braddock General Hospital and the Coal Valley Athletic Association of Homestead.

ORGANIZE FOR SCHRAMM

One hundred business and professional men have formed a Schramm Booster Club in Bellevue. The candidacy of Attorney Gustav L. Schramm also has been indorsed by the Colored Baptist Ministers' Conference of Allegheny County.

Candidates Appearing At Numerous Rallies

Candidates on the Democratic ticket, headed by William N. McNair, for Mayor, will speak tonight at the following meetings:

Vorwaert Singing Society Hall, 5137 Holmes street, and Carrick High School—McNair; Representative Thomas J. Gallagher and John J. Kane, and John M. Huston, candidates for Council; Chairman, David L. Lawrence, of the Democratic county committee; James L. O'Toole, Jr., for County Court, and Thomas A. Dougherty, for Jury Commissioner.

Arsenal Junior High School, Lawrenceville—Walter R. Demmler, for Council; Dean A. Marshall Thompson, of the Pitt law school, for Common Pleas Court, and Dr. Vincent L. Marino, for Coroner.

Thaddeus Stevens School, West End—Congressman Henry Ellenbogen; Demmler and Huston, and Andrew G. Smith, for Common Pleas Court.

Perry High School, Perrysville avenue—George E. Evans, for Council, and John Heinz, for sheriff.

Thirty-second Ward Democratic headquarters, 2409 Sawmill Run boulevard—John J. Kennedy, for Common Pleas Court; Evans and Marino.

Neville Township School—Kennedy, Austin L. Staley, for County Court, and William S. Cooper, Jr., for poor director. Attorney Fred G. Weir will preside.

Shaeffer School—Dean Thompson, Heinz and Gustav L. Schramm, for Juvenile Court.

The nucleus of an organization to be known as the Young Peoples Roosevelt Democratic Club will be formed at a meeting tonight at the home of Frank Reich, 427 Center street, Wilkinsburg. William Neuman will preside.

P. J. McArdle, Independent Republican candidate for Mayor, and the councilmanic candidates on his ticket, will speak tonight in Allen School, Allen avenue; Brookline School, Woodburn avenue, and Weber's Hall, 2622 Sarah street. The meetings open at 8:30.

Joseph N. Mackrell, Progressive Republican candidate for Mayor, and candidates on his ticket, will speak tonight in Baxter School, Baxter and Brushton avenues; Roosevelt School, Greenfield avenue, and Hays School, Irwin avenue.

John M. Henry, candidate for Democratic mayoralty nomination, will speak at Snodgrass School, Sweetbriar street, at 8:30 tonight. J. J. Jennings will preside.

Mrs. Lois McBride, Juvenile Court candidate, will speak tonight at a meeting of United Service Men, Turtle Creek; the Republican organization meeting, Duquesne High School, and the Nineteenth Ward Democratic meeting, Beechview School.

Judge M. A. Musmanno will speak tonight at Beechview School, the Municipal Building in Turtle Creek and in Gary's Building, Sewickley, in support of his Common Pleas Court candidacy.

Judge Ralph H. Smith, candidate for Common Pleas Court, will speak tonight at meetings in Blythedale and Elizabeth Township. He will be guest tomorrow morning at an alumni reunion at the Western Pennsylvania School for the Deaf, Edgewood.

Attorney Alexander P. Lindsay, candidate for Common Pleas Court, will speak today at the Firemen's Fair, Crafton; an open air meeting in Boyd street, McKeesport, and at Allen School, Brookline School, and Weber's Hall, 2622 Sarah street.

Assistant United States Attorney Raymond D. Evans, candidate for Common Pleas Court, will speak today at the Allegheny County Fair, South Park, and tonight at a meeting of volunteer firemen in Dormont.

Continuing his appeal for nonpartisan support, Attorney Gustav L. Schramm, candidate for Juvenile Court, was scheduled to speak at a meeting of Independent Republican candidates in the William Penn Hotel at noon today.

He will speak at a Democratic meeting at Shaeffer School, Crafton Heights, and at Conroy School, Fulton street, tonight.

Man Falls to Death Down Cellar Stairs

As a result of falling down the cellar stairs at his home, 601 Allegheny avenue, West Aliquippa, last night, George Seech, 56, is dead. He is believed to have suffered a heart attack at the top of the stairs.

Lawrence Presides At Branch Opening

Herron's Posters Torn, Smeared With Ink

John I. Bohn Enters Aldermanic Contest

John I. Bohn today announced his candidacy for alderman of the Nineteenth Ward. Long a resident of the ward and active in politics, he said:

"If elected I will devote my entire time to the duties of the office and will continue to work for the advancement of clean politics in the Nineteenth Ward."

Today brings news of plans concerning another September wedding of interest to Pittsburgh and Beaver folks. The men of the bridal party for the marriage Norma Jeanne Craig and James M. Heppenstall have been announced. Norma Jeanne who's the daughter of the W. D. Craigs, of Quay square, Beaver, is to be married on September 9, in the First Methodist Episcopal Church of Beaver, at 5 o'clock, to the son of the Samuel B. Heppenstalls, of Pittsburgh.

Lowry Crawford is to be the best man, and ushers will be two brothers of the bridegroom-elect, Samuel and Max Heppenstall, William Craig, brother of the bride-elect, and Donald Lewis. The bride's attendants, announced some time ago, are to be her sister, Lucille Craig, as maid of honor; Mrs. Eleanore Dando Sutter, of Beaver; Elizabeth Miner, of Philadelphia; Janet Reed, of Washington and Ruth Rogers, of East Orange.

Entertainments for Norma Jeanne include a buffet supper on Sunday to be given by Mrs. Eleanore Sutter, in the Beaver Valley Country Club, and the rehearsal dinner at the same club, will be given by Lucille Craig.

Entertain For Bride

There is to be a dinner for the families and bridal party after the ceremony in the Craig home, and then Mr. Heppenstall and his bride will leave on a motor trip. They plan to be at home after September 25 in the Wal-Denn Court Apartments.

Cary Zollinger Engaged to G. W. Bubb

Announcement was made recently by Mr. and Mrs. Luther Cleveland Zollinger, of Ridge avenue, Ben Avon, of the engagement of their daughter, Miss Cary Zollinger, to George Wesley Bubb, son of Mrs. Clara Bubb, of Coraopolis.

Miss Zollinger attended Bethany College where she was a member of the Alpha Xi Delta Sorority. Her fiance is a graduate of Massanutten Military Academy, Roanoke, Va. At present he is studying at Pennsylvania State College and he is a member of Sigma Phi Epsilon Fraternity.

Miss Zollinger has made no plans for her marriage.

Helen M. Hinkley Is Married to N. C. Poole

Mrs. Daisy Hinkley, of Belasco street, announces the marriage of her daughter, Miss Helen Mildred Hinkley, to Nevin C. Poole, son of Mr. and Mrs. Nevin W. Poole, of Gaylord avenue, Dormont, which took place at 6:30 o'clock last evening. The ceremony was held in the Central Christian Church, Dithridge street, with the Rev. S. S. Lappin, officiating.

Miss Martha Eversman sang, accompanied by Miss Elizabeth Beerman. The bride, who was unattended, was given in marriage by her mother. She wore a gown of blue sheer crepe with a matching turban of crepe and carried sweetheart roses. Ushers were James Everson, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, and Harry V. Wike, Jr.

After an eastern motor trip Mr. and Mrs. Poole will reside in Snee Gables, Bower Hill road, Mt. Lebanon.

Alameda Chapter, O. E. S., Corn Roast on Thursday

Alameda Chapter, No. 391, Order of the Eastern Star, has planned a corn roast for Thursday evening in Olympia Park, Mt. Washington. The hours are from 5:30 until 7 o'clock.

Redecorated Congress Dining Room to Be Opened on Tuesday

By MRS. CHARLES M. BREGG

The Congress of Clubs dining room, newly papered and redecorated, will be opened again for dinners and parties on Tuesday. Then, with the president's reception on September 12, the Congress season will be in full swing. The dining room is most attractive in its new wall dress, a soft colonial pattern in buff and tan shades. The furniture has been moved about and a long mirror now occupies the place where the sideboard stood.

The three-room apartment on the third floor has been redecorated and furnished for the new manager, Miss Mary L. Dale, and among other changes at the clubhouse is a metal ceiling which has been put in the kitchen.

The halls are newly papered, in wearable neutral tones, almost sepia, with a plain dado and gold moulding up the stairways. This paper is colonial in design, too.

Past presidents have been asked to receive with Mrs. Oliver J. Haller, the president, and members of the board of directors at the reception on the twelfth.

Good GIRL!

GOT herself a job at last . . . and now she's ready to hurl herself into some swell clothes, and paralyze the Boy Friend completely. We're for you, young lady. While you've been loafing, we've been working—down in New York where they strike one day and raise prices the next. We've gone to bat for you from the Battery to the Bronx, dragged forth those beauteous gowns and swell cloaks inch by inch—until we've got a storeful! And now we're tip-toe excited for your critical look-see.

Forget About the Money—Take All Kinds of Time Paying

We have a notion people are honest, if you just give 'em a chance to be. So don't wait until the B.F. turns you down, but come in NOW, while prices are still on speaking terms—buy your fall dresses, coats, footwear—everything—NOW—and give later higher prices the nose-and-thumb salute. Example Value:

The Hit of the World's Fair

When presented at a Style Show at "A Century of Progress," it was acclaimed with cheers and hosannahs. Eel Grey Suede with patent, Havana Brown Suede with Maple Kid, Black Suede with mat calf, $6.

NEW HATS UPSET TRADITION TO BE WORN OFF FOREHEAD

ALL THE lookers-on at the last John-Frederics millinery opening knew in a flash that something dramatic was happening. What these very sophisticated New York men did this time with a bit of velvet and a plume, a yard of ribbon and some wool, a strip of silk and a fold of buckram, indicated at once just how far American designers are leaping ahead. In Paris, they mention John-Frederics in the same breath with their own most famous modists. They consider these two style dictators—which is fine recognition!

* * *

BUT WHAT about their hats in general? They upset present traditions in many ways. They forecast, for instance, that the halo silhouette is returning. It is worn high off the forehead, exposing the hair line. For a widow's peak—fine. For very young faces—fine. For sophisticates, we prefer their new high-in-the-back down to almost-nothing-in-front silhouette. And the very high highs, up in the air as much as six inches! Or their very shallow shallows, with front manipulation. This house conjures up endless varieties. Whatever your type, it is simple enough to crown it with glory.

* * *

IF YOU want to frame your face in a sweeping wide brim for daytime, they have felts and velvets, some with enormous brims. The felts are worn by smart women with fall tailleurs. One illustrated black velvet cart wheel with peppermint green bow, for bridal or formal afternoon wear, has a very shallow crown with a forward movement that is very new in large hats. If you look better in a small hat, you might try the suede in the sketch. Two kitten's ear peaks help regulate the hat. It can stick rather close to the skull, or the more fashionable height can be managed by means of a gentle tug on one little peak. Oval-shaped berets are prominent in the collection. The oval starts at the back left and is pulled to the right in front.

* * *

THEIR TWEEDS have a nice heather look. They're apt to be touched off with a piece of silk floss, a cluster of pansies or a curl of feathers. Never will these designers do the obvious. They believe women will dress more extravagantly than ever in the evening. A Mephistophelean skull cap of velvet has a long black veil drapery which the wearer gathers about her like a dolman. At a "first night" this would be a sensation. Another tiny evening cap, shown in the sketch at the left center, is like an abbreviated velvet version of brother's first cap—but it changes from naivete to sophistication by a strange oval veil that only comes over the face.

* * *

IF YOU want to wear the very dashing thing, there is a beret of stitched black velvet (this fabric is important) trimmed with two sweeping aigrettes of burnt peacock touching the shoulder on each side. Another of their ideas is to match the feathers to the hair.

* * *

ONE MANNEQUIN stopped the show when she came out wearing "Tease," which is an exact copy of the careless felt hat John himself wears! It is a slouch Fedora with a soft brim to be folded at will. (Sketched center right). With a swagger coat of fur it would be nothing short of knockout. Sit on it, jump on it, and yet it keeps its shape!

BOY HERE WINS PENNSY PRIZE

A Pittsburgh boy today was named one of five sons of Pennsylvania Railroad employes to receive the Frank Thomson scholarships, effective with the opening of the 1933-1934 academic year. He is Joseph L. Walton, of 161 Oakview avenue, Edgewood, son of Jesse P. Walton, office engineer under the chief engineer at Pittsburgh. He will attend Lehigh University.

The scholarships are worth $800 annually and run for a full four years' course at any college or university in the United States. They are supported from income of a memorial trust fund established in 1907 by the children of Frank Thomson, former president of the Pennsylvania Railroad.

She's 80, But Wins 102 Fair Prizes For Canning

ERIE, Pa., Sept. 1.—(AP.)—Modern housewives may know a lot of new-fangled ways of confecting culinary delights, but they can still learn a thing or two—102 in fact—from Mrs. Will Rouse, 80 years old, of Union City.

Yesterday Mrs. Rouse set a new record by winning 102 premiums in culinary and domestic exhibits at the golden anniversary exposition of the Wattsburg Fair.

K. O.'S STEPSON WITH BRICK

Walter Oesterle, 22, of 860 Climax street, was in South Side Hospital today with a possible skull fracture incurred in a fight with his stepfather in their home late yesterday, according to police.

The stepfather, Joseph Kaiser, 47, was said by police to have struck his stepson on the head with a brick. As Oesterle, unconscious, fell through the glass in the kitchen door, Kaiser fled, police said. Oesterle was taken to the hospital by Mt. Washington police. Twenty-six stitches were required to close wounds on the victim's head and neck. His condition is serious. Kaiser was being sought by police.

CROONING CHOIR ON AIR -:- Symphonic Jazz Band Plays Rube Bloom Work -:- TONIGHT'S PROGRAMS

W'Adoo and Roper Talk Recovery

The "Crooning Choir," an ensemble of male voices organized and directed by B. A. Rolfe, will be heard regularly each Friday evening, beginning tonight.

Some of the gentler instruments of Rolfe's dance orchestra, such as the guitar, muted violin and French horn, will provide the accompaniment for the soft-voiced singers. Special arrangements of current hit songs have been made for the choir. Phil Duey, baritone, and James Shields, tenor, will be soloists, heard over KDKA at 8:45.

* * *

Senator William G. McAdoo speaks in behalf of the recovery act, over an NBC-WCAE network at 5:15 this evening.

Daniel C. Roper, secretary of commerce, gives an NRA address, "The Work of the Special Industrial Recovery Board," over WCAE at 10.

* * *

The Columbians, a symphonic jazz orchestra under the direction of Freddie Rich, play for the first time on the air a new work of Rube Bloom, "Plantation Recollections." The themes of the two movements in the composition are romance and a barn dance.

During the same program Ferde Grofe's "Knute Rockne Suite," descriptive of college and football days, will salute the forthcoming football season. The Columbians are heard over WJAS at 10.

* * *

"Message of the Violets" and "Lover Came Back to Me" are among Jessica Dragonette's romantic songs tonight. Fred Hufsmith, of the Cavaliers, heard with Miss Dragonette over WCAE at 8, sings "My Moonlight Madonna."

Paul Small, heard with Victor Young's Orchestra over the same station at 9:30, also serenades his Moonlight Madonna.

* * *

Samuel Di Primo, the young Italian singer from Greensburg, who won the approval of the Metropolitan Opera Company, begins a series of programs from the KDKA studios tonight at 10:30.

* * *

The radio dramas of the evening:

The story behind the Holland postage stamp bearing the picture of William of Orange, including the siege of Leyden, and William's orders to cut the dykes and flood the land, is dramatized in the Stamp Adventurers' program, carried locally by WJAS at 7.

A circus lady rides a motorcycle through rings of fire, in the First Nighter dramatization heard over KDKA at 10.

Local Highlights on WJAS Tonight

Fran Eichler's band, with Jeanne Galbraith as vocal soloist, returns to the air tonight at 6 after several weeks' absence. The boys spent a vacation in Chicago seeing the fair and while there listened to a half-dozen topnotch bands.

Marty Gregor repeats his trick arrangement of "Turkey Trot" as the high spot of an 8 o'clock program.

Other local features worthy of attention are the Banjo Barons; Alma Harris, pianist; Dr. Springer's Forum, and finally, Eddie Peyton at 11:30.

Last Pioneer Signing Off KDKA Job; 'Myrt' Snowbound,' 'Marge' Injured

By AIRCASTER

The last of the pioneers of the world's pioneer broadcasting station signs off tomorrow, F. A. Boyd, publicity manager of KDKA since its very first broadcast, and probably the oldest man in radio in point of service, passes his publicity pen over to Lyn Morrow, former radio columnist, Saturday noon.

* * *

Helen Brown writes to ask for "some news about Myrt and Marge."

Well, Helen, troubles never come singly. Within a few hours after word was received that Marge Damerel was in a Los Angeles hospital with a broken arm, Myrt Vail dispatched an SOS from the chilliest part of Chile. The message came from high up in the Andes Mountains, and read: "Snowbound. Expensive delay upsetting our schedule, but can't move."

The sponsor of Myrt and Marge immediately cabled additional traveling funds, with instructions to spare no expense in hurrying back to Chicago for the new series of programs scheduled to start late in September.

Snowbound "Myrt" embarked some time ago on her South American tour to obtain atmosphere for the new season's broadcasts, which will have a below-the-Equator locale.

* * *

The fog-horn voice of William ("Red Pepper Sam") Costello, which adds that note of mystery to the Betty Boop Frolics each Friday evening over WCAE, is being starred in a new series of "Popeye, the Sailor," movie cartoons by Max Fleischer, which are in the process of making at studios in New York. Within a couple of weeks, Costello will begin a personal appearance tour of leading picture and vaudeville theaters in the metropolis.

* * *

When Chester Lauck and Norris Goff, known as WCAE'S Lum and Abner, start writing their daily radio script, they lock their door, but no action at the typewriter takes place until Lauck loads and lights a three-foot desk pipe.

American Weekly Drama of Love Broadcast

A gripping drama of gangland, where machine guns are more powerful than cupid's arrows, is heard over five stations in the tri-state area today.

"A Kiss in the Moonlight," adapted from a feature story in next Sunday's American Weekly magazine, distributed with the Sunday Sun-Telegraph, depicts a gangster in love with a girl above his class. He abandons racketeering to marry her, and lives in blissful security for a time. But the inevitable fate of a gangster follows him.

WSAZ, Huntington, W. Va., 1:30 p. m.; WHBC, Canton, O., 2 p. m.; WKBN, Youngstown, 4 p. m.; WALR, Zanesville, 5 p. m. and WJAC, Johnstown, 5:15 p. m.

Jim Long on Air With Sports Talk

James J. Long, Sun-Telegraph sports writer, resumes his weekly sports reviews over WCAE tonight at 7.

Grandpa and Lillian read the Sun-Telegraph comics over WCAE this afternoon at 4:45.

The Globe-Trotter, voice of the Sun-Telegraph and Hearst Metrotone News, airs the day's news over WCAE-WJAS at 9:05 a. m. and 12:15, 2:15 and 6:30 p. m.

By LOUIS L. KAUFMAN

Hello, ladies and gentlemen:

Miss Marshall, of Orleans street, sends an interesting item in connection with the Allegheny County Fair. It was in the Oliver Miller grove, South Park, that the gospel was first preached in Western Pennsylvania, she informs us. The minister was a Dr. MacMillan.

* * *

Speaking of preachers, Dr. Daugherty, of Trinity Methodist Protestant Church, tells about his boy, the Rev. Clarence L. Daugherty, Jr., now a senior in the Harvard divinity school. The younger minister was born since his father became pastor of the Bidwell street church. Next Sunday the younger man will occupy his dad's pulpit. And is Dad proud?

* * *

Myrtle Elliot, Beechview—The reason that these stores you mentioned are not displaying Blue Eagles is that the retailers' code under which they will operate has not been signed by the President.

* * *

Mrs. C. F. S.—The NRA does not guarantee a minimum amount of work. It specifies that an employer shall not work a man over a certain number of hours a week. Does that clear up your question?

* * *

Mrs. Weber—The announcement I made about jars for canning was on behalf of the Community Council. They use the jars to preserve the surplus food of the thrift gardens for winter distribution among the needy. Answering D. M. Norman, of Irwin, the Community Council takes care of only Allegheny County. Inquire from your Chamber of Commerce where applications for Westmoreland County residents are taken.

KIDS!

There, we said it. Lots of folks don't like that expression "kids." Perhaps in the strictest sense of the word, it does have the common touch. But what of that? Why quibble over a word? It's what the word stands for that counts. And it stands for just about EVERYTHING that's worth while to a mother and father. To-morrow, last Saturday before school opening, bring 'em to Harris!

Both our boys' and girls' departments are pack jammed with GOOD clothes—no shoddy, no "seconds," no "run-of-the-mill."

And You Can Charge It—
And Take Months to Pay

We're glad to open an account for you, if either of the parents is employed. Just take your time to pay. It's part of our contribution to Recovery—not specified in the NRA, but specified in OURS. And note: IF YOU CAN BUY THE SAME MERCHANDISE FOR LESS, WE'LL REFUND YOUR MONEY WITHOUT ALIBI OR HESITATION*.

The Great... TRUE LIFE Story and TRUE LOVE Story of

★ GRETA GARBO ★

Probably the Greatest True Story Ever Written!

"The story is deep. It is fundamental. It touches the lives of millions of married women in their homes and of other millions of men and women about to be married. It is a story that springs from the masses and therefore is common to us all."

BERNARR MACFADDEN

"Garbo's story is basic because it represents what many people call genius, which usually springs from the common people and is usually thwarted in the common people by the natural laws of life. Nobody will ever know how many sparks of genius, how many flares of talent, how many knacks of doing something better than anyone else, have had to be surrendered by men to the daily drudgery of life and by women to their childbearing and the deadly routine of their home."

FULTON OURSLER
Supervising Editor

"Nor that she was a lather girl in a Swedish barber shop; not that she was a shop girl in a department store like so many millions of other girls who smile across the counter and hide their dreams, but, that from her thirteenth year, her body was definitely made for motherhood which has never been fulfilled. And there is nothing deeper nor more tragic than a body that was made for motherhood that has never been fulfilled."

WILLIAM JOURDAN RAPP, Editor

CLARENCE BROWN, the director, introduced Garbo and Gilbert on the set. Half an hour later they were in each other's arms.

"A long kiss held them, their lips crushed together, their arms about each other. Garbo's eyes were closed. The world swung dizzily and melted away beneath her. There was nothing left but the wild beating of her heart, those strong young arms that held her so close, the fresh young lips pressed upon her own.

"Slowly the long lashes quivered upward, lifted like silken curtains, the great blue eyes gazed up and saw the dark, handsome young face bending above her, the fine dark eyes that were all aflame as they looked into hers.

"Garbo saw youth and love for the first time. She saw romance for the first time, with all its glamour and sweetness. And she knew that she was lost——."

Yet, today, Jack Gilbert is married to another, a sweet, fine girl, the mother of his child whom he adores, and Garbo, the silent, not meant by the gods for marriage nor for any man, stands alone upon her pinnacle—woman of genius, tragedy, mystery.

This is a great issue of True Story Magazine that has arrived on the stands today. It is great not only because it solves the Garbo mystery but because almost every one of its human documents deals deeply with some common problem of the people at a time when our welfare is concerned most earnestly with just such problems and experiences.

Walter Winchell ON BROADWAY

Portrait of a Man Talking to Himself

How dreadful being a beauty contestant! . . . The poor things . . . I was among the witnesses at Madison Square Garden the other night when about 1,500 of them, representing the semi-finalists in Greater New York, paraded in their one-pieces before the judges—hoping for that "break" that would send them to the Pageant at Atlantic City . . . And when ten had been picked from each division for the finals, Mr Terry Turner politely microphoned: "Will the girls who lost please leave the floor?" . . . And ninety losers went limp—or their cheeks crimsoned—so humiliated they were before their friends . . . The judges did their best, considering that in Greater New York there are no excitingly gorgeous gals . . . I realized for the first time what a cinch Ziegfeld didn't have.

Jack White, the comedian, and all the other New Yorkers who consider themselves "rabid" Giant fans at the Polo Grounds are only so-so Giant rooters, after all . . . I discovered one man who rates higher honors, if any, for that distinction . . . He never misses a game of the Giants in New York—and he is blind . . . There is one place in New York State where you can't buy beer, although it is legal . . . At Glen Island, near New Rochelle, frixample . . . Because this delightful casino, on Long Island Sound, belongs to park property—and the park officials, all Republicans, decided against the Democrats' achievement . . . At this rendezvous is the Casa Loma crew of expert melodicians. . . . They don't disturb your nerves by playing loud . . . Their arrangements are the envy of more famous orchestras, the leaders of which visit the place regularly to borrow their "style." . . . And Glen Gray, the "leader" of this talented band, is the only conductor who doesn't conduct . . . His fiddler does it for him—he is so busy playing this and that reed instrument—hidden among his men . . . Abe Lyman once buried himself that way—banging the drums — until somebody apparently told him he looked well in a dress suit—doing nothing.

I like knowing about such women . . . Her pappy is a powerful politician up-state, and she is adored by the sporting elements for being "a good fellow" . . . She likes to toss the numbered cubes now and then or chance her coin on the "wheel" or what have you? . . . Her husband is a wrong guy . . . When he dropped a heavy sum the other night he went to his dad-in-law and sulked about it. . . . He hopped up the old gent, who instructed the police chief to raid the place and bang it up into splinters . . . So his daughter, tuning in on the conversation, got into her car, raced to the joint—to tip them off in time to save much of the costly fixtures . . . The story is all over her community and they love her for it—and so do you . . . Officer Kelly, who every other week gets that beat at Forty-ninth street and Broadway, is being too tough on that army of taxi drivers . . . I mean those who cover the Paradise rendezvous . . . They can take his cursing (which is noisy and virile, no matter how many women are in your party) but it is too expensive when Kelly is in the pinch mood . . . That means five days in the jailhouse and perhaps 10 days of suspension after the Hack Bureau votes against you . . . Often these hardworking cabmen lose a month's work and pay . . . So the lads drew up a petition and urged the Commissioner to decide—they wanted some justice, it appears . . . So Officer Kelly is now giving them everything but the "chair"—since the Commissioner's verdict was sour . . . The taxicabbies' world isn't tough enough—so Heaven sent them a cop named Kelly.

A song I'm glad isn't being groaned any more is "Brother, Can You Spare a Dime?" . . . I don't doubt the applause you hear over the radio . . . I believe it is legitimate appreciation . . . But what makes it seem multiplied is that the control man tunes it up—and makes it come over noisier—and this is easy to detect—and it makes you titter a little—at the entertainer who encourages it . . . I guess the boys on the papers who are making Helen Wills Moody moodier by calling her names would like it better if she had been rushed to a hospital . . . Being head of your class for seven years doesn't appear to be enough to satisfy some of her critics.

If I were the director of a hotel in the lower Central Park sector I would certainly warn my guests to expect to hear terrifying groans and cries in the dead of night . . . Thus preparing newcomers to the town or neighborhood — who must be seized with fright when the lions and other beasts in the nearby zoo awake every 4:52 a. m. . . . Frank Crumit and Julia Sanderson and their songs are comforting on the ear—and after all these years, too . . . I like the way he ribs her between cues . . . The heroics of Noel Coward in London when his play "The Vortex" premiered excites me . . . In spite of the thunderous booing — Coward stepped out on to the stage and stood there, grim-faced and took the terrific razzing — and then when they stopped, he walked off without a word . . . And when his worried friends asked him why he did it—he told them that if there were cheers and applause—he would have taken all the credit, hence all the blame.

It seems to me that had the lad fought it out in court instead of his home town newspaper, his story would rate some sympathy. I mean the 19-year-old of Cincinnati who made the local front pages by asserting that he wrote the wordage to "Lazy Bones" . . . His style of argument is difficult to combat —but it must humiliate the composers of the hit . . . He alleges that he wrote the lyric, submitted it to a Broadway music house, but that he didn't sign his name to it or his letter. He won't sue. He isn't sore, he adds, but he did want his home town to know what a thrill it was hearing it on the air . . . Leaving the composers in an unfunny spot . . . If he did write it, he's an awful chump . . . Never make a dime dat way—lyin' in the new mown hay . . . Lookee, he-ah! Never heard a word I say!

Lee Tracy in Fulton Film

By MARGARET RUSSELL

Lee Tracy of the smooth, limber tongue and that promising young lady, Madge Evans, appear in a fast-moving comedy, full of action, at the Fulton this week. In "The Nuisance," Tracy has a role which suits him to a "T." He is an agile-footed, glib-talking shyster lawyer, who gets to the scene of an accident almost before the ambulance does.

He is the very annoying fly in the ointment of a railways corporation and his sensational, dramatic, if often unethical stunts before juries often make the high-priced corporation counsels look sick. In despair, these thwarted gentlemen decide to fight fire with fire and tricks with tricks.

Madge Evans does very well as a lady detective until she falls in love with her intended victim and has to marry him to keep him out of jail. Frank Morgan is a dottering old inebriate of a doctor, who is willing but weak, and Charles Butterworth does a great deal in his droll, sober way to heighten the comedy.

Besides the feature picture, there is a short presentation, introduced by Theodore Dreiser, "The Strange Case of Tom Moony," in which pictorial evidence is produced to substantiate Moony's innocence, and the long confined prisoner speaks in his own behalf. A short subject, "Hollywood on Parade," and Hearst Metrotone News complete the program.

Warner Baxter Plays 'Odd Thursday' Lead

Warner Baxter, who will come to Pittsburgh soon in "Penthouse," has been assigned the starring role in "Odd Thursday," adapted from the Vera Caspary best seller about a gay modern Casanova, whose inability to keep his dates straight and his women apart involves him in a maze of difficulties. Rochelle Hudson will play the lead opposite Baxter.

Two Comedians in Clara Bow Picture

Two comedians of widely divergent comic appeal, Roger Imhoff and Herbert Mundin, will appear in Clara Bow's next picture, "Hoopla." Imhoff recently completed a character part in Janet Gaynor's "Paddy," and Mundin had appeared in a succession of roles since his notable portrayal in "Cavalcade."

French Ace Has Role In 'Wall of Gold'

Swim Star And Singer To Wed

By HARRISON CARROLL

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 1.—When and if Eleanor Holm marries Arthur Jarrett, the pair will honeymoon against time, for the pretty swimming champ announces that she'll soon be leaving for the East for more personal appearances.

Miss Holm

You can hear plenty of rumors that Eleanor and singing star Jarrett have changed their minds since they filed application to wed on August 22, but the bride-to-be smilingly denies it. She says that Jarrett's picture work with Joan Crawford is holding up the ceremony. There's another picture at Columbia in the offing, and now Jarrett has signed up to return to the Cocoanut Grove on Tuesday night.

Orange blossoms or not, Eleanor looks swell. Her recent training in the East took off 10 pounds. She's now a trim 107.

* * *

For naive alibis, they are awarding the palm to the movie executive who took a dancing girl to lunch the other noon. The girl was in makeup and wore slacks, so they drove in his car to a sandwich stand near the studio. Unfortunately, his wife happened to see them pass by. She was waiting for the executive when he returned to his office. She demanded:

"Who was that woman in your car?"

"Oh, that girl. Why she was just a hitch-hiker."

* * *

Latest report is that Marlene Dietrich will return from Europe minus not only her masculine clothes but her daughter, Maria, as well. The star is said to be considering putting the child in school in Europe, just as Gloria Swanson has done with her two youngsters.

* * *

Is this irony? Jack Miller, who served five years in a Georgia chain gang and who recently has played parts in "I Am a Fugitive" and in Mae West's picture, "I'm No Angel," is leaving Hollywood for Florida where he'll become credit manager in a modiste shop.

* * *

Fast Ones: Carole Lombard has found that small home she was looking for. It's a New Orleans style colonial house with four bedrooms and three baths. Carole will share the place with her mother . . . You have to sympathize with Margaret Sullivan. Fourteen weeks in Hollywood she's had one afternoon off from work and on that afternoon she was arrested for throwing a cigaret into the brush in Laurel Canyon. She spent four hours in the hoosegow . . . Adrienne Ames is up from a light case of flu and she and Bruce Cabot were dancing at the Miramar the other evening . . . Boots Mallory and Dick Powell (here's a new combination) at the same place . . . You'll see the famous Cocoanut Grove in Jean Harlow's picture, "Bombshell." The troupe moved in lights, sound equipment and all—and shot scenes for an entire day.

Miss Lombard

Adolphe Menjou dines tete-a-tete with a pretty blonde at the Club Seville . . . Jerry Asher, M. G. M. publicity man and a close friend of Joan Crawford, has been appointed western representative of the fan magazine, Movie Mirror . . . Who said Virginia Cherrill and Cary Grant were tiring? He went to San Francisco to see her off to Honolulu . . . The "Dancing Lady" troupe at M. G. M. had to shoot around Clark Gable again yesterday. He came to the studio but was so weak that he had to return home.

Jean Harlow is busy these days collecting autographed photos for her new home. Her next picture will be "Bombshell," with Lee Tracy.

New Bills for Silver Screens

Katharine Hepburn, and Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., have the leading roles in "Morning Glory," opening today in the Stanley. Miss Hepburn plays the role of a small town stage-struck girl who has many difficulties in her climb to success. Adolphe Menjou and C. Aubrey Smith are also in the cast.

* * *

"Broadway to Hollywood," with Alice Brady, Frank Morgan, Jackie Cooper, Jimmy Durante, Madge Evans, Eddie Quillan and May Robson in the principal cast, opens today in the Penn. The story is about the ups and downs of a family of vaudeville troupers.

* * *

Joan Blondell and Warren William are featured in a comedy "Goodbye Again" opening today in the Warner. William is an author of sexy best sellers and Miss Blondell is his secretary.

* * *

* * *

Benefit By Stage Guild

The Stage Guild will present its sixth and last play of the summer season for the benefit of the St. Francis Hospital in the hospital auditorium Wednesday evening, September 14. "The Dragon's Tooth," by Madeleine Skelly Foust, Pittsburgh playwright and director, is a love story, based on an old legend. Mrs. Foust is director of the Experimental Theater at Seton Hill College, is on the board of directors of the Drama League, and has appeared in every production of the Stage Guild this season.

The cast, directed by Robert Allen Green, includes: Helen Vrosky, Alexander Kann, Charles V. O'Connor, Viola Brosky, Clarissa Gailliot, John McQuare, Don Sanker, Martin Fallon, Mary Clancy, and Charles Brosky. Tickets for the benefit are available at the hospital, Kaufmann's book department, the Stage Guild downtown office, Nixon Theater Building, or East Liberty office, 5702 Calowhill street, or by phoning Montrose 7183 or Montrose 9911.

Has No First Name, Says Star; 'G. P.' His Label

G. P. Huntley, Jr., who co-starred with Fred Astaire in "Gay Divorce," will play in the Fox production of Rachel Crothers' "As Husbands Go." Huntley is the son of the famous comedian. He appeared in "This Year of Grace," "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes," "Journey's End" and others. He says he has no first name, having been known always as "G. P."

'Penthouse' Will Appear As Serial Feature In Sun-Telegraph

"Penthouse," sensational Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Cosmopolitan production, which, it is declared, will be one of the new season's big hits, is a thrill-packed drama from the masterful pen of Arthur Somers Roche, and is based upon his Cosmopolitan Magazine story which will be run in serial form in the Sun-Telegraph, beginning next Thursday.

It tells the story of the Broadway that Walter Winchell and Louis Sobel writes about, and that O. O. McIntyre uncovers in his brilliant column.

Directed by W. S. Van Dyke, who created such masterpieces as Cosmopolitan Productions' "White Shadows in the South Seas" and M-G-M's "Trader Horn" and "Tarzan, the Ape Man," it relates the adventures of Jackson Durant, portrayed by Warner Baxter, a famous society lawyer who abandons corporation law to become a defense attorney for leaders of the underworld; of his saving a gangster chief from the gallows, of his loss of the love of his fiancee because of this bold move, of his romance with Gertie Waxted, beauteous girl of the night life world, of his detective escapades to satisfy his thirst for adventure and to save a friend from a trumped-up murder charge, of saving his friend, winning the love of Gertie, and the crushing of two racketeering organizations.

Myrna Loy is seen in the glittering role of Gertie Waxted; Phillips Holmes as Sidall, Durant's friend; Mae Clark as Mimi Montagne, for whose murder Sidall is falsely charged, and C. Henry Gordon, as Crelliman, merciless underworld baron.

All in a Day By MARK HELLINGER

Telephone Calls

"HELLO. Hello. Is this Mark, himself? This is J—B—. So you're in the hospital, eh, boy? Well, well, well. First thing I knew about it was when I read your column about the fellow who came in to cheer you up, and then brought you nothing but bad news. Say, that was a corker all right. Mada me laugh to think that a guy could be so stupid.

"When are you getting out, kid? Couple of weeks, eh. Well, cheer up, the worst is yet to come. Wait until they hand you those crutches. You want to be very careful. Wouldn't surprise me in the least if you fell over in a faint.

"Leg feel numb these days? I thought so. I know what it means, boy, because I've been all through it. No fun with all that pain.

"What I really called you up about, Mark, was to give you a gag. Thought it up myself last night and knew you'd be tickled to death to get it. Ready for it? Ha, ha, ha. Listen: They can't keep you out of show business because you're always in a cast. Ha, ha, ha. Isn't that a pip? If you use it, don't forget to put my name on it.

"Well, boy, I'd like to drop in and see you. But to tell you the truth, I can't stand hospital odors. Drives me daffy. And seeing you in pain wouldn't make me any happier either.

"So I'll just say so long for the time being. And write some more stories like the one about the dope who came in to see you and then gave you nothing but bad news. What a sap he must have been. So long." . . . .

* * *

"Hello, Mark. This is Walter Winchell. How're you feeling? Good. Any news for me? That's too bad. Nothing I can use for Monday? Tch, tch, tch. How're you feeling? Good. So long." . . . .

* * *

"Hello, Mark? This is the press agent for the Hollywood cafe. I just got a swell idea, but I thought I'd call you up about it before I went through with it.

"How would you like me to bring down eight or ten of our beauties and have them sit around your room to keep you company? I'd pick out nothing but pips and—what's that? You don't want me to do it? Did I hear you correctly?

"I guess you didn't understand me, Mark. I want to bring down ten beautiful girls to your hospital room. They'll sit all over the place and—

"What's that? Your wife is sitting with you and she sends me her regards? Oh, I get it. Oh, now I get it. Oh—

"So long, Mark." . . .

* * *

"Thank you very much, Mr. Hellinger. You don't know me, but I'm one of your seven readers. I thought of a joke this morning, and my wife said I should call you up about it. It's pretty funny all right.

"You're not a columnist any more. You're an actor. Wanna know why? Because you're in a cast!

"I suppose you want my name to put on that joke, Mr. Hellinger. It's Smith. Tom Smith. I don't really care about having my name in the paper, but my wife gets a great kick out of it. Yeah.

"Hello, Mark? This is Lou Holtz. Listen, I've got a swell gag for you. Don't tell me you've heard it before because it's brand new.

"Seems there was a married couple many years ago who lived in the mountains and had never seen a mirror. One morning, while they were walking through the woods ,the wife found a mirror that——

"What's that? You've heard it before? O. K. Goodby." . . .

* * *

"Hello, is this Mr. Hellinger? Well, I've got a definite complaint to register. You don't know me, but I've been a steady reader of yours for a long time. I called your office this morning to get the name of the hospital you were in, and your secretary refused to give it to me.

"I just want to tell you, sir, that that's a very poor system. I was compelled to argue with him almost 10 minutes before I could wriggle the information out of him. He wanted to know who I was, and what I wanted to speak to you about, and other nonsensical things."

"Perhaps I haven't the right to criticize, Mr. Hellinger, but I think I have. After all, a reader is a reader—and I think I am entitled to a little more courtesy than I was shown this morning. After all is said and done, you can't expect—

"What's that? What did I want to speak to you about in the first place? Well, to tell you the truth, Mr. Hellinger, I've been out of work for some time and I'm up against it. Do you think that, if I dropped in at the hospital, you could spare me a few dollars?" . . .

* * *

"Hello. Is this Mr. Mark Hellinger? It is? Well, you'll never guess who this is. I guess you'll be just as surprised to hear my voice as I was to hear about your accident. This is Madeline G——, from Bombay, India!

"What? Oh, don't you remember? Why, we met in the lobby of the Taj Mahal Hotel, in Bombay. Don't you remember?—my husband, you and I took a ride around the city one afternoon and I picked out a hat for you. Yes, that's right. I just knew you'd remember.

"Well, you funny man, whatever are you doing in a hospital? I just arrived in New York three days back from England. I heard about your accident last night, and I just had to call and find out how you were.

"You're feeling much better now? Well, I'm certainly glad to hear that. It's not like you to be sick, you jolly man. When I think of some of the things you said in Bombay, I could just scream with laughter.

"I'd like to come around to see you, but I'm dreadfully busy these days. So you'll have to take the will for the deed. I'm going to say goodbye, and I certainly hope you're out of the hospital real soon. But before I hang up, I must tell you our favorite joke in Bombay when anybody breaks a leg.

"They say the person is not really sick, because he's just acting. And he's acting because he's in a cast!

"Isn't that cute? Goodbye, dear man. Goodbye." . . .

BEAVER EXILE DAMAGE SUITS THREATENED

Deputy U. S. Attorney Here to Take Action In Federal Court

Damage actions in Federal Court against Beaver County officials and any others implicated in the deportation of 43 Negroes from Beaver County to the West Virginia line were threatened today by Robert L. Vann, Negro attorney and deputy United States attorney general.

Vann said it was his "impression" that testimony taken in the case implicated state highway patrolmen in the kidnaping.

The attorney said he would take the case into Federal Court as a representative of residents of West Virginia who were among those deported.

Vann said he expected no action by Beaver County officials. He added that Gov. Pinchot "did not go far enough" in informing District Attorney A. B. de Castrique that he should prosecute. The state has authority to act summarily against any state officers involved, he said.

The Federal Court actions will charge false arrest and imprisonment, according to Vann.

De Castrique said he had not received the Governor's letter advising prosecution. He said he would prosecute if the evidence warrants it.

The Governor, in his letter released in Harrisburg yesterday, declared that the case came under the common law against kidnaping. The Negroes were arrested last December at the home of Virginia Heath, in Industry, Pa., and, under the direction of certain Beaver County officials, were taken to a point south of Waynesburg, Pa., and put out at night in the rain, according to a report by the Attorney General's office.

HERRON PUSHES RIVER PROJECT

Mayor John S. Herron has telegraphed Harold L. Ickes, National Public Works Administrator, for information on the present status of the $53,000,000 flood control project for the Allegheny and Monongahela rivers.

It is reported that Maj. W. D. Styer, chief of United States Engineers here, has recommended eight dams to cost approximately $6,500,000 less than the original proposal made by the Flood Commission of Pittsburgh.

The Flood Commission's first plan called for 10 reservoirs. Details of the Army engineers' plan have not been announced, but it is reported that one of the dams dropped from consideration is on the Middle Fork River in West Virginia.

The heads of more than 100 communities in Pennsylvania, Ohio and West Virginia recently formed the Tristate Authority for the purpose of pushing the flood control program.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

SANTA MONICA, Cal., Sept. 1.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

Well, like a lot of my big ideas, they just don't seem to work out. There must be a bit of college professor in me somewhere. You remember a couple of days ago I wanted to have the home folks meet their senator. Now that sounded practical. But you would be surprised at the amount of resentment that has come to my rolltop desk.

Will Rogers

Why, my ideas was as "wet" as the state of Washington. They all claim they don't want to see their senator, that's why they elected him—to get rid of him. If they had wanted him at home, they would have kept him at home. So there goes another big Rogers idea in the ashcan.

Yours, WILL.

SUITOR JILTED BY GIRL TRIES SUICIDE

Man Found Wandering In East End With Wrists Slashed

His desire for living gone when a girl spurned his proposal of marriage, M. J. McMahon, 23-year-old druggist of Blairsville, slashed his wrist with a knife, according to police.

McMahon was found wandering in Maryland avenue by two pedestrians who took him to the Pittsburgh Hospital early today.

He first told police he had received his injury in an attempted holdup, but later, they say, admitted that he had inflicted the wound himself after a visit with a friend, Miss Alma Fairbaugh, a nurse, of 5816 Alder street. Miss Fairbaugh admited knowing McMahon.

McMahon was dischagged at a hearing in East End Police Court.

RIDGE MAKES CLEANUP RAID

Constable John S. Ridge made another arrest last night as the result of the instructions he received from Judge W. H. McNaugher to clean up the Fourth Ward.

He made an information against Luella McMasters, of 310 Craft avenue, Oakland, before Justice of the Peace Ira H. Edmundson. Mrs. McMasters was lodged in County Jail, but later provided $500 bail for a hearing Tuesday on a charge of keeping a disorderly house.

Ridge must report the results of his "cleanup" Tuesday to the court.

Judge McNaugher, who issued the order and replaced Deputy Constable Andrew Conroy by John J. Dempsey at Ridge's request, said today:

"He must report Tuesday regarding what has been done since the appointment of the deputy he requested."

Ridge, who faces the penalty of ouster from office if his report does not satisfy the court, had complained that Conroy refused to assist him in raids.

50,000 Ignore Rain to Attend Fair Opening

A little thing like rain? Huh!

So nearly 50,000 filed into the new South Park fair grounds yesterday to see what was what at Allegheny County's first fair on its opening day.

With such a gratifying turnout despite a steady, misty drizzle, it was generally reasoned that cheery Old Sol's appearance would bring a bit of record-breaking.

And the 50,000-odd weren't disappointed. There are pigs, cows, horses, dogs, deer and buffalo; needlework, flowers and tempting displays of the culinary art. In addition, the fair-goer can delve into anything from ballistics to first aid, or chill his blood with a close-up of a head-hunter's ax.

Officially opening the fair, Col. C. C. McGovern, chairman of the board of County Commissioners, delivered the dedicatory address, with Station WJAS transmitting for stay-at-homes, at 2:30 p. m. A 21-gun salute, with the county's new mounted police and the 107th Field Artillery passing in review, launched the field activities, which included a glider exhibit by Gus Haller, an Army plane demonstration, massing of the colors by two score posts of veterans' organizations, and a drum and bugle corps competition.

Aerial fireworks from a plane piloted by Jimmy Franklin, well-known stunt flier, were cancelled because of a low ceiling and a polo game was called off due to a muddy field.

Today's track and field activities were to include a demonstration by horse show entrants, mounted police artillery and infantry drills, an aerial exhibition, polo and fireworks.

Heralding an all-day "camporee" on the grounds tomorrow by Allegheny County Boy Scouts, under auspices of South Hills Scouts and their district commissioner, J. H. Brodfute, an "Old Pioneer" program is to be presented by members of South Hills troops as a highspot of tonight's program.

Hoisting pup tents and going about the usual routine of setting up camp, the boys will open their "camporee" at 10:30 tomorrow morning. The retreat ceremony is scheduled at 6 p. m., and final inspection at 6:30. Throughout the day scouting demonstrations and exhibits will be held.

Other Saturday features are a track and field meet for boys, men and girls, 12 amateur boxing bouts, and a rodeo show by Troop F, Pennsylvania Cavalry.

Navy Vet Tells Story Of Mysterious Cyclops

EDITOR'S NOTE: Everyone pricks up his ears at the mention of the U. S. S. Cyclops, that gigantic naval collier with her crew of 300 officers and enlisted men whose fate since her sudden and mysterious disappearance in 1918 never has been explained. Her memory has been kept fresh in everyone's mind by the newspaper and magazine stories that are published from time to time, each advancing some new theory of her fate.

Today Lieut. James M. Hays, one-time member of the Cyclops' crew, who missed the fate of his shipmates by a miraculous margin, tells you a real story of the Cyclops.

By LIEUT. JIM HAYS

V.

In October, 1917, soon after I left the Naval Academy at Annapolis, I was assigned to duty on the Cyclops, "at whatever port she may be," my orders read. And I found her in the Navy Yard at Norfolk.

The Cyclops was one of the strangest vessels I had ever seen, and, excepting the greatest ocean liners, one of the largest. Her tremendous gray hull, looming high above the navy yard's machine shops and warehouses, was a stirring sight.

Near her stern were two smokestacks, set side by side, instead of fore-and-aft. Up forward, her bridge was set on stilts some 70 feet above the waterline. Between bridge and smokestacks, above deck, she was a network of steel girders like the skeleton of a building, from which a forest of steel cargo booms rose into the air.

Her two slim masts, with radio antenna stretched between them, had to be lowered to pass under the Brooklyn Bridge. Below deck, beneath the beams and booms, were 13 vast cargo holds each with a capacity of 1,000 tons of coal.

The Cyclops was designed and built in 1913 to supply the fleet with fuel. With her capacity of 13,000 tons of coal, she was intended to follow the fleet, in peace maneuvers or in battle; to run alongside a battleship whenever necessary, at top speed, lower her cargo booms out over her side, and toss coal from her holds onto the battleship's deck . . . the original nonstop fueling idea.

She was ingeniously rigged for the purpose, but her heavy superstructure made her top-heavy, and she rolled drunkenly in even a moderate sea. One of her sister-ships, the Jupiter, has recently been remodeled and converted into an airplane carrier . . . a seagoing airport . . . and renamed the Langley, so you have some idea of her titanic size.

The Cyclops carried a crew of

Glassport in Dark As Car Snaps Wire

SEEK TO UPSET DECISION OF COURT

Park Urged to Appeal Case; 'Too Late for This Electoin'

Following a conference of counsel for the Republican organization, it was decided to petition District Attorney Andrew T. Park to appeal from the decision of Common Pleas Court, permitting the Board for the Assessment and Revision of Taxes to investigate electors before they assess them.

Attorney Ira Herwick, who made the announcement, said that should Park decide to appeal, the act would do no good as far as the coming elections are concerned, for a decision on an appeal could not be obtained in time to benefit the organization.

'OPENS AVENUE FOR FRAUD'

Counsel for the latter claim that everybody appearing to be assessed should be assessed and the Registration Commission sitting in each district be the judge as to whether those assessed should be registered.

Some, however, believe this is too broad a contention and only opens the avenue for fraud.

Judge Elder W. Marshall, who wrote the majority opinion, held that the Board for the Assessment and Revision of Taxes has a right to assure itself against so-called "ghost" or "phantom" votes of persons who have themselves assessed and who actually vote in scores of districts. He ruled there was no statute against the board's right to make an investigation.

PARK OUT OF TOWN

Park is out of town and will not return until after Labor Day. At the District Attorney's office it was stated that many persons have written that they were not assessed.

The court in its decision called attention to the fact that few persons had protested to the court regarding the matter and that any who appeared would be heard.

Residents of Mifflin Township will resemble Diogenes beginning next Monday night.

The lanterns they use will not be for any quest for an honest man, but to help them find their destinations.

With the township owing the Duquesne Light Company more than $4,000 for street lighting and with no visible income for the near future, the township commissioners last night voted to have the street lights turned off beginning Monday night. This will be a saving of $200 a month.

Several weeks ago the commissioners discharged the township's two-man police force to save money.

SUSPECT SHOT FLEEING POLICE NEAR DEATH

Alleged Safecracker Wounded in Dash For Freedom

A safe cracker suspect whose flight from a detective radio cruiser was halted by a bullet in front of the North Side Police Station late yesterday afternoon, lay in a critical condition in Allegheny General Hospital today.

Raymond English, 33, whose real name, detectives say, is Jack Norman, was shot through the abdomen by Detective Harry Foster as he broke from the detective's grasp and dashed out of the car in which he was being taken to the North Side Police Station. As scores of pedestrians looked on, Foster pulled his revolver and fired one shot. English fell to the street.

ARRESTED ON NORTH SIDE

Foster and Detective Joseph Leith arrested English at East North avenue and Sandusky street on a warrant forwarded here by police from Parkersburg, W. Va., who said he was one of four men who dynamited a safe in the office of the Workmen's Finance Corporation in Parkersburg. They failed to open the inner doors of the vault, which contained $1,800 in cash.

The other three, arrested shortly after the attempted robbery, are Oscar F. Stemmler and Harry Thornburg, alias Ronomo, both of the North Side, and John Lang, of Fairmont, W. Va., according to Police Chief C. H. Watson, of Parkersburg.

'HALT OR I'LL SHOOT!"

Foster said:

"We had been looking for the car English was driving as the one in which yeggs, responsible for safe 'jobs' here, were using. We saw the car in East North avenue and arrested English.

"I searched English for weapons and nitro-glycerine and then ordered him into the back seat of the radio car. I told my partner Leith to drive to the North Side Police Station. As the car was being brought to a stop in front of the station, English bolted. I drew my revolver and aimed it carefully to avoid wounding a pedestrian and fired once. In the machine I warned him I'd shoot if he fled."

OUT ON PAROLE

James Parker, Avalon patrolman, advised detectives he had captured English shortly after he had ransacked the home of Mrs. Carl M. Maukert, 129 Harrison avenue, Avalon, December 4, 1930, while Mrs. Maukert held a bridge party upstairs of her home. English, then using his right name, was held for court and paroled for two and a half years by Judge Moore, Parker said.

Inspector of Detectives Frank R. Boyd said the gang was suspected of a dozen safe robberies in the city in the last year. An effort will be made to question those under arrest in Parkersburg about the robberies here.

3RD CLASS CITY VOTE ROLLS UP

Indications that the Monongahela Valley sections will cast one of the heaviest votes in history at the primaries this month, was seen today in the results of the first day's registration in the third-class cities of the county. Although the registration was extremely heavy, there were no outstanding indications that the voters were swinging to the Democratic colors.

Results from 31 of the 33 districts in McKeesport showed that the Democratic registration jumped from 413 on the first registration day a year ago to 724 this year. The Republican total leaped from 2,987 to 4,915. The scattered party followers who registered yesterday made the total in the districts reported 5,654 to 3,438 last year.

Scattered returns from Clairton and Duquesne indicated registration was extremely heavy in both cities.

In Westmoreland County yesterday, Monessen went Democratic and in Greensburg the Democratic registration also was heavy.

COX EXCURSION TIME EXTENDED

Father Cox is getting home late today from Milwaukee, Wis., where he has been attending the annual convention of the Veterans of the World War of which he is the national chaplain. On the way back he stopped off at Chicago and made arrangements with the railway company by which his excursion to the Century of Progress Exposition, leaving Pittsburgh tomorrow night, will not leave Chicago until 10 o'clock Sunday night.

This will give the party an opportunity to view the night illumination of the World's Fair. This also gives the party a full day at the Exposition.

More than 200 have already been booked for the trip and it is probable that the Pennsylvania Railroad Company will have to employ a special train for the Father Cox excursion.

V. F. W. NAMES COX, WOODSIDE

MILWAUKEE, Sept. 1.—(AP.)—Nominated unanimously yesterday, James E. Van Zandt, Altoona, Pa., was assured of election today to the post of commander in chief of the Veterans of Foreign Wars. He will succeed Admiral Robert E. Coontz.

Robert Woodside, Pittsburgh, was chosen unanimously to fill a vacancy on the Board of Trustees of the Veterans of Foreign Wars Hospital at Eaton Rapids, Mich.

The veterans adopted resolutions favoring rehabilitation of the Navy and opposed to reduction in the armed forces of the nation; in favor of repeal of the National Eocnomy Act, immediate payment of the soldier bonus, a five-year moratorium on foreign immigration and deportation of alien Communists, and restoration of claims of vets and their dependents under the National Economy Act.

QUIZ MITCHELL SON IN SLAYING

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—(AP.)—Inquiry into the mysterious death of Henry F. Sanborn, railroad executive, was resumed last night with the questioning of Bancroft Mitchell, investment broker, on his return from Europe.

Accompanied by his father, William D. Mitchell, United States Attorney General in the Hoover administration, Mitchell presented himself at the office of the assistant district attorney in Queens.

The body of Sanborn, who authorities believe was slain, was found in a shallow grave in Queens on August 5.

The Mitchells arrived at the office of Chief Assistant District Attorney Sullivan accompanied by their counsel, former Supreme Court Justice Proskauer, and Frank H. Towsley.

Sullivan first questioned the former judge, then the elder Mitchell, and then the young broker. What passed in the District Attorney's office remained undisclosed.

In Sanborn's pockets when his body was found was a receipt signed by young Mitchell for four shares of brewery stock.

SAIL ALONG WITH YOUTH!

It's always smooth sailing for those who feel young! And you can feel young at any age if you get plenty of the things that youth is made of: proteins and minerals, carbohydrates and vitamins. That's what the food authorities call these vital elements. You can call them something simpler—just ask for Shredded Wheat.

For Nature stores all these youth-building elements in her richest cereal grain, whole wheat. And Shredded Wheat is whole wheat with nothing added, nothing taken away. It's whole wheat with all its vital elements, all the bran just as Nature measured it.

Won't you try this vitally different food ... for at least 10 days? It's ready cooked, ready to eat. Serve it with milk or cream. Add the fresh or preserved fruit that you prefer. And watch it wake your appetite ... and your youth!

When you see Niagara Falls on the package, you KNOW you have Shredded Wheat.

MAIL MEN PUSH PAY FIGHT

Taking issue with figures cited by Postmaster William M. Turner, substitute letter carriers of the Pittsburgh district today had launched a fight against "starvation" wages they claim to be receiving.

Turner in a statement yesterday showed figures indicating part-time workers had earned from $24.39 to $64.22 for the two-week period, August 1 to August 15. The sub-carriers asked "in all fairness" that wages paid during the seven-month period prior to August 1 be cited. During that time it was pointed out many men earned a total of only $150.

The action was taken at a meeting last night at which the substitute letter carriers were organized. George Kennett was elected president.

As Roberts elbowed his way through the crowd in Tombs Court, there were cries of:

"Now you're going to get it"; "You've got it coming to you."

"Take it, it's no good to me."

Court attendants said the papers appeared to be $1,000 bonds of the Straus company.

Roberts was arrested on complaint of a woman investor who charged bonds to the value of $10,000 purchased by her had been falsely represented.

P. O. STRIKE OFF, MEN RETURN

End of a strike which has tied up work on the new $8,000,000 postoffice building since July 12 was announced today by Maj. Robert Greenfield, United States engineer in charge of construction. As a result of the terms reached by union leaders and contractors, about 500 men will return to work Tuesday.

Under the settlement, lathers, steamfitters, plumbers and plasterers will receive $12 daily, plumbers' helpers, $7; hod carriers, $9, and laborers, $7.

The Hachmeister-Lind Company, sub-contractor for plastering, will not pay the increased rate, it was announced, and has retired from the job. The contract has been given the Boland & McMahon Company, of Cleveland.

STORES CLOSED ALL DAY LABOR DAY

RADIO DEALERS PREDICT PRICE BOOST

A "substantial increase" in radio pirces are expected in the next 30 days, according to opinions expressed today by presidents of three leading radio firms in the city.

They based their conclusions on the fact that labor prices are steadily increasing as NRA codes are filed daily and that raw materials entering into their product are going up.

To save money, the public should buy now, they pointed out, for their stock on hand is being sold at the lower prices.

LABOR COSTS UP

C. R. Rogers, president of the C. R. Rogers Company, 5434 Penn avenue, said:

"We had three increases in August and that is only three of several that are coming. It is due to increased labor costs brought about by the NRA codes. Wt had the biggest season in August that we have had in the last eight years and we are running an enormous back order list. I rather think that prices on radios will soon be back to levels of 1930 and 1931."

Elmer A. Hamburg, president of Hamburg Bros., 936 Liberty avenue, said:

"Radio prices are not near advanced to figures we will see in the next 30 days. The radio manufacturers so heartily agreed to support the President's code that it has increased wages to such an extent that they are forced to increase prices. They have to revamp their entire organizations and are unable to cope with the demands, which are greater than the supply. It will take them at least 60 days with full steam ahead to catch up with the demands."

URGE BUYING NOW

Ludwig Hommel, president of Ludwig Hommel & Co., 929 Penn avenue, said:

"The public can unquestionably save by buying now for prices are going up right along. Radio prices have been extremely low, and it is impossible to tell exactly what they are going to be, but I know that there will be a substantial increase."

Firemen's Harvest Home Fete Monday

A harvest home celebration will be held Labor Day by Chicora firemen. In the morning there will be a parade, a water battle and ball game. Bicycle and foot races and another baseball game and water battle is feattured in the afternoon. At 8 p. m. an old-time fiddlers' contest will be held.

MINT ALE

A Refreshing Cooling Summer Drink—

That's* Different

Try it, you and your friends will enjoy it!

Put some fresh mint leaves, a sliced lemon, about ½ cup of Jack Frost Powdered Sugar, and a little water in the bottom of a pitcher. Crush the mint leaves and the sliced lemon, and stir until the sugar is dissolved. Add ice, pour in a bottle of ginger ale and an equal amount of water. Stir — and serve!

For cooling summer drinks of this kind Jack Frost Pure Cane Powdered Sugar is the ideal sugar to use.

Remember — every pound of Jack Frost Sugar is made in refineries in this country — not imported. So, when you buy Jack Frost you help to keep workmen employed.

TELL IT TO ELSIE

Follow This Unusual Feature Day by Day

By ELSIE ROBINSON

We Can't Make Ourselves Big by Boasting

Do you boast—"lay it on thick"—tell folks what a great guy you are?

If so—why? Do you know? Is it because you really are an Important Citizen—or is there some other reason?

And what effect, if any, are you making on your audience? Are you giving yourself a Real Boost—or a Big Knock, when you tell your Tall Tales? Are folks really impressed—or do they just duck for the nearest exit?

Here's the story of a big boy to whom exactly that is happening . . .

Is it happening to you?

His wife tells the story . . . and it has her worried.

"What on earth ails him?" she wails. "He isn't dumb, by any means. He has a fairly good job. He is likeable. People would appreciate him, if he wouldn't toot his own horn so loudly that he bores them to death.

"He never seems to be satisfied with what he does or what he has. If he makes a sale in his business, he always tells it bigger than it is. If he buys a car, or a new rug for the living room, he always boosts the price that he paid. He never seems willing to trust to other peoples' eyesight to see that what he has bought is useful or beautiful. He seems obsessed to tell big stories about it, and about his own success.

"When I first knew him, I realized that he was something of an exaggerator, but I never dreamed that his boasting would reach the proportions it has.

IS NOT BELIEVED

"Since times have been hard, he has been worse than ever. There have been periods when our finances were scanty, to say the least. It was my instinct to just worry along and keep still when things were like that. But not his. He was "prosperous" no matter what happened. I know he has made enemies by telling in a large manner, how he was keeping his head above water, when they moaned about how their business had gone to pot. He just seems to have to triumph over people, somehow or other, whether he really has or not.

And the worst of it is that nobody believes him any more. He thinks of course, that he is impressing people. But I see them exchange insultingly knowing looks when he gets going, and I have even overheard other men refer to him as "that big blowhard," and tell each other that they can believe just about half—or maybe less—of what he says.

It hurst me. I know that he really is a fine fellow, and has many fine traits, but people don't give him credit for what he really is, because his boasting antagonizes them, and makes them belittle him. If he really did something tremendous, they wouldn't give him credit, because he has boasted so much."

NO NEED TO BOAST

That isn't a very happy picture, is it? But it's a picture of nine out of ten folks who toot their own horns. No boaster ever lived who didn't queer himself and defeat the very end he was so frantic to attain. No boaster ever gets away with it.

Then why does he do it? He does it because he has a frantic secret fear that he is actually very small potatoes, and people won't notice him unless he tells them all about himself.

Which, of course, is hooey. Every man, and every woman, no matter how humble, has something worth while to offer . . . and the way to make folks realize that, is to give service, not sound. To be something, not just boast about it. To be sincere, modest, dignified, friendly. To be interested, not in outshining the other fellow, but in making him appreciate himself. No really big man needs to boast. And no small man can make himself big by boasting.

Think that over, Stranger. It may be the key to plenty that makes your life a mess . . . and also the key to making it a fine and satisfying adventure.

'One-Tree Island' Reminds Fay King of Many Tiny Homes

By FAY KING

Of all the wonderful things I have read about in so many delightful travel books, I think most often of a little island out in the Mid-Pacific.

It lies near the Equator, passed by all the ships that sail between Australia and North America. Because of a lone palm tree on it, seamen called it "One-Tree Island."

You will not find it on the map, or hear its praises sung, but more precious than pearls or gold are its stores of water and supplies for the shipwrecked.

And, like that little island, there are countless useful lives, and brave little homes in the great sea of humanity. Unsung, but stored with priceless courage, hope and faith for times of trouble or sorrow.

Given in Marriage

A Sequel to Heart Of a Wife

By ADELE GARRISON

Madge Tells Grantland of Phil Veritzen

I rarely have been so furious with myself as I was when the realization that I was to telephone Philip Veritzen, with Hugh Grantland within earshot, sent the blood flying to my cheeks. I was miserably conscious that Hugh was looking curiously at that telltale color, and wondered what far-fetched and bizarre construction he might put upon my confusion.

An old and vivid memory stirred within me of a day, during one of Hugh's rare visits to New York, when he had come to take me to drive, and Philip Veritzen, at that time my employer, had been insufferable in his attempt to create the impression that he was romantically interested in me, and that I returned that interest.

Hugh had stood by silently, had driven with me for miles in an equally poignant silence, and had given way to his own emotions but once when, standing by the bank of a little woodland stream, he had caught me to him in an embrace as fierce as it was momentary and unusual—he never had caressed me before during our long friendship—and said hoarsely:

"Listen to me! I have kept silent all these years, but—if you ever leave your husband, you are going to me—not to any other man.

He had apologized for the outburst almost immediately afterward, but though I had convinced him that I had no feeling other than liking for my employer and admiration for his genius, he never had changed his opinion of the great producer, and I had guessed that his jealousy of Philip Veritzen had grown with the years and was augmented by the knowledge that Mr. Veritzen's acceptance of my play and forthcoming production of it had brought me into intimate daily association with him.

HUGH CURIOUS

"I may need you to fight a battle for me," I told him. "Let me tell you about it before you get my number."

"I am all ears," he said, smiling, and slipping into a chair opposite me.

"Has Lillian told you anything of the difficulties surrounding this marriage of Noel and Mary?" I asked.

"Not a word," he answered. "I only saw her for a minute the day I called at the farm house, and that has been my only contact with her. But I have been curious to know how the young people succeeded in overcoming the very patent and ugly opposition of—Noel's father."

"They didn't overcome it," I said, thankful that I could steer the conversation into safe channels before making my telephone call. "Mr. Veritzen has been quiescent since the Avis Arlen episode, but we found out the other day that he was apparently planning something more atrocious, although Lillian believes him guiltless of anything more than trying to separate the two young people."

EXPLAINS TO HIM

"He is capable of anything," Hugh Grantland said with decision, and I hurried on.

"I am inclined to agree with you, especially where this marriage is concerned," I said emphatically, and I saw Hugh's eyes light up.

"Do you wish to tell me what he did?" he asked, as I hesitated.

"Yes, I do," I returned quickly. "He told Mary two weeks ago that he was sending her to Paris in three weeks for a year's study and sojourn in a French family. This, despite the fact that he knew Noel could not go at this time, without upsetting the production of his operetta and his lecture engagements."

"Oh! How vile of him!" Hugh exclaimed, and I nodded in assent.

"There is worse to come," I said, "or at least I think so. The same day he gave Mary that ultimatum, we found a Paris newspaper letter that told of a forthcoming sojourn in Paris, incognito, of King Georges of Trees, and stressed the rumor that the engagement between Georges and Olina had been broken. You see, don't you?"

"I see that he ought to be put against a wall with a squad of rifles trained on him," Hugh said. "But however did you overcome his opposition? I suppose you were the one who was able to do it. I can't imagine his listening to anyone else."

Contract Bridge

HOW TO PLAY and HOW TO WIN

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

Thoughtless Play

It is absolutely certain that many hands are lost at the Bridge table because of thoughtless play, which in some instances costs both a game and rubber. The hand below, on which the North and South players reached a contract of four hearts is an excellent example.

South, Dealer.

Mr. W. J. Huske

♠ K 10 6
♡ A 6 3
◇ A 9 6 5 2
♣ 9 6

♠ A 8 5 2 ♡ 7 ◇ K 8 7 4 ♣ Q 8 7 3 — North, West, East, South

♠ Q 9 4 3 ♡ J 10 9 5 ◇ Q J 3 ♣ A 5

♠ J 7 ♡ K Q 8 4 2 ◇ 10 ♣ K J 10 4 2

Mr. W. Malowan

The four heart contract is an entirely natural one to reach, its success depending only upon a fair share of the lucky breaks, one of them being a break in trumps.

West's Opening lead was a small club, which was won by East, who returned the same suit. Mr. Malowan won with the King and played two rounds of trumps, and when West failed to follow suit apparently the last chance of making the hand was gone, as the club Queen undoubtedly was in the West hand. However, there was still a chance that East might make a misplay, which he actually did. South played the Knave of clubs, and West refused to cover. This play was correct. A diamond was discarded from the Dummy, and East, reasoning that he had a sure trump trick at any time, refused to trump. East should have realized that his partner held the Queen of clubs and that South therefore had another club loser. His correct play was to trump the Knave of clubs and then draw the last trump from Dummy. This play would have resulted in the defeat of the contract by one trick.

Today's Question

The bidding, neither side vulnerable, was:

South	West	North	East
1 ♡	Pass	2 ◇	2 ♠
Pass	Pass	Pass

West held:

♠ — ♡ Q 9 6 3 ◇ Q 10 7 3 ♣ J 10 8 5 2

Should West have taken his partner out in the club suit or notrump?

Answer: No. Any bid by West at this time would be interpreted as showing some strength and might carry the bidding even higher in spades. The hand might play better in clubs, but it is too dangerous to bid the suit. There is also the possibility that North and South might continue in hearts and diamonds.

Correct Manners

By CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Toothpicks

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I have been interested in regularly reading your articles on "Correct Manners" and I would like to know if you would object to writing me your frank expression on a subject that has recently been discussed by some of my intimates?

I should like to know if, in an office, in a lunchroom, in a drug store, or in one's home, before other people, it is ever permissible for one to remove food from between one's teeth, with the aid of a wooden or quill toothpick, or a finger, and if it is permitted to carry in one's mouth the implement that is used for that purpose? Does not the most primary rule of etiquette require that for such an operation a person must retire to absolute privacy?

I shall appreciate very much an expression from you.

M.

ABSOLUTE privacy, it should, and must be, for this unattractive operation. It's certainly anything but a pleasant proceeding to watch, and we shouldn't any more think of using a toothpick in public than we would think of using the toothbrush in public.

Fortunately, this boorish proceeding has been so much "spoofed" in this country, in various telling ways, that we have become definitely conscious of its repulsive appearance. There's nothing so salutary as a little humor about this sort of thing, a little "seeing ourselves as others see us" using a toothpick. The visualization is devastating!

Fiancee's Parents

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I have been engaged to a young lady for about two months. When I visit her home I address her mother and father as Mr. and Mrs. X. I was told to say "Mother" and "Dad."

Please tell me how to address them correctly. H.

How you address your fiancee's parents depends on their wishes, what they suggest that you do. If it was they who "told you to say 'Mother' and 'Dad'" then by all means adopt this friendly and intimate suggestion. But if it was some outsider who suggested this, don't adopt these familiar names until you have seen what your fiancee and her parents wish to have you do.

Household Hints

Use linseed oil for cleaning linoleum and grained paint work. It should be rubbed well in with a soft flannel.

Before laying a carpet rub the floor boards thoroughly with turpentine and you will keep the moths away.

Diamonds are freed from dust and take on a new brilliancy if a little ammonia is rubbed on the under side of the stone.

Try cooking your cereal a while the night before and leaving the double boiler remain over the pilot light during the night. It will only take a minute to bring it to a boil in the morning, as the water will stay warm.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Prickly Heat Often Due to Diet

I have had lots of letters requesting information regarding prickly heat. This is an inflammation of the skin which commonly affects infants and and young children during hot weather. The affliction is very annoying to the child and may alarm the parent although it is rarely of a serious nature.

Dr. Copeland

It is a strange malady and afflicts some children more frequently and more seriously than others. In fact some unfortunate youngsters are extremely sensitive to this disturbance. A child who has a delicate and sensitive skin is particularly liable to develop prickly heat.

Bright red blotches suddenly appear on the skin. These red patches may be covered with small blisters. The rash spreads with great rapidity over the neck, forehead, back or chest. Itching and stinging are the chief symptoms.

The attack usually continues for two or three days. In extremely susceptible children it may last for many weeks.

Many mothers become alarmed at the first sight of such an inflammation. They fear the child is the victim of some serious and perhaps contagious disease. May I assure the worried mother that prickly heat is not a serious disturbance and it quickly responds to simple treatment.

The inflammation of the skin is traced to an irritation of the small sweat glands in the skin. During hot weather these glands secrete profusely and are liable to inflammation and irritation as a result of overactivity. The fluid thrown out by the sweat gland is acid in reaction and if too great in quantity readily irritates a sensitive skin.

During very hot weather children with sensitive skins should not be permitted to engage in strenuous and exerting play. They should not be exposed to excessive heat and sunshine. Often, too, the inflammation of the skin can be traced to overdressing or to tight and irritating clothing. During warm weather the child should be attired in loose and cool garments.

As I have said, the inflammation can usually be traced to the over-activity of the skin glands. But there is a belief that prickly heat results from the eating of certain foods during hot weather.

If the inflammation of the skin is due to food it can usually be traced to a diet carrying an excessive quantity of protein foods, such as meat, cereals and eggs. For this reason, I would advise that the diet be very carefully planned during hot weather. It should consist of easily digested substances that are nutritious but will not tend to bring about digestive disturbances.

Bear in mind that prickly heat can be prevented by frequent bathing, careful drying of the skin and the use of a good toilet powder. Relief from the inflammation can be obtained by the application of an appropriate lotion. In certain cases bland powders prescribed by the physician are more beneficial than a lotion.

Answers to Health Queries

Mrs. M. M. P. Q.—What do you advise for constipation?

A.—Eat simple, well-cooked food. Avoid foods unduly rich in fats and starches. Send self-addressed, stamped envelope for further particulars and repeat your question.

James B. Q.—Are chills and sweats caused by nervousness?

E. S. Q.—How can I grow taller?

A.—There is nothing you can do to increase the height.

S. C. D. Q.—I am 24 years old, 6 feet tall. What should I weigh?

A.—You should weigh about 167 pounds. This is about the average weight for one of your age and height as determined by examination of a large number of persons. A few pounds above or below the average is a matter of little or no significance.

Pattern 1535
Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph 15c Practical Pattern

Contrast is always a refreshing note . . . here it tops one of the smartest morning frocks we've ever seen. The surplice bodice closing, the smart seaming where the yoke joins the lower bodice, and the simple skirt line achieve good proportions for the matronly figure. Buttons add a chic note. A frock you'll enjoy if made of silk or cotton with contrast or in one color.

Pattern 1535 is available in sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48. Size 36 takes 2½ yards 36-inch fabric and 1⅛ yards contrasting. Illustrated step-by-step sewing instructions included with this pattern.

RECIPES BY PRUDENCE PENNY

ROYAL OMELET—4 eggs, ¾ cup hot milk, 12 butter crackers, rolled fine, 4 tablespoons butter, salt and pepper, 1 cup hot creamed chicken, 1 finely minced green pepper.

Separate eggs and beat yolks until lemon-colored. Pour hot milk over crumbled crackers and 2 tablespoons butter, and beat until of the consistency of white sauce. Blend with egg yolks and season. Beat egg whites until stiff and fold into the yolk mixture. Melt remaining butter in heavy frying pan and pour the omelet into it. Cook, covered, over very low flame until barely set. When of custard consistency, spread with chicken and green pepper, and fold one-half of the omelet over the other half. Transfer to a hot platter and serve at once. Serves 6.

* * *

CELERY APPETIZER—Cut celery stalks into 3-inch lengths. Cut one end of each piece into very fine strips and place in a bowl of ice water. The finely cut end will curl. When ready to serve, grate carrots, moisten with mayonnaise and season with salt, and use to stuff the celery.

* * *

CHEESE GINGER—Soften 1 package cream cheese with milk and beat until creamy. Add 2 tablespoons candied ginger, chopped. Spread on toast.

* * *

FRIED TOMATOES—Select small ripe tomatoes. Drop in boiling water for a minute then plunge into cold water. Remove skins. Dip in beaten egg (add 1 tablespoon water to each egg) and roll in fine bread or cracker crumbs. Place in frying basket, lower into deep fat and fry until golden brown. (If tomatoes are large they may be cut into quarters before preparing for frying.)

* * *

CHERRY BISQUE—1 cup cream, 12 cookies, rolled fine; ¼ cup blanched roasted almonds, cut fine; 12 maraschino cherries, cut in quarters.

Beat cram stiff and fold in remaining ingredients. Freeze without stirring. Serves six.

* * *

Beat egg yolk, add marshmallow whip. Fold in whipped cream. Line dish or mold with chocolate snaps, add above mixture and repeat with remaining snaps and mixture. Chill well before serving. Serves six.

* * *

SQUASH PUFF — 2 cups dry squash pulp (cooked squash run through sieve), 1 tablespoon melted butter, 1 egg, 1 teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, ¼ teaspoon cinnamon, ½ teaspoon sugar.

Mix well the squash, melted butter, salt, pepper, cinnamon, sugar and slightly beaten egg. Cut rounds of paper about 3 inches in diameter, oil and place in oiled pans. Put the squash mixture in a pastry bag and squeeze out in a mound shape on the rounds of paper. Brown in a hot oven. Remove with a spatula and slip off the paper. Serve hot.

* * *

RICED SQUASH — Cut squash into pieces and bake or steam until tender. Run through a potato ricer into a hot serving dish. Do not press down. Serve with melted butter to which a generous amount of salt and pepper have been added.

* * *

JAVANESE CORN. — Cut corn from the cob. Season well with butter, salt and pepper. Add a little cream and cook until tender. Pour into a greased baking dish, cover generously with shredded cocoanut and brown in a moderate oven.

* * *

SQUASH SOUFFLE. — 4 tablespoons fat, 4 tablespoons flour, 1½ teaspoons salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, ½ teaspoon sugar, 1 cup milk, 1½ cups squash pulp (cooked squash run through sieve), 3 eggs.

Melt fat, add flour, salt, pepper and sugar and mix well. Add milk gradually and cook over hot water about eight minutes. Add well beaten egg yolks and squash pulp. Cool slightly. Fold in stiffly beaten whites. Turn into greased baking dish, set in pan of hot water, and bake about 50 minutes in a moderate oven.

* * *

BEETS IN SOUR CREAM.—Cook 4 to 6 medium-sized beets, peel and chop them coarsely and place them in a saucepan, sprinkling with 1½ tablespoonfuls of sugar, 2 tablespoonfuls of vinegar, 1 tablespoonful of butter, ½ teaspoonful of salt and a dash or two of pepper. Simmer for 5 minutes, then add ½ cupful of sour cream blended with 1 tablespoonful of flour. Cook until thick, and serve.

JELLED CUCUMBERS—1 package lime gelatin, 1 cup warm water, 1 cup grated cucumber, 1 tablespoon vinegar, 1 teaspoon onion juice, ½ teaspoon salt, dash of cayenne. Dissolve gelatin in warm water. Add cucumber, vinegar, onion juice and seasonings. Force through sieve. Turn into mold. Chill until firm. Serve on crisp lettuce. Garnish with mayonnaise.

* * *

Prunes Are Recommended By Health Authority

This Food, Which May Be Served in a Variety of Ways, Is an Excellent Source of Important Vitamins and Minerals.

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.,
United States Senator From New York,
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

Recently I received an interesting letter from a young mother. She wrote, "My daughter, aged 6, has eaten prunes once a day since she was three months old. She has never been constipated nor has she ever taken a laxative. I believe this is due to her daily prune diet."

I cannot say whether the prune diet alone has kept the young child in such excellent condition, but it is probable that the prunes helped. The prune is an important food one that should be included in the diet of adults as well as the young.

This fruit is a plum dried without removing the pit. For many years American housewives depended upon the European markets for their supply. Within recent years the prune has been extensively cultivated in this country. Today, California supplies most of the prunes needed for domestic use.

There are various grades. The French type is most popular. It is grown in California. It has a glossy skin, is sweet, heavy and has a bright colored flesh of fine texture which clings to the pit. A larger prune, known as the Italian type, is grown in Oregon and Washington. It has a bright colored flesh which easily separates from the pit. As a rule it is more tart than the French variety.

IS NUTRITIOUS

The prune is a nutritious fruit and has a high sugar content. In addition it contains important vitamins and valuable mineral substances, such as lime, phosphorus and iron. It is considered an excellent tonic and blood builder and because of its ease of digestion is frequently given to invalids, young children and elderly persons.

The lime and phosphorous are elements necessary for strong and sturdy bones. The prune has a mildly laxative action and is easy to digest. The fruit can be included in the diet of the infant as early as the fourth or fifth month. It is a fruit that can be given to all members of the family.

ECONOMICAL FOOD

Many housewives soak prunes over night. This is not necessary and often prunes soaked in this way become soft, mushy and water-soaked. This spoils the flavor and tempting taste of the prune. Soak the fruit and rinse in scalding water, then wash in cold water, place in a porcelain cooking vessel and allow to simmer until tender.

Fortunately this healthful fruit is an economical food, well within the reach of everyone. They can be purchased at all seasons of the year.

Prunes can be served in a variety of ways. They may be stewed with other fruits, such as lemon or oranges. They combine well with all dishes. The busy housewife uses them in pies, puddings and cakes. No matter how served, they make a wholesome and welcome dish.

spoon water to each egg) and roll in fine bread or cracker crumbs. Place in frying basket, lower into deep fat and fry until golden brown.

* * *

FRESH CORN CHOWDER—Piece fat salt pork, 1x3 inches, 1 sliced onion, 4 potatoes cut in ¾-inch slices, 2 cups corn cut from cob, cooked, 1 quart milk, 8 crackers, salt and pepper.

Cut salt pork in small pieces, fry it out in frying pan. Add the sliced onion, cook 5 minutes. Strain the fat into a saucepan, add the potatoes and boiling water to it and cook till potatoes are soft. Then add the milk and corn, heat to the boiling point. Season with salt and pepper. Moisten the crackers in a little cold milk, serve them on top of the chowder.

* * *

SPANISH VEAL BALLS—2 cups ground cooked veal, ¼ cup chopped cooked salt pork, 10 soda crackers, rolled fine, salt and pepper, 1 egg, beaten, 3 cups tomato sauce (seasoned with minced onion, chopped green pepper, and salt and pepper).

Mix meat, crackers, seasoning and egg. Shape into 12 balls and brown quickly in a small amount of fat. Pour well-seasoned tomato sauce over meat balls; cover and simmer for 40 minutes.

* * *

PEAR AND CHERRY SALAD—Peel and slice firm ripe pears. Remove the stones from large black cherries and fill with cream cheese. Arrange the fruit on crisp lettuce and serve with French dressing to which chili sauce and chopped watercress have been added.

* * *

HONEY - PINEAPPLE BRAN BREAD—1 cup flour, 4 teaspoons baking powder, ¾ teaspoon salt, 1¼ cups bran, 2 eggs, ¼ cup honey, ¾ cup milk, 1 tablespoon melted butter, ½ cup drained, crushed pineapple.

Sift together flour, baking powder and salt. Add bran. Add well-beaten eggs, honey, milk and butter. Add drained pineapple, stir thoroughly, and bake in loaf pan about 25 minutes.

PRUDENCE PENNY'S RECIPES

THE COOK'S TOUR -:- Sour Cream Cake

Beat two eggs together until light and fluffy; then add 1 cupful of sugar a little at a time, beating until creamy.

To the mixture, add 1 cupful of sour cream, to which ¼ teaspoon of baking soda has been added and well mixed.

Sift flour, then measure one cupful, add 1 teaspoon baking powder and ¼ teaspoon salt, and sift two or three times.

Add 1 teaspoon vanilla, pour into greased square pan (loaf) and bake 45 to 50 minutes in a moderate oven (350 deg. F.).

BAKED HADDOCK WITH CRABMEAT STUFFING

Stuffing

One can crabmeat, 1 tablespoon chopped onion, 2 tablespoons chopped green pepper, ¼ cup chopped celery, ½ cup bread crumbs, 1 egg (well beaten), 1 teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon pepper, 1 tablespoon melted butter.

Mix all together well and stuff into well cleaned and salted fish. Sew together with string. Roll in flour and place in buttered pan and bake 1 hour at 375 degrees. Serves six.

* * *

SWEETBREAD MOUSSE

One sweetbread, 1-3 cup breast of chicken (raw), 1 egge white, ¾ cup cream.

Parboil the sweetbread for 10 minutes, then chop and rub through a sieve. You should have about ½ cupful. Mix with the chicken meat. Pound in a mortar and again pass through sieve. Add gradually well beaten egg and work well together until smooth. Then add cream and mix well. Butter timbale molds and fill with mixture. Place in a pan of hot water and cover with buttered paper. Then put in oven to bake until firm. Before serving, pour around the sweetbread a sauce made of 3 tablespoons melted butter, 3 tablespoons flour, 1 cup rich chicken stock, ½ cup heavy cream. Season with cooking sherry and ¼ teaspoon beef extract. Add salt and pepper to taste.

* * *

HONEY SALAD DRESSING FOR FRUIT SALAD—Three egg yolks, ½ cup strained honey, 1 tablespoon sugar, 1-3 cup lemon juice, grated rind of 1 lemon, ½ cup sweet whipped cream.

Beat eggs until frothy, add honey, sugar, lemon juice and rind. Put over a fire in double boiler and cook, stirring constantly until as thick as heavy cream. When cool add one-half cup whipped cream.

* * *

MARSHMALLOWS—Soak two tablespoons gelatin in six tablespoons water. Cook two cups sugar in one cup boiling water until hard ball is formed in cold water. Remove from fire and flavor with one teaspoon of desired flavoring. Pour into gelatine and beat hard 20 minutes. Then pour into pan greased with butter and sprinkle with cornstarch and powdered sugar mixed, one tablespoon each.

* * *

CHERRY SPICE CAKE—½ cup butter or lard, 1 cup sugar, 1 teaspoon soda, 2 eggs, 1 cup sour cherries, 4 tablespoons sour cream, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, ½ teaspoon cloves, ½ teaspoon nutmeg or allspice as preferred, 2 cups flour.

Cream the butter, add sugar and eggs. Blend well. Add the cherries, cream, flour with soda and spices. Nuts may be added. Bake in a layer or loaf pan, in moderate oven.

* * *

PARTY PICKLES.—3 dozen dill cucumbers soaked overnight, then sliced thin and drained; 1 pound bunch raisins, 5-cent stick cinnamon, 1 nutmeg, grated; 2 pounds brown sugar.

Put all in kettle, cover with cider vinegar and boil half an hour. When cold, add ½ ounce celery seed. More sugar may be added if desired.

* * *

POUND CAKE.—½ pound butter, 1½ cups cake flour, 1½ cups sugar, ¼ teaspoon baking powder, 6 egg yolks, well beaten; 6 egg whites, well beaten; ¼ teaspoon nutmeg.

Sift flour three times with baking powder and nutmeg. Cream butter and sugar, add eggs and flour. Bake in round pan in oven, 350 degrees. Bake in very slow oven 50 minutes.

* * *

CREAMED MUSHROOMS ON HAM.—1 pound mushrooms, 1 small onion chopped, 4 tablespoons butter, ¾ cup milk, 2 tablespoons flour, ½ teaspoon salt, few grains paprika, 4 (individual) pieces ham.

Wash and remove stems from mushrooms. Cover stems with 1 cup water, add the onion and simmer until ¼ cup liquid remains. Strain, reserving the mushroom liquor. Melt two tablespoons butter in a sacepan, add the flour and when smooth add the mushroom liquor, milk and seasonings, while stirring. Meanwhile, melt 2 tablespoons butter in a skillet and saute the sliced mushroom caps in it for 5 minutes, or until tender. Arrange the mushrooms on the 4 individual size portions of ham which have been either broiled or fried. Pour the sauce over and serve at once. Garnish with toast sticks.

* * *

"More delicious than mayonnaise!"

say these judges of fine food

PRINCESS ROSTISLAV, a well-known critic of fine foods—"Kraft's Miracle Whip Salad Dressing is more delicious than any mayonnaise I ever tasted."

MRS. GEORGE SENSENEY'S salads are famous. Of Kraft's Miracle Whip Salad Dressing, this noted hostess says enthusiastically, "The flavor is even better than that of mayonnaise."

● Read what they say—these critical women to whom we submitted Kraft's Miracle Whip Salad Dressing. They'll tell you they prefer it to mayonnaise! And thousands of other lovers of good food—men and women who have tasted this new type of salad dressing—agree with these clever hostesses.

There is an enticing flavor—new yet familiar—in this Miracle Whip Salad Dressing created by Kraft. It is not mayonnaise and costs about one-third less. But it is even more remarkable than the finest mayonnaise.

It has a flavor that's tantalizingly familiar—yet different. Not too tart; not too bland; not too oily. A wonderful new combination of true mayonnaise and true old-fashioned boiled dressing.

Salads are doubly enjoyable when dressed with this new Miracle Whip Salad Dressing. Use it generously! We'll wager you will like it better than mayonnaise, or any other dressing! Ask your grocer today for Kraft's Miracle Whip Salad Dressing.

SPEND IN SEPTEMBER»»

A National Necessity

WE'VE started something, now let's finish it. A few months ago the threat of inflation started a sudden demand for merchandise of all kinds. Business men hurriedly sought to protect themselves against the possibility of a shortage of goods and higher costs by placing large advance orders. This sudden influx of orders from every part of the country stirred factories to unwonted activity and it was with difficulty they were able to meet the demand. Raw materials began to go up in price, and merchants found that replacements could be made only by paying more money. Then came the National Recovery Act, which involved shorter hours and a minimum wage. This meant an increase in the number of employes in all industries and increase in the payrolls. The spirit of optimism gripped the nation—confidence replaced fear—security began to take the place of insecurity—men and women were surer of their jobs—everybody felt safer. But the guarantee of a continuation of this improvement can come only if the CONSUMER will begin to spend more freely and buy according to his normal needs. Production has been speeded up—manufacturers, wholesalers and retailers have heavily increased their stocks and this merchandise must be sold. If there is a lag in buying the recovery movement will be halted. Spending means a flow of these goods from the shelves to the homes, which in turn means re-orders from the retailer to the manufacturer, which will keep the wheels of industry turning. A return of the nation's prosperity in the final analysis depends upon the consumer. The Administration realizes this, and already General Johnson has urged upon the country the necessity of BUYING if we are to hold the gains already achieved in our progress toward Recovery. Millions can be returned to work if YOU will spend NOW. The SUN-TELEGRAPH believes that in launching this campaign, "SPEND IN SEPTEMBER," it is contributing definitely to realizing the Recovery Program.

LINDSTROM'S 'COMEBACK' BOLSTERS PIRATE CAUSE

SPORTS

By JAMES J. LONG

Streak Not Convincing.
Only One Series Taken.
Bucs Bow to Good Clubs.
Foxx Given Top Ranking.
New Speedboat Angle.
Pitt's Slate Misjudged.

PHILS AND REDS KEEP PIRATES IN RACE

THE WINNING STREAK with which the Pirates wound up their otherwise disappointing Eastern trip before Manager George Gibson brought them home today would have been more convincing if it had been pulled against stronger opposition than the Phillies, who were the victims in five of the six straight victories. Against the better clubs along the seaboard the Bucs looked sadly different. The Philadelphia series was the only one they captured, as they got only an even break in two games in Brooklyn, lost all four in Boston and dropped three out of four in New York.

George Gibson

Success against the Phillies and Reds has been the main factor in keeping the Rovers in the race, as 25 of Pittsburgh's 68 victories up to today, or about 37 per cent, were scored against these two clubs, whereas the Bucs have lost the majority of their games to all of the good teams except the Cardinals—11 out of 17 to the Giants, 11 out of 18 to the Braves, and 12 out of 22 to the Cubs.

So it will take more than the Quakertown clean-up to prove that the Corsairs are back on the right road to stay and that the brace is to be a lasting one. However, it may be a promising sign that they were able to pull themselves together instead of folding up completely after losing seven games in a row. This indicates at least that there still is some fight in them. There is hope, too, in the fact that Paul Waner started to hit again yesterday after batting only .175 in the previous 14 games on the trip—10 hits in 57 times at bat. All together, now, for a big home drive down the stretch.

M'NAIR AMONG GREATEST SHORTSTOPS

There has been much discussion this year as to the best defensive shortstop in the major leagues, with Joe Cronin leading the voting and Dick Bartell, Bill Jurges, Leo Durocher and Blondy Ryan coming in for honorable mention, but quite a few American League men insist that the greatest of the lot has been overlooked.

They refer to Eric McNair, of the A's, contending that when his right shoulder is free from a hitch that at times has impaired his throwing, the Mackian youngster is the finest defensive shortstop in the American League at least, not barring even Cronin.

CRONIN RATES FOXX AS LEAGUE'S BEST

Most baseball men rank Joe Cronin as the No. 1 player of the American League, even without considering the rare managerial ability he has shown on the side, but with his usual modesty the former Pirate passes the honor along to a rival.

Cronin expresses the opinion that the best ball player in the Harridge circuit is Jimmy Foxx, of the Athletics, and he gives a string of reasons in support of his statement.

MACKIAN STAR CAN PLAY ANY POSITION

To begin with, the Washington pilot argues, Foxx can play any position and can do anything on the field. Jimmy was originally a catcher, then a third baseman, and now is a first baseman. He can play shortstop or second base, and, according to Cronin, can play the outfield better than the average gardener.

Jimmy Foxx

Joe goes on to point out that Foxx is one of the greatest hitters and sluggers of all time, probably will lead the league in batting, homers and driving in runs, is a good baserunner, and never has received full credit for his fielding. Cronin contends, on the last mentioned point, that Jimmy is one of the best first sackers in baseball and yields only a slight edge in fielding ability to Burns, of the Browns, and Kuhel, of the Senators. The best pitcher in the American League, Cronin believes, is Tommy Bridges, of the Tigers, with a curve ball which Joe declares is almost unhittable.

POSSIBLE TO FIGURE EDGE FOR BRITISH BOAT

Though the series of speedboat races for the Harmsworth Trophy, starting tomorrow in Detroit, will look like a bantam against a heavyweight, as far as the size of the rival craft is concerned, the experts can show you that from one angle the little British challenger actually will have the edge.

Divide the 17,000 pounds of Miss America X by her 6,800 horsepower and it will be found that each horsepower unit must drive 2.5 pounds. Divide the 3,360 pounds of Miss Britain III by her 1,375 horsepower, and the answer shows that each horsepower unit must drive only 2.4 pounds.

But races are not won on paper. Such items as driving skill and racing experience are not to be overlooked, and American confidence is strong that the wily Gar Wood and his Miss America X form a combination that will keep this country in continued possession of the famous trophy which Wood brought back to these shores with Miss America I in 1920.

OUTSIDERS UNDERESTIMATE PITT'S TASK

Local football fans do not share the opinion of those in outside sectors that Pitt's 1933 schedule is much lighter than that which Jock Sutherland, now starting his tenth season as Panther coach, had to handle last year.

Outsiders not familiar with conditions here imagine that a slate made up of W. & J., West Virginia, Navy, Minnesota, Notre Dame, Centre, Duquesne, Nebraska and Carnegie Tech is a much softer touch than the 1932 schedule, which sent the Pitt gridders against Ohio Northern, West Virginia, Duquesne, Army, Ohio State, Notre Dame, Pennsylvania, Nebraska, Carnegie Tech and Stanford.

THEY DON'T KNOW CARNEGIE OR DUQUESNE

The opinion appears to prevail among critics in other cities that, aside from the fact that there was an extra game in 1932, such new opponents as Minnesota, Navy, W. & J. and Centre will not be nearly as tough as the dropped schools, Ohio State, Pennsylvania, Army and Stanford, and that such teams as Duquesne and Carnegie, the former still on the up grade and the latter the victim of several unfortunate seasons, cannot be classed as real opposition.

Jock Sutherland

The first part of this dope, admittedly, carries some weight, though at that Minnesota is expected to be at least as tough as Ohio State, and Navy is due to be as strong as Army this season. But the suggestion that Duquesne and Carnegie will not be real opposition is a pain to Coach Sutherland and his aides. The Pitt coaches know that no matter what the ranking of the Dukes and the Skibos may be in national gridiron circles this fall, both teams are going to be tartars for the Panthers.

Scott-Paine Must Shatter Breakdown 'Jinx' to Win Harmsworth Trophy

HARMSWORTH CHALLENGERS 'JINXED'

By HAROLD KAHL

DETROIT, Sept. 1.—Hubert Scott-Paine has one big obstacle staring him right between the eyes as the time draws near for his attempt to lift the Harmsworth trophy from Gar Wood. It is the "breakdown" jinx. It is the reason for the failure of every challenger since Wood won the plaque in 1920.

Eight times Wood's claim to the Harmsworth trophy has been disputed. Few of the challengers came out of the event right-side up. None were running right at the finish of any series. Only three were able to get through a single race, mechanical difficulties usually forcing them out on the first or second lap of the opening race.

SEVEN DEFENSES IN RIVER

Seven defenses were made in the Detroit River. Then the course was shifted to Lake St. Clair last year, but the results were no better. Then came the shift this year to the St. Clair River off Marine City. Will the new course bring an end to the jinx for invaders? Tomorrow and Labor Day will tell.

Of all the challengers Kaye Don is an exception. At the wheel of Miss England II in 1931 Don succeeded in defeating Wood in the first race on the Detroit River. In the second, however, both Wood and Don were disqualified for crossing the starting line ahead of time, and after making the first turn Miss England II overturned.

Since Don was the only challenger the trophy remained here, Wood's son, Garfield, Jr., was credited with winning the race with Miss America VIII. The boat was driven by George Wood. Don finished the first race against Wood last year, but mechanical trouble ended his bid before the end of the second lap of the second event.

Three races constitute a Harmsworth event, but there never have been that many since Wood ascended to the throne. The trophy goes to the country winning two.

The unsuccessful challenges started in 1921 when Sir E. Mackay Edgar came over with Maple Leaf VII in an effort to regain the trophy he had lost to Wood the previous year. Maple Leaf VII lasted two laps and sank, the hull having been damaged in shipment.

FRENCHMAN FAILS

In 1926 Henri Esders, Paris department store owner, came over with a French boat, Excelsior France II. Esders made a challenge the year previous, but his Excelsior France I was destroyed by fire before the race. Excelsior France II traveled one lap and was so badly beaten by the American defenders it quit.

Marion Barbara Carstairs of England, appeared on the scene with Estelle III in 1928. Estelle III hit a ferry wash on the first lap, overturned and sank. Her Estelle IV the following year ran into mechanical trouble in the first race. She came back again in 1930 with Estelle IV and V. Estelle V went two laps the first race when it was forced out, while Estelle IV finished a beaten boat. In the second race this boat also broke down.

Lord Wakefield's Miss Englands were next. Now we have Scott-Paine with Miss Britain III. Will he shake off the jinx which has pursued his predecessors or is the similar fate in store for him?

Books Capture Second Half Flag

Unleashing a heavy attack in the fourth, fifth and sixth innings, the Book nine, defending champion in the City League, walloped Homewood last evening, 19 to 4, to clinch the second half title and win the right to meet Dormont in the post-season playoff series for the circuit crown.

GAR WOOD HAS BOAT AT PEAK

By GAR WOOD

ALGONAC, Mich., Sept. 1.—The Miss America X is in even better running condition for the Harmsworth competition than she was last year. She is certainly faster.

We have rebuilt her. We have doubled and increased the strength of her sides. We have restepped and fortified her hull, and to take care of an increase in weight of at least a half a ton, we have considerably increased her horsepower.

We have made all these changes, despite her success in last year's trophy races because we knew that our British friends would work to the utmost in endeavoring to develop a boat capable of taking the trophy back to England. They have felt very keenly our continued possession of the trophy.

I look for a splendid race. Mr. Scott-Paine is not only a gentleman sportsman but an excellent boat designer and mechanic. He knows every nut and bolt in his boat and is one of the most thorough challengers to come out of England.

CHALLENGER WORRIED

DETROIT, Mich., Sept. 1.—Hubert Scott-Paine is worried over the performance of his British challenger for the Harmsworth Gold trophy, Miss Britain III. He admits that she does not perform as well on the Detroit River, over the course at Marine City, as she does in England. The reason he gives are change in altitude, temperature and the fresh water.

He revealed this today in an exclusive interview with Universal Service. He said:

"I may not win but I hope to run a good race and, win or lose, I am going to keep coming back again and again to race."

GOLD CUP RACE DRAWS NINE FAST BOATS

DETROIT, Sept. 1.—(AP.)—A group of speedy powerboats today awaited the starting gun which will send them roaring over the Detroit River in the 1933 Gold Cup contest to inaugurate the Detroit metropolitan area's annual fall program of boat racing.

Billed as a prelude to the Harmsworth Trophy races at Algonac tomorrow, the Gold Cup contest this year has attracted unusual interest and brought predictions that a new speed record for the 90-mile grind will be set by one of the nine entrants.

The Gold Cup race will be run in three 30-mile heats, the first one starting at 1:30 p. m. (eastern standard time). The field consists of five of Horace E. Dodge's famous "Delphine" boats, the Hotsy Totsy, owned by Vic Kliesrath, of South Bend, Ind.; The Imp II, of Jack Rutherford, of New York; Armand D. Pugh's Miss Philadelphia, and El Lagarto, entered by George Reis, of Lage George, N. Y.

Defending the trophy today will be the Delphine IV. The other Delphine boats are designated as VI, VII, VIII and IX. Dodge, himself, will pilot the Delphine IX and his sister, Delphine Dodge Parker, will pilot the Delphine VII.

Cardinals Recall Mooney and Sprinz

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 1.—(AP.)—Jim Mooney, southpaw pitcher, and Joe Sprinz, catcher, have been recalled by the St. Louis Cardinals from Rochester and Baltimore, Branch Rickey, Cardinal vice president, has announced.

Both players will report next spring.

Fight Results

At West Springfield, Mass.—Wesley Ramey defeated Cocoa Kid, 10 rounds; Tony D'Allesandro won by a technical knockout over Patsy Heneault, 2 rounds; Johnny Clinch knocked out Jimmy Cain, 4 rounds.

BUCS VANQUISH PHILLIES IN FINAL GAME

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

An outstanding player in the long spring training period, Lindy was smacked full in the face by an early slump that startled all Pirate boosters, including the players themselves, who saw the dapper outfielder in a great stride all through the preparatory season.

Lindstrom slipped so seriously he had to be taken out for the good of himself and for the team. The days on the bench gave him time to take an inventory of himself and Fred being of a methodical as well as colorful character, was not long in reaching the right conclusion.

The fact that Lindy is batting better than .300 again and is considered one of the most dangerous batters in the lineup, proves he knew how to analyze his own case. Moreover, his whole plan of action is back on an even keel, whereas he was "pressing" and doing everything else wrong while in the clutches of Ol' Man Slump.

TOO LIGHT IN SPRING

Fred says he took his training too seriously. First he went to Florida and he was not long in Paso Robles before he was below his best playing weight. The championship season had gone far before he was stale, and when a high-strung athlete is stale he is in a bad way. So Lindy had to put on extra poundage and with the extra strength his mental and physical poise returned.

Lindstrom has set a furious clip against the Giants both at the Polo Grounds and at Forbes Field. Unfortunately some of the others have fallen down in the battles with his former teammates so that the Giants hold a sizeable margin on the Pirates in the season's play. Terry's team has won 11 of the 17 games staged to date.

LLOYD STARTS DRIVE

The Buccos pounded Bert Shotton's pitchers for 19 hits to win yesterday's see-saw battle in Philadelphia. The Phils had the tying run on the sacks in the ninth when Waite Hoyt stopped Dick Bartell for the last putout of the game. The score of the last game of the eastern trip was 13 to 11.

Two three-run homers off the bats of Chuck Klein and Harry McCurdy all but sank the Pirate ship in the closing struggle. Klein's roundtripper put his team in front in the second and McCurdy's pinch blow had the same effect in the seventh.

Despite their nervy fight, the Pirates were trailing by a run when they entered the ninth. Lloyd Waner's pinch hit started the Buccos on their way to a four-run drive in the last round that carried the thrill of victory. Suhr's double with the bases jammed was the high spot of the attack.

Smith and Moore were the starting pitchers. Smith cracked after his support collapsed in the second. Three errors by Vaughan and Thevenow militated against the big right-hander. Swetonic replaced Smith after Finney's pinch single had helped the Buccos in the sixth.

James Rolph, Junior Corbett said he had little chance of getting a return bout with Jimmy McLarnin, to whom he lost the title, and there was not enough money in second-rate matches to justify him in continuing as a boxer, and asked for a job.

Scribe Wins Suit Against Bucs, Sox

AMARILLO, Tex., Sept. 1.—(AP.)—Jerry Malin, Amarillo sports editor, won a verdict of $1,000 in his suit against the Chicago White Sox and the Pittsburgh Pirates for their failure to play an exhibition baseball game here last April.

Malin, who promoted plans for the game, had sued for $1,300. Officials of the teams cited weather conditions in announcing it had been called off.

PRO GRIDDERS LEAVE FOR CAMP SITE

By TOM BIRKS

The advance guard of the Pittsburgh National Football League club departed from the city at noon today, headed for Newell's Grove, near Greensburg, where Coach Jap Douds and 40 aspirants for berths on the team will train until September 20, when the New York Giants are met in the opening game of the league schedule under the lights at Forbes Field.

Both have been given permission by President Art Rooney to delay their arrival at camp until tomorrow. Wilson, who is a portside passer and kicker, was with Stapleton last year. The Stapes will not operate this season thus giving President Rooney a chance to grab off another classy backfield man. Jimmy Clark, former star fullback at Pitt, has been added to the list of backs, and trying out for a berth on the line will be Ray Kemp, former Duquesne University tackle star.

Coach Douds will have practically three weeks to prune his roster down to the 23 allowed by the league.

SPEAKS BEATS DATTO

INDIANAPOLIS, Sept. 1.—(AP.)—Eddie (Kid) Speaks, of Indianapolis, was awarded a decision over Johnny Datto, of Pittsburgh, in a 10-round boxing contest here last night. Each weighed 152 pounds.

Ripley Explanation

Explanation of Ripley's cartoon of yesterday: A FAMOUS PALINDROME — "Wash my sins, not only my face," which is found in the original Greek on the font of St. Sophia's in Istanbul, is the most famous of Greek palindromes. It is to be seen also on the font of St. Mary's in Nottingham, St. Etienne d'Egres in Paris and many other English and French churches.

VERGEZ, MOORE OUT OF PLAY FOR SEASON

Associated Press.

Both crippled by serious casualties, the Boston Braves and the New York Giants resumed their vital National League series at Boston today, with much depending on untried reserves.

Victorious yesterday, 7 to 3, in the first battle of the six-game engagement, the Braves trailed the pace-setting Giants by only five games, with the knowledge that their well-rounded pitching staff was intact, while New York's Big Four had began to show signs of overwork.

VERGEZ OUT

The rival managers were forced to call out their replacements, however, as the result of accidents which will keep two of their star players out of the game for the remainder of the season.

Randy Moore, one of Boston's slugging outfielders, suffered a fractured bone in his right hand when he was hit by one of Leroy Parmelee's pitches, while Johnny Vergez, Giants' star third baseman, was recovering from a hurried appendix operation last night.

This unexpected turn of events left much for speculation regarding the five remaining games, which will be played in three days, with two on today. Manager Bill Terry was expected to plug the hole in the Giants' infield with little Bernie James, a good defensive player, but no match for Vergez at the plate.

MOORE STOPS RUN

Both Vergez and Moore played important roles in yesterday's contest. Vergez, although suffering from abdominal pains from the start of the fray, accounted for the Giants' first run with a homer and later singled. His error in the eighth, however, opened the way for the Tribe's winning five-run rally.

Moore, who was hit in the first inning and then forced to leave the game in the fifth, cut off a New York run in the first inning, nailing Hughie Critz at the plate on a beautiful peg from deep right field.

Wally Berger, the Boston powerhouse, sent Cantwell into a lead with his twenty-fifth home run in the first inning, and with another run added on a hit batsman, a pass and Hal Lee's double, the Braves were never behind.

The Giants-Braves game overshadowed the rest of the major league program, although the Pittsburgh Pirates completed their sweep of the Phillies to remain one and one-half games back of the Braves and the St. Louis Cardinals closed in with a double victory over the Brooklyn Dodgers.

CARDS WIN TWO

The Cards had little trouble beating the Dodgers, 10 to 3 and 10 to 4.

In the American League, the Boston Red Sox finally succeeded in winning their first game at the Yankee Stadium, walloping the champions, 15 to 2, to drop them eight and one-half games back of the idle Senators. Bunching seven of their 12 hits in two innings, the Cleveland Indians defeated the Chicago White Sox, 4 to 1.

All other teams were idle.

BASEBALL COMEDY

By NICK ALTROCK

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—The Boston Braves have been burning up the league lately and I can name their oxy-acetylene torch. It's a guy by the name of Maranville, who's been in the big leagues since they used stage coaches to bring the players to the park.

Nick Altrock

No fooling, the Rabbit has served a 20-year stretch in the big show and he's liable to go on for life if the Governor doesn't pardon him. And, instead of creaking at the joints, the Rab is the life of the party and the spark plug of the Braves!

National Leaguers tell me he's the boy that shook goldenrod in the Braves' nostrils and gave 'em pennant fever. And don't forget he was with the club the last time the Braves won the pennant—if you can remember that far back. So hats off to Rabbit (What-a-mannikin) Maranville.

BABE INDIGNANT OVER REPORTS HE'S THROUGH

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—(AP.)—Babe Ruth was so indignant last night about a published story that he was "through" and had about decided to "hang up his spikes" that he called up the sports editor of the Associated Press to make a sweeping denial and dictate a formal statement. He demanded:

"Say, where do those fellows get that stuff about me being all washed up? When I am ready to quit for good, everybody will know it. What's more I'm going to make a statement now and make it stick. Take this down."

Whereupon the Babe dictated the following:

"So much has been written about my plans for next year that I wish to make myself clear on this matter. I will make no decision about retiring from baseball until I am convinced I can no longer play. I will not know about 1934 until I have had some spring training. I hope to play next year. I believe I will be able to, so, for the present at least, I am not retiring from baseball."

Between Rounds

The 15-round boxing law becomes effective in the state of Pennsylvania today, but it does not become officially operative until September 27, when Jack Sharkey and Tommy Loughran meet in Philadelphia, the boxing commission having promised the promoters of this match that no other 15-round bout will be permitted to deprive them of the honor of staging the first long-distance affair under the law.

Joe Glaser, of Chicago, is trying to recruit four or five good local boxers to take to California for a series of bouts. He has asked Jules Beck to act as his local agent.

The Arena Club, on the North Side, is being reorganized and will be ready to resume business shortly. Charley Nowa and John Herron may become partners in the promotion, with Jules Beck acting as matchmaker. Plans are in the making for a new sports arena on the site of the present Motor Square Garden, and, if they go through, the North Side club will have the field all to itself until the new plant can be built.

TONIGHT'S FIGHTS

A MESSAGE TO Bayuk "Phillies" Smokers

When Bayuk—on January 3rd—reduced the price on "Phillies" from 10c to 5c—we gave you our guarantee that it was exactly the same cigar that outsold every other 10c brand in America for years.

Millions of you were skeptical. But you soon found that our guarantee meant exactly what it said . . your favorite cigar—with the same fine ripe tobacco—at just one half the former cost.

Millions of other smokers tried Bayuk "Phillies" and promptly switched from their previous brands. They found, in this cigar, the complete enjoyment and satisfaction they had expected only in cigars selling much higher in price.

The result is history. Bayuk "Phillies" soon became—as it is today—the most popular cigar in every territory where introduced. The former record sales of any cigar—over a million a day—is being exceeded. This simply means that Bayuk "Phillies" is pleasing more men than any other cigar in America.

We pledge you that Bayuk's Guarantee today means exactly what it meant on January 3rd. The quality of Bayuk "Phillies"—despite rising costs—won't be changed. Formerly 10c—yours Today for 5c.

Bayuk's Guarantee

In 1929—a peak sales year—the Bayuk Philadelphia Perfecto (Familiarly known as "Philadelphia Hand-made") was the largest-selling 10-cent brand in America.

Bayuk guarantees that this cigar today—at 5 cents—contains the same fine Imported Sumatra wrapper—the same fine ripe Havana and Domestic long-filler. It's the same identical cigar.

VIRGINIA VAN WIE DEFEATS ENID WILSON

BRITISH CHAMP LOSES, 6-5, IN SEMI-FINALS

BULLETIN.

EXMOOR COUNTRY CLUB, HIGHLAND PARK, Ill., Sept. 1.—Helen Hicks joined Virginia Van Wie in the final round of the women's national golf championship here today by defeating Maureen Orcutt, 6 and 4, after the defending titleholder had defeated Enid Wilson, 6 and 5.

EXMOOR COUNTRY CLUB, HIGHLAND PARK, Ill., Sept. 1.—(AP.)—Virginia Van Wie, of Chicago, defending titleholder, swept aside Enid Wilson, of England, with a 6-and-5 triumph today to enter the final of the American women's national golf championship.

It was the widest victory of the meet. Miss Wilson was sadly off her game, while Miss Van Wie shot two under par.

Miss Van Wie collected three birdies, while the Briton took three 6s and a 7. The American champion surrendered only one hole in the one-sided match. It was Miss Wilson's third try for the American crown, and her third failure. The cards:

Par out	5	5	5	5	5	4	3	4	3—39
Miss Wilson out	6	6	4	6	7	4	3	5	3—44
Miss Van Wie out	5	5	4	5	5	4	3	4	2—37
Par in	5	4	4	3
Miss Wilson in	5	4	4	3
Miss Van Wie in	6	4	3	3

(Van Wie 6 and 5.)

Miss Helen Hicks, of Inwood, N. Y., was 2 up on Miss Maureen Orcutt, of Haworth, N. J., after 10 holes. The New Yorker scored a sparkling 37 going out, while her opponent was three strokes beyond with a 40.

Swim Mark Broken In Clairton Meet

Miss Margaret Salata, of the Duquesne Library, broke the A. M. A. junior record for the 440-yard free style at a swimming meet in the Municipal pool in Clairton last night. Miss Salata's time of 7:01 was two seconds better than the previous mark, established by Catherine Gibbons.

Miss Lenore Kight, national champion, and other swimmers from the Homestead Carnegie Library Club, were prominent in the scoring. The summary:

Two lengths novice race for men—Won by Edward Pope, Jr., Cleveland; H. Ravensthal, Pittsburgh Natatorium, second; John Norick, Pittsburgh Natatorium, third. Time, :53 1-5.

440-yard Junior A. M. A. free style for women—Won by Margaret Salata, Duquesne Library; Mary Barnes, Homestead Library, second; Anne Wein, Homestead Library, third. Time, 7:01. (New record).

Four lengths open free style for men—Won by R. Lindburgh, Homestead Library; John Semago, Duquesne Library, second; H. Addlesburg, Homestead Library, third. Time, 1:54 3-5.

Four lengths open free style for women—Won by Lenore Kight, Homestead Library; Anna Mae Gorman, Homestead Library, second; Johanna Gorman, Homestead Library, third. Time, 2:05.

880-yard Senior A. M. A. free style for men—Won by R. Lindburgh, Homestead Library; William Segady, Duquesne Library, second; Peter Choate, Duquesne Library, third. Time, 12:11 2-5.

Tubers to Name New Coach Today

Either Bill Clees or Joe Lynch, assistant coaches, will be designated by Dr. J. B. Richey, superintendent of schools in McKeesport, as temporary successor to Bill Sullivan as head coach of the McKeesport High School eleven late today.

Dr. Richey said that grid equipment would be distributed to the players this afternoon and that the first practice session would be held this evening or tomorrow. This program represents a change in plans, Dr. Richey yesterday having announced no practice would be held prior to the opening of school, next Tuesday.

COACH ELMER LAYDEN'S CHARGES IN WORKOUT TODAY . . . . THE OPENING GAME'S ONLY TWO WEEKS FROM TONIGHT

SPORT VIGNETTES

One of these days, Eli Radavokich, of Duquesne, is going to win the 15-mile marathon swim at Toronto Canada, and with it the $5,000 first prize . . . He's one of those persistent cusses . . . He was in the event this week for the fourth time, and finished sixth to win $100 . . . Two years ago, he was in second place within a mile and a half of his goal when he had to quit . . . And he says he's going to keep on trying until he finally does come in first.

He was broke and "bummed" his way to the race and hadn't much to eat for a couple of days when he came so close to winning in 1931 . . . This year he was accompanied to the competition by his young wife, Anna, who spurred him on to the finish line . . . He is only 23 years old, and a product of the Carnegie Library, of Duquesne. . . . He swims almost daily in the Monongahela River, but finds the short distances there of little value in training for the marathon.

How'd you like to drive off into the rough and find out you'd made a hole in 1 on a golf course? . . . Well, it happened to a woman player on the municipal course in St. Louis in 1929 . . . A crow came along, picked up the ball and was flying away when it dropped the pellet on the green kerplunk into the cup . . . Harry S. Sharpe, insurance man and erstwhile printer, told about the incident at the international printers' tournament in Detroit, and he ought to know the details, for his wife was the woman who had the foresight to hit the ball where the crow would find it . . . As for Sharpe, well, he holds a record of his own, that of having fought the longest Marquis of Queensberry bout on record, a 77-rounder in which he knocked out Frank Crosby at St. Louis, in 1893 . . . They were at it for 5 hours and 10 minutes.

Since basketball crowds here always have had an idea they can run the games better than the officials, and the officials and the college authorities are on the "outs" just now, why not give the rabid fans officialless games for a change next winter and see how they like them? . . . Phil Goldstein is piloting three boxers all of whom have creditable winning streaks . . . They are Al Quail, local amateur middleweight, who has won his last 34 starts; Elmer Wilson, Negro junior-welterweight, undefeated in seven professional bouts, and Red Davidson, who has won 12 battles as an amateur middleweight and recently defeated Tom Slusser, the Penn State star.

Eddie Weygandt (remember him, the hard-hitting featherweight boxer of New Castle a few years back?) has turned author and is writing articles and a book on the art of boxing and punching . . . He is a great booster for the system of training taught by Jimmy Dime, the veteran manager of boxers and himself a former ringman, which, he claims, can't miss improving any boxer's form, especially from the punching angle . . . It stresses co-ordination of arm, leg and body movement to obtain the proper leverage for socking, and, in explaining it, Weygandt proves himself an apt student.

William (Rabbit) Eley, Negro amateur boxing star, of New Salem, Pa., has won 42 consecutive bouts except for the loss of a bout in the National tournament in Boston and has had 93 bouts all told . . . Among the boxers now appearing professionally whom he has beaten are Sammy Asto, Teddy Mancuso, Johnny Durso, Andy Kosel and Joey Chemes . . . He is a senior in high school, 19 years old, a teacher in Sunday school on his way to a deaconship and won't box or train on Sundays . . . He is a protege of Dr. L. R. Herrington, of New Salem, and is trained by Red Meyers, former local boxer . . . He says he was given his toughest bout by George Julius.

Louis Amen, the pianist, who has appeared with our Trained Seals, and now is an entertainer at the Kleman Inn, visits Uniontown for a show in the State Theater, Sunday night . . . Louis is one of those eccentric fellows who can do tricks on the piano such as taking off his shoes and playing two entirely different pieces with his toes while standing upended . . . That's one for that unique fellow, Mr. Ripley.

—HARRY KECK.

Central Soccer League Reduced

Only five of the eight teams that made up the Central Soccer League last season were set to go when the organization meeting of the circuit was held last night. They were Ambridge, Aliquippa, Clan Douglas, Union Switch and Signal and Millvale. The next meeting will be held September 12. Meanwhile Hugh Robinson, the secretary, is open to consider applications for membership.

Other leagues are holding their organization meetings over the week-end.

CRAWFORD GAMES OFF

The doubleheader between the Crawfords and the Nashville Giants, scheduled at Greenlee Field this afternoon, was called off when the Nashville team failed to make connections. An attempt is being made to corral a local team to play the Crawfords.

WINS CADDIE TITLE

A nine-hole playoff of 50 against 55 strokes for his opponent, Joe Bruno, gave Bruno Nishick the caddie championship of the South Park county golf course. They had tied at 90 for the full course.

DUKES BEGIN GRIND MINUS DECOSTER

By JESS CARVER

A squad of 31 gridders answered the first call for football practice for Duquesne University on the Bluff campus this morning.

Frank DeCoster, the regular quarterback, was missing, being in Mercy Hospital with an infected finger.

Another session was scheduled for this afternoon and the two-a-day workouts will be continued for the opening game with Waynesburg, just two weeks away. The squad is the smallest ever assembled by Coaches Elmer Layden and Joe Bach.

In his six years at Duquesne, Layden has turned in 38 victories, 15 defeats and a half-dozen ties. He's had one undefeated season, that of 1929, only a draw with West Virginia marring an otherwise perfect record.

OPEN WITH JACKETS

The Dukes set out today to prepare for a well-balanced 10-game schedule, which gets under way week after next when Waynesburgh's Yellow Jackets, 1932 Tri-State Conference and class B champions, appear at Forbes Field for a night inaugural. The exact date is September 15. The boys will play nine of their 10 games in Pittsburgh, going out of town only to meet Wash-Jeff.

As was the case a year ago (and probably will be as long as the game is on the Duquesne card) the contest with Pitt, slated for Nov. 11, is the ball game for which the Dukes will point. A year ago, the Panthers romped home to a 33-0 victory.

OFFICIALS NAMED

Following the split with the West Penn Basketball Officials' Association, the district colleges have submitted to M. R. Glover, commissioner of the Tristate Association for the Selection of Basketball Referees, the following list of satisfactory officials:

Art Ward, of Marietta; Kelcel Ross, of West Virginia Wesleyan; Bill Hetra of Westminster; Paul Fitting, of Erie; Sam Richards, of New Castle; Sam Kistler, of Salem, W. Va.; Sykes Reed, of Pitt; Ken Heider, of Waynesburg; Ben Richman, of Pitt; Bill Evans, of Scott High; Lindsay Montgomery, of Geneva; Phil Rice, of Westminster; Sparado, of Waynesburg; Eddie Cubbon, of West Virginia; Al Aiken, of Allegheny College, and Bob Way, of Franklin.

TEAM MATCHES ON TODAY

The final round of the Western Pennsylvania team golf matches are being played this morning and afternoon, with the Highland Country Club aggregation defending its title.

Morning play is devoted to Scotch foursomes playing in eights.

The afternoon program calls for matches in foursomes.

At Highland yesterday Regis Wolff and Miss Ted Davis captured top honors, in the mixed foursome competition turning in a best ball card of 36-44—80.

Freddie Weppner, Pittsburgh Field Club veteran, cracked the course record at Kittanning yesterday when he toured the layout in 35-30—65 to knock one stroke off the record of 66 set by J. D. Swigert a week ago. Par for the layout is 66.

day recess. What few transactions in stocks there were emanated principally among the professionals. The ticker tape stuttered occasionally, but was silent for minutes at a time. Grains were also slumberous, although quotations in this category were a bit easier most of the day. Cotton was indifferent. Bonds were listlessly firm. European gold currencies rose moderately against the dollar, but sterling held around its previous rate.

With little pressure on shares, some leading issues edged up fractionally to around a point. Best improvement was shown by the oils, including Standard of California, Standard of New Jersey, Amerada, Seaboard, Houston, Ohio and Atlantic Refining. United States Smelting got up a point and slightly higher prices were recorded by United States Steel, American Telephone, du Pont, Case, General Motors, Kennecott, Liggett & Myers "B" and others.

Although traders generally left the security markets to their own devices, proponents of the advance were further encouraged by week-end trade reviews, which reported that business and trade were progressing steadily. Retail activities, it was said, have been highly satisfactory. News of the rise in consumer buying, it was pointed out, is being supported by sales reports which show that buying has been increasing at a far more rapid rate than the seasonal decline in some industries.

Various commission houses, in their search for market clues, say that foreign investors recently have shown renewed interest in the American field. Buying from abroad, although not in any great volume, is said to have been confined largely to the motor, rail and steel stocks, with scattering commitments in a few specialties. Foreign governments also are understood to have been quietly buying up some of their own dollar bonds since the depreciation of American currency in terms of gold.

Successful bond conversion operations abroad, in the opinion of some financial quarters, may be followed here by the Treasury in the near future. Officials at Washington, it is reported, have for some time been considering the advisability of refunding some of the high interest-bearing Liberty loans. Liberty fourth 4¼s now outstanding amount to $6,-268,094,150, while the Liberty first 4¼s total $535,982,100. Under proper market conditions, some bankers feel that at least part of this hugh debt could be refunded on a basis of around 3 per cent. The recent 3¼ eight-year bond offering of the Treasury was oversubscribed six times.

STOCKS TAKING PRE-HOLIDAY SIESTA

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—Financial markets continued their pre-holiday siesta today as trading activity dwindled to around the point of the year and prices generally fluctuated in minor fractional boardroom, for the most part, were all but deserted. Big and little operators alike seemingly had "eaten the gun" on the Labor Day recess. What few transactions in stocks there were emanated principally among the professionals. The ticker tape stuttered occasionally, but was silent for minutes at a time. Grains were also slumberous, although quotations in this category were a bit easier most of the day. GRAIN PRICES UNSETTLED

The re was nothing constructive in the news and the Liverpool market was colorless.

Wheat opened ½-1¼ cents lower and showed little change afterward. Corn started ⅜-⅞ cent off and held near the initial figures.

All grains dragged along in a dispirited manner, with wheat and corn unable to reach yesterday's closing levels.

Issuance of private reports indicate a corn crop 500,000,000 bushels short of last year's harvest had almost no effect on trade. The average estimate of five unofficial experts was for a crop of 2,235,000,000 bushels of corn this year. A month ago the average of the same five was 2,370,000,000, with the last official estimate 2,273,000,000. Last year, the harvest was 2,876,000,000.

Oats were quiet. Provisions eased with wheat and corn.

FRANCE TO USE QUOTA PLAN

PARIS, Sept. 1.—(AP.)—The French cabinet decided today to trade import quotas for tariff concessions in an effort to bolster diminishing foreign trade and to abandon further France's most-favored national policy.

Premier Daladier spoke at some length on the industrial situation and advised quick action as a remedy. The ministers agreed to utilize the quota system, against which America has often protested.

As nations with most-favored clauses in their commercial treaties might protest, it was decided to retain one-fourth of the quotas under the old system and to use three-fourths where such a move would do most good.

The cabinet announced that it seeks to regain complete tariff freedom.

New preferential quotas will be used to remedy a wheat situation generally described as grave, in an effort to relieve the home market, where an already large surplus is expected to be increased by the current bumper crop.

Austria will be helped by special quotas which will allow increased imports, principally of wood.

The United States presumably will be approached regarding lace, since America formerly took four-fifths of the production of Calais workers.

TRADE HOLDS RECENT PACE

Conditions in the local market have changed but little during the past week, with retail trade holding at the same level as the previous week, according to Dun & Bradstreet's weekly review.

There has been slightly more activity in the purchasing of school outfits for children. Wholesalers of dry goods and wearing apparel report buying as at a somewhat slower rate, but at a higher level than last year at this time. There is a fair demand for shoes, the prices of which have been advanced by practically all manufacturers in sufficient amount to cover the increased cost of manufacturing under the NRA code, and this will soon be reflected in the retailers' prices.

Other wholesale lines have not changed much, and buying has been held back to a considerable extent by the unrest in the coal mining sections, which, however, give evidence of being settled this week.

BROKER LOANS UP $28,000,000

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—Loans on stocks and bonds to brokers and dealers by reporting Federal Reserve member banks in New York City, increased $28,000,000 during the week ended August 30, to $881,000,000.

This compares with $853,000,000 in the preceding week. The high record of $6,804,000,000 on October 2, 1929, and record low of $331,000,000 on July 27, 1932.

280 enlisted men and 22 officers. Half the crew was quartered in the fo'castle, forward; the other half ate and slept between decks, aft, around and above the engine room. The officers' cabins, wardroom and galley were in a large deckhouse, aft.

Dull Days Aboard

Life was dull aboard the Cyclops those early winter months of 1917. My duties on the bridge were simple. Making weekly round trips between Hampton Roads and New York Harbor, we were seldom out of sight of land.

It was a dirty job, loading 13,000 tons of coal at Norfolk every week, and dumping it into barges at our anchorage at New York . . . half-way between the Statue of Liberty and Governors Island.

The railroads were congested with war freight, and the Cyclops had turned-to, to help relieve the coal shortage in New York City.

Plodding monotonously up and down the Atlantic coast, we came to know every lighthouse, lightship and buoy by heart, by its color and number of flashes . . . Navesink, Brigantine Shoals, Winter Quarter, Hens and Chickens and all the lights and lightships down to the Virginia Capes.

And we knew the voice of every foghorn that bellowed its warning throughout the winter blizzards, for foghorns, are not merely foghorns. They blow in every rainstorm and snowstorm.

That winter of 1917 and 1918 was unusually severe, you will remember, and the rivers and harbors along the Atlantic coast were jammed with ice . . . shifting fields of it, that moved with the tides as they ebbed and flowed, and often carried the Cyclops away from her anchorage, and tore away coal barges made fast alongside.

Fighting the Ice

It was always a struggle for us to nose alongside the coal pier at Lamberts Point in Hampton Roads, for the ice jammed between the dock and the Cyclops and held us off.

Tugs would dash in between the ship and the dock and try to wash the ice cakes away with their propellers. If that failed, then they would crash headlong into the ice pack to break up the jam, at the risk of being crushed between the Cyclops and the pier when the ice suddenly gave away.

Frequently our motorboats, carrying the crew ashore on liberty, broke down in midstream and were carried miles away by the moving ice floes, and it was a problem to get the men safely back to the ship again.

For several days each week, while we lay at anchor near the Statue of Liberty dumping our dusty coal cargoes into barges, an almost continuous parade of transports, colorfully camouflaged and swarming with khaki-clad troops passed close by, bound for "Over There."

As each ship passed our anchorage, wild cheers and frantic waving of overseas caps greeted the statue . . . a farewell salute.

And how we envied them! High adventure overseas! That's what we had enlisted for . . . and here we were, confined to coastwise routine.

While those gaily camouflaged greyhounds were heading for the war zone, it looked as if the Cyclops were going to be hauling coal from Norfolk to New York for the duration of the war. There was never any questions in our minds about "Where do we go from here?" Norfolk to New York . . . New York to Norfolk.

Under Sealed Orders

But a day or two before Christmas, 1917, we cheered and waved a happy so-long to the statue, ourselves, and weighed anchor at New York for the last time.

We had no idea, then, where we were going, but we could read between the lines of our orders that we were bound for some remote port.

Our orders were to proceed to Norfolk, as usual, but this time to take on only 10,000 tons of coal, and leave room in the tops of the hatches for additional cargo. And besides, we were to fill our own fuel bunkers to capacity . . . something we had never done before.

Speculation ran high among the crew as to where we might be going.

Not likely to Europe with a load of coal. The Welsh mines were keeping France supplied. Probably to some remote port in the Pacific. But we were wrong.

Before we reached the Narrows on our way down New York Harbor the ship's electricians were cleaning and oiling the fans in the officers' quarters; the ship's carpenter and his gang were stretching canvas awnings on deck for inspection, preparing for hot climate.

I told them they were my idea of optimists; the harbor was a mass of ice; Staten Island was deep with snow, and the thermometer on the bridge of the Cyclops registered something below zero.

Coaling Up for Sea

Arriving in Hampton Roads for the last time, we put alongside the familiar coal pier at Lamberts Point. A dozen rusty chutes were lowered into our holds, and from the coal pockets high overhead on the pier, a dozen swift, black streams of coal poured down our hatches, and the Cyclops settled rapidly into the water under her burden.

With 10,000 tons on board, and still room in the tops of the hatches, we moved up into the Navy Yard at Norfolk, where a mountain of general supplies awaited us on the deck; Hundreds of barrels, bags and boxes, tons of "ash cans" (300-pound cans of TNT with which to bomb submarines), countless drums of gasoline and oil, and ships stores of every description to be stowed on top of the coal.

All the barrels and boxes and general cargo were addressed to the U. S. S. Pittsburgh, U. S. S. Raleigh, U. S. S. Cincinnati and other ships we knew to be stationed in South American waters, and so we learned that we were bound for the Equator and points south.

I remember even a trifling incident in the loading of the Cyclops, cargo that seemed amusing at the time. A gang of colored stevedores, singing at their work, were helping the crew with the loading when a spare propellor blade, weighing no less than 10 tons, and addressed to the U. S. S. Pittsburgh at Rio de Janeiro, was being hoisted from the dock to the ship.

Half way between the dock and the ship, the crane's steel cable parted under the heavy strain, and the 10-ton blade dropped into the river with a tremendous splash.

The Virginia darkies shouted excitedly. One of them ran to the rail and looked over the side. He gazed for a moment at the spot where the blade had splashed, then turned to his fellow-stevedores with a broad, white-toothed grin and exclaimed:

"Nope! She didn' float!"

Off to Southern Seas

When the hatches were filled and battened down, I was assigned the task of lashing a dozen extra life rafts in the rigging above the hatch covers . . . large, oval-shaped rafts with rope netting in the oval, and capable of holding 25 men.

When all was secure for sea, word was passed that the Cyclops would leave the dock at noon the next day, and that anyone not returning from that night's shore leave promptly at 8 a. m. would be considered absent without leave.

The next morning, our last in Norfolk, I spent on the bridge of the Cyclops making final tests of the steering apparatus, engine room telegraphs and other navigating equipment.

The pilot would come on board a few minutes before 12, and promptly at eight bells we would leave the dock and head downstream.

An hour later, leaving Hampton Roads behind us, we would pause abreast of Cape Henry Lighthouse to drop off the pilot where the pilot boat awaited him, and head into the open sea.

With one last lingering look at the wintry Virginia coastline, we would ring up "full speed ahead, both engines," and set our course south for a continuous run of 5,000 miles to lands of tropical sunshine, palms and, perhaps, romance.

A few minutes before 12 I was in the chartroom under the bridge, checking over the course that Capt. Woehrle had charted from Cape Henry, Virginia, to Cape St. Roque in Brazil. I was humming the tune of a tango in pleasant anticipation when a messenger from the gangway came up the bridge ladders three steps at a time and burst into the chartroom..

I laid down my parallel rulers and compass and nodded to the lad.

"Pilot aboard?" I asked him casually.

"No, sir," he said, out of breath. "You're wanted aft, in the captain's cabin . . . Better shake it up, sir. We're shoving off in a few minutes, and you're going ashore!"

A Serious Matter

I laughed at the messenger. I had played practical jokes like that on some of the other officers; and I wasn't going to bite on this one.

I said to the messenger:

"You go right back to the officer of the deck, or whoever sent you up here with that message, and tell him to send up a couple of buckets of steam!"

But the messenger was in earnest.

"I wouldn't kid about that," he said. "A new navigator's just come aboard to relieve you. That's on the level, sir."

Still expecting to be laughed at . . . still refusing to believe the messenger, I hurried anxiously down from the bridge and aft to the captain's cabin.

The Captain was sorry, he said. He hadn't asked for a change. He supposed that the Bureau of Navigation, in view of my limited experience, had assigned a more seasoned navigator to the Cyclops for such an extensive voyage.

My relief had brought orders assigning me to the U. S. S. Orion, a sister-ship of the Cyclops, "at whatever port she may be," I hoped the Orion would turn out to be in China or more distant parts.

A Philipino messboy emptied the drawers in my stateroom and saw that my trunk was set ashore on the dock while I said a discouraged goodbye to my fellow officers.

Most of the ships crew were at the rail to wish me good luck and goodbye, and to hand me last-minute letters to mail ashore—their last letters home. The gangway was hauled aboard as soon as I stepped on the dock.

That was the luckiest step I ever took.

MOTTOES FUN TO MAKE

CROSS STITCH MOTTOES

By LAURA WHEELER

The Old-time motto is back and when we see what a decorative touch it adds to our rooms, we feel convinced that it will stay. Questions that have been popular for generations, enhanced by floral sprays or borders, with a quaint illustration done in cross stitch, are a most pleasant form of needlework. Each design measures 9¼x12 inches, making the framed picture 10x13 inches. Each transfer pattern, 527, 491 and 462, comes to you with directions and color suggestions for making the motto.

Send 10c for each motto (30c for all three) to Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph Needlecraft Department, 82 Eighth ave., New York City.

The Junior Patrol Mail Box

You know that summer is going, fellows.

Soon the leaves won't be on the trees, and the sunlight won't be so warm and pleasant. Well, that's just the way the seasons change. Every time of year has its own beauties, and especially if you appreciate nature. How about taking a look at the trees and wooded hills, fellows, and the shadows on the rivers, and the silhouette of buildings against the starry skies.

It's things like that the artists like to paint—and if you like to draw and like art, you will see beautiful things everywhere—things that most people never think of as beautiful at all. We would like to have you write letters to the Mail Box and tell us some of the things you thought were the most beautiful you have ever seen.

Here's a letter today from Helen Cousineau, of North Bessemer, Pa. She writes:

"We are getting along fine in our Junior Patrol Club. We are adding six new members. Enclosed you will find six more pledges. As some of the members are not yet moved to our town they would like you to send their membership cards to me. They have elected me as captain. I am sending my roll of members and would like you to send my armband, please. We are going to have a play as soon as we get settled. We have our meetings every Tuesday and Friday.

"Another captain in Harmony, who was visiting Jean Penman, came over to see me. She told me all about her club and what they did. She has five other members. Her name is Christine Penman. She has promised to write and tell me more about it."

A member asked us if we think that it is right for a member to take her dues out of a club treasury if she quits the club. No, fellows, we think that if any of the members want to quit that they should not take their dues out, since most of the time the dues have already been spent and belong to the club as dues. But if any member wants to leave, let him go without argument. Most of the time, he or she is just angry right then. Later, maybe, when everybody has thought the matter over, they will apologize to each other, and a member who has gone may come back. But captains and lieutenants and every good Junior Patrol member will do their best to keep everybody in a club friendly to everyone else. That's one of the purposes of the Junior Patrol.

If there is anyone who can't get along with the other members, maybe they could start a new club somewhere else. Lots of people are just naturally different from others, and like different things.

Marian and Vera Shabenis, of 5169 Bevlin way, Pittsburgh; Stella Babel, of 5225 Berlin way, Pittsburgh, and Edward Collins, of 514 Ruby street, Pittsburgh, are among those who send in 10 pledges. We are wondering here at headquarters who is captain of such a fine new patrol? If he will let us know, and has been properly elected, we will send him an armband.

Capt. Frank Di Giovanni, of 512 Park avenue, Monongahela, Pa., has a Junior Patrol of 10 members, and is getting along fine and planning corn roasts and hikes, he tells us in his last news report. He is proud of his armband, too. He asks what a captain's term of office is. Well, that is up to each patrol, Frank, but we had thought that one year would be about right. We think you ought to hold a new election for a captain and lieutenants at least once a year.

Frank Skukalek, of 808 Sixth avenue, Ford City, Pa., has been elected a captain of a new patrol with 12 members.

Melba Kroh, of 501 High street, South Brownsville, sends in a roll of 10 members and five pledges.

We Need New and Fresher Worries

We admit that we are grateful for progress and improvements. They help.

But what this world needs most of all is a new set of annoyances.

We've got a load of the Mahatma and his hunger strikes. Those Indian curries are red hot groceries and would scald the chirp off a fireplace cricket. We prefer a strict diet.

And we would like a new string of Hollywood bathing beauties. The ones that started with Mack Sennett are so stringy they could double for Mack's cops.

We are sick of the eternal struggle between the rabid drys and the wolf wets. And flying around the world is no longer a stunt. Why not fly through it for a change? Stop digging up those Egyptian mummies and handcuff the town clown who thinks it is fun to fry an egg on city hall steps.

The guy who walks down the main street in his pajamas ain't doing anybody any good. And there's one lady aviator who has started to fly the Atlantic seven times. She couldn't fly across a washtub with an armful of humming birds. To the bastille with her. We hope she gets a mole on her chin.

It's the hot weather that finally ferments all these established publicity hounds and causes them to be annoying. You can also toss in the mysterious voice that starts a guessing contest with the telephone. It's your cousin with the thick glasses.

The lady who perspires freely and dances every dance should be legislated into a three-hour week. You can add the benevolent citizen who objects to boys bathing in a park fountain. We'd be in a tough fix if he was the world's leading philanthropist.

That ain't a bad list. Throw in the writer and he would run away head of the ticket.

Is the New York Clearing House Association Lost to Honor?

RETURNING TO the Harriman Bank affair, we continue the reproduction of the New York Clearing House Association's advertisements.

They are all of the same tenor. All bear the names of the twenty-one banks and trust companies, the foremost in New York, which comprise the Clearing House Association. Like those we have previously published, the one we reproduce today calls attention to the constant supervision exercised by the association over its member banks, its frequent and recurring examinations, the protection afforded depositors by the solidarity and mutual support of the association and its member banks.

Our previous discussions of this case have been tempered by the fact that when the question first arose as to whether the Clearing House would make good or renege, nineteen of its twenty-one member banks were in favor of redeeming its representations to the public and manfully going through with the association's moral, if not also legal, commitments to the Harriman depositors. Since then the number of Clearing House members trying to wriggle out of their obligation has varied, but a strong numerical majority is reported as still standing for the honorable line of action.

This cleavage in the clearing house membership—reports reach us of acrid dissension—is the only fact which reflects credit upon the Clearing House in this entire incident.

* * *

THE CASE is not, however, one which deserves much temperance of discussion.

A flagrant wrong has been perpetrated upon thousands of deceived and innocent depositors in the Harriman National Bank.

The Clearing House Association has involved itself in a flaming duplicity before the public, and at a time when every thoughtful man is hoping that the banks of the country can somehow regain their lost hold upon public confidence.

It is a thousand pities that wrong-headedness should, at so critical a time, dominate such an institution as the New York Clearing House Association. Perhaps the self-destructive and uncomprehending perverseness of the Clearing House minority is due to bad legal advice,—narrow, unimaginative, servile advice which seeks a client's favor by soothing his weakness, and supporting his selfish and mistaken impulses.

THE FACTS IN THE CASE ARE DAMNING.

They will not down. The sooner the Clearing House faces them the better it will be for the Clearing House and every bank in the country, including directors, stockholders and depositors.

* * *

THE conditions in the Harriman National Bank must have been known to the Clearing House shortly after April 25, 1932. It was on that date, according to the letter written by C. C. Francis, National Bank examiner, to the United States District Attorney in New York that "the New York Clearing House examiners began their examination" of the Harriman Bank.

From July 12, 1932, until the bank closed it was known to be an INSOLVENT BANK, but still inviting and receiving deposits from the public. Throughout this period, it was under the charge and management of the New York Clearing House Association whose committee had insisted upon replacing J. W. Harriman, as president of the bank, by H. E. Cooper, its designee.

Mr. Cooper's testimony before the subcommittee of the Senate Judiciary Committee is highly illuminating as to the responsibility assumed by the Clearing House. He was being examined by Senator Ashhurst, of Arizona, chairman of the Judiciary Committee of the Senate. The following questions and Mr. Cooper's replies make sickening reading for the friends of the Clearing House:

"By Senator Ashurst: Did you know of the so-called Harriman peculations or the irregularities or violations of the law?

"Mr. Cooper: I knew of them when I came into office; shortly thereafter.

"Senator Ashurst: You say that you knew of the alleged peculations soon after you came into office, and when you say you came into office, you mean president of the bank, do you?

"Mr. Cooper: Yes, that is right. I think I was shown, just before I accepted the presidency, A LETTER FROM THE CLEARING HOUSE EXAMINERS, the CHAIRMAN OF THE CLEARING HOUSE COMMITTEE, in which he spoke of these misapplications of funds.

"Senator Ashurst: During the months of December, 1932, and January and February, 1933, did you become aware of the perilous condition of that bank?

"Mr. Cooper: Yes.

"Senator Ashurst: DID YOU TAKE ANY STEPS TOWARD NOTIFYING ANY OF YOUR DEPOSITORS or any of the stockholders of the situation?

"Mr. Cooper: NO; because WE WERE GOING ON THE THEORY WE HAD THE FULL PLEDGE OF THE NEW YORK CLEARING HOUSE ASSOCIATION BEHIND US and we were PLEDGING OUR BANK WAS NOT INSOLVENT. THAT MADE THE BANK GOOD."

Mr. Cooper replying to a further question, said: "YOU MUST NOT FORGET THAT WE HAD THAT PLEDGE OF THE NEW YORK CLEARING HOUSE, that THEY WOULD SEE THAT BANK THROUGH, which MADE IT A PERFECTLY SOLVENT BANK."

* * *

BUT IT was NOT a solvent bank! The pledge of the Clearing House turned out to be nothing.

It was an insolvent bank, known by the Clearing House to be such,—suffered to continue as a MEMBER bank OF THE NEW YORK CLEARING HOUSE ASSOCIATION,—and kept open for the RECEIPT OF DEPOSITS FOR NEARLY A YEAR!

This is a very grave offense in the eyes of the law, which holds that the mere acceptance of deposits by a bank is a representation of solvency. The taking of deposits when a bank is insolvent is characterized by the courts as "a gross and outrageous fraud." The penalties are heavy and they attach not only to the bank's officers but to everyone who aids and abets the fraud. By permitting it or conniving at it, one becomes an accessory.

Mortifying in the extreme, it must be — at least to some members of the New York Clearing House Association—to find that questions of criminal as well as civil liability force themselves upon consideration in any review of the association's conduct with relation to the Harriman bank.

A long, steep fall for an institution which has held itself out to the public as an exemplar of honorable methods in business, and an alert guardian of the very principle of good faith as it applies to the policies and the dealings of a bank!

"The Maintenance of Conservative Banking through Wise and Intelligent Cooperation"

An excerpt from the Constitution of the New York Clearing House Association

"The objects of the Association shall be the effecting at one place of the daily exchanges between the members thereof and the payment of the balances resulting from such exchanges, the promotion of the interests of the members and the maintenance of conservative banking through wise and intelligent cooperation."

76 Years of Service and Protection to Bank Depositors

SEVENTY-SIX years ago the New York banks organized the New York Clearing House Association to facilitate the conduct of banking in New York and to aid in the "maintenance of conservative banking through wise and intelligent coöperation."

Through the intervening years, through times of stress and panic, the Clearing House has functioned, with a remarkable record of efficiency and service.

The Clearing House today is composed of leading New York banks. The standards of practice established by it, the reports and examinations required, and the supervision exercised by the Clearing House Committee constitute an important safeguard to the customers of New York banks belonging to this Association.

Photostatic facsimile of an advertisement of the New York Clearing House Association published in New York City, emphasizing the long period of years during which the association aided in the "maintenance of conservative banking through wise and intelligent co-operation."

The Harriman National Bank and Trust Company was a member of the association when the advertisement appeared and continued as a member until the bank was closed.

Note that the advertisement said "the standards of practice . . . and the supervision exercised by the clearing house committee constitute an important safeguard to the customers of New York banks belonging to this association."

A Candidate With Ideas

A boys' club was opened in the Strip some years ago. And lo! almost immediately there was a falling off in the number of boys from that section who were brought into Police Court. With plenty of wholesome recreation available in the club the boys were under less temptation to loaf in pool rooms and on street corners and get into mischief.

The improvement that followed the opening of the boys' club in the Strip is brought to mind by a speech that Gustav L. Schramm, candidate for judge of the new Juvenile Court, made at the Thaddeus Stevens School in Penn Township the other night. In this speech he advocated a study of delinquency belts and recreational needs by the court as a step towards preventing children from falling into evil habits.

Schramm is showing himself a thinker who appreciates the Juvenile Court's opportunities for service. In every address he presents some constructive ideas for the prevention and cure of juvenile delinquency.

How important this is may be judged from the fact that a large part of the highway robberies and murders with which the county is afflicted are committed by youths in their twenties and even in their teens—mere boys who might have become good citizens instead of criminals if we had had an alert and properly staffed Juvenile Court to look after them.

MARRY-GO-ROUND

Unseen Husbands

The cruelest thing that a famous woman can do to a nice, regular he-man, is to marry him and put him all out of focus.

* * *

The only sort of man who can be happy with a celebrated wife is one who is so big, so successful and so prominent, that he doesn't need any limelight or so inordinately modest that he is glad to keep out of it. A superman!

* * *

Some day, it may come to pass that John Jones and Jane Doe may be able to stand side-by-side and enjoy the limelight and the plaudits together.

* * *

But, just at this moment the world is featuring its WOMEN celebrities — and the men who have the temerity to marry them are getting an awfully raw deal. Nothing bores the public so much as to see a husband taking up one beam or ray of its Darling's calcium. That's why so many husbands of women in the public eye fade quietly out of the picture and become "The Unseen Husband." Almost any man would rather be completely forgotten than be known just as "Jane Jones' Husband."

* * *

Even a man who can stand on his own achievements and can put up the money for the "Big Show" his wife is making, quivers and shrivels up, at the idea of being known as "MR. Jane Jones." And the less a man has achieved on his own, the sorer and more indignant it makes him, to see his wife getting all the laurels and taking all the bows and plaudits. It fills him with an inferiority complex, and makes him feel like a "failure" or an "also-ran," even though he may be fairly on his way to success. It just takes all the heart out of him!

* * *

The same man, married to an obscure little housewife, who would brag about him to her friends, make a big fuss over him before company, and regard him as the last word in oracles, might become a successful citizen and an important figure in his own community. She might be duller than a poor sermon and plainer than a back fence; but she's be an inspiration to him—not an extinguisher.

* * *

Yet, every third woman you meet, these days, is a "celebrity" of some sort. And, somehow, plain, everyday, nice, unpretentious men are attracted by a famous woman as the moth by the flame.

OUR RHYMING OPTIMIST

Age Shows the Patterns

Age takes away such vivid things:
This sense of wonder and of wings,
This glad response to morn's gay call,
This poignant ache when shadows fall,
This stab of rapture or despair,
Age takes, and leaves its calmness there.

Such lessened life scarce seems to live;
But age has other boons to give:
The gift of quiet, where unrest
So long has ruled the troubled breast;
From many yearnings, a release,

Age shows men patterns which they made
In those young years when, unafraid
Of any challenge, any threat
They knew no menace, no regret.
Age points the meaning of the maze

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

No building has the beautiful lines of the Shelton Hotel. Franchot Tone and Jack Howard look alike. So do William H. Woodin and wife.

Hamish McLaurin, a Denver (Col.) boy, who made good in the city, James Barrett, the crack city editor. What's become of Clifton Webb? Those vague hotels that change their names after every narcotic raid. Six puppies in a window—another hour shot to pieces. Breezy Ben Atwell.

One word description of Frazier Hunt—leggish. George S. Kaufman and his collaborator, Morrie Ryskind. They are now pinning the Dorothy Parker type of stories on Tallulah Bankhead. Messmore Kendall always looks as though he's just stepped out of a barber shop. So does Magistrate Joseph Corrigan.

Always like to see Jim Barton and Ted Healy perform. A certain languor that's arresting. Too many eager actors and eager for what? The Irish brogue of the starter in front of Irvin Cobb's apartment. One of my favorite people—Elsie McKeogh.

They are saying Broadway will be gayer than ever this winter. A great popularity — that of Burns and Allen. And they came in when the show business was going out. Tommy Millard's pearl derby. Overheard: "He's not a gangster, but they better not get tough with him!"

The most depressing metropolitan area is Madison Square at dusk. Blinkered souls fill the benches fringing outer edges and inside walks. Human lees with nut-cracker jaws eddied to the last depth. Like burry gargoyles they stare into the silken twilight. Some so incredibly filthy they occupy benches alone while others have the tarnished refinement of those making forlorn efforts to appear spruce. Most touching of all is the silence. Utterance seems squeezed out. Sprinkled in the mottled array are, oddly enough, sisters of the most venerable profession, blowzy, alcoholically puffed creatures in almost rags.

* * *

Bootblacks are thicker around Madison Square than Brooklyn Bridge—one to every few benches. A shine is the cheapest gesture toward respectability. To a casual the polish is 5 cents but to "regulars" a special tariff of two cents. Unshined shoes are a rarity among bench-warmers although most need baths and barbering.

The Paramount theater, which inspired the undying "shot the wrong architect" wheeze, occupies the site of the Putnam building, so active in vaudeville's heydey when E. F. Albee was two-a-day king. He had a pontifical manner no other showman achieved. I remember writing for a publicity job. Immediately there was a letter to call. He told me he saw everyone who wrote for employment, catalogued them in his highly-indexed mind and in instances executives had flowered. He had a far-away dignity, ministerial gravity and a benignity remote from the flashy, talky world he ruled.

* * *

I asked Mr. Albee what act in vaudeville entertained him most. He seemed interested and searching for an answer. Then, for some reason, thought better of it. Finally he admitted: "I always drop in to see Ben Welch when he is on a program." I had a feeling Welch's vaudeville act was his favorite.

Croquet was the favorite outdoor game among the Long Island lollabouts this summer. Many mammoth estates have croquet grounds where tennis courts used to be. Neysa McMein is an expert among the feminine division and Herbert Bayard Swope is the masculine. Wickets are smaller and mallets larger. Sometimes a game costs the loser $1,000.

* * *

Gwendolyn and Ethelbert, the gold fish, now come to the top of the bowl at their master's approach. It's the reward of two years of patience. Love conquers all!

News items: "She testified that at every breakfast she and her husband had several quarrels and this had extended over a period of eight years."
